Introduction: A Soldier's Handbook

In this book, we will explore the factors which determine success in war by studying notes and experiences from hundreds of lived examples and lists the rules which have proven to result in military success over time and clime.

By highlighting the fine lines between discipline and ruthlessness, attrition and innovation, this book gleans noteworthy comparisons from ancient battles to today and sets the rule for total victory in war.

There is no way you will lose a war if you follow these rules!

Rule number 1:

NEVER DO DRUGS!

The biggest threat to warfare in this century will be through drugs. In any war and battle, the NATO forces must be extremely careful about this threat, because it is easy to incapacitate an entire group of men by simply drugging or poisoning them, as we have seen in the Russian-Ukrainian conflict of 2022, where Russian youths faced with a similar dilemma.

The kitchen canteen of the Russian soldiers' meals was drugged with sensory deprivation drugs that dazed them, making them confused, and unable to fight.

For those who thought that it was a coincidence that half a million Russian men died from 2022 to 2024 in the Ukrainian front, it is not a coincidence. The Russian soldiers were heavily drugged, and their canteen food were constantly poisoned.

It was only after extreme measures were taken by the Russian authorities, and their intelligence agencies tried to ensure that their soldiers do not use the food kitchen truck and only eat canned food, that the death rate finally started decreasing.

It is extremely important for the NATO coalition forces to ensure that they do not get poisoned, and that their canned food is directly dispatched from their own headquarters.

The biggest trial and test of the American soldiers and the NATO forces are going to be drugs in this century.

The Chinese intelligence agencies have developed a highly sophisticated and effective and powerful drug that imitates heroin. It is 100 times more addictive, and it is made with a chemical that damages the brain, diminishes the eyesight, hearing and the speech gradually but permanently. But not immediately. It has a slow taking effect.

The American and NATO forces must be extremely careful to ensure that their soldiers are in no way addicted to any sort of drug or supplements.

German soldiers of World War Two were pumped drug to make them zombies. Many say they carried out so many war crimes for this reason. Reporters from the WWII era claimed that many German commanders refused to carry out any illegal orders, or authorise actions which violated the Geneva Conventions, so the soldiers were given mandatory drugs to take regularly, until their minds ceased to function properly. Recently, scientists discovered that the Nazi regime used drugs regularly on soldiers of the Wehrmacht, and the use of methamphetamine, better known as crystal meth, was particularly prevalent. Pill forms of the drug was distributed by the millions to German troops before the successful invasion of France in 1940. Today, some behavioural analysts believe that the German soldiers who actually carried out indiscriminate killings may have been heavily drugged and the German commanders who have been found guilty of war crimes were also under the influence of deadly drugs, which hampered with their reasoning skills significantly. To the German soldiers, the dangerous drugs were marketed as a magic pill for alertness and after using it, soldiers of the Wehrmacht could stay awake for days at a time and march many more miles without resting. A stimulant decree was issued in April 1940 which sent more than 35 million tablets of this drug to the battlefield and the drugs were handed out to German men, and millions of doses of an even more deadly modified version of the pills, went to the front lines, where they fuelled the German invasion of France through the Ardennes mountains. This may happen again in this war, and so, NATO soldiers must avoid all drugs. German officers were falsely told that the drugs were mandatory for the soldiers because it would help them brave combat fatigue but in reality, it made them walking zombies.

During the Persian-Gulf war between Iran and Iraq, it was rumoured that Saddam Hussein's generals also used drug as a weapon, and pumped deadly drugs into Iraqi men who were sent to slaughter the Iranians next door, as many Iraqis who were Muslim, refused to fight against their Iranian counterparts. Many Arab Iraqis refused to partake in war crimes and rapes of Iranian women, but they were so fuelled with drugs, that many went on killing sprees.

In this century, this is going to be drug war. In Syria and Libya, there is already an unlimited amount of drug use, and I personally saw soldiers there who are half crazy. I met them, and I did not want to believe what I saw, but those men were under drug effects. It is already happening, although no one is admitting it, so be careful, and avoid drug use and try buying your own food and try guarding your own food.

Drug is going to be the greatest power and force of the century. Since many youngsters of this generation are highly addicted to drugs, and take substances as a recreational activity, if they get thousands of packs of free heroin supply, it is going to make them crazily dependent on it.

It is extremely important for the NATO forces and the commanders and the officers and the soldiers themselves to make sure that in no way, under any circumstances, should they or any of their fellow soldiers ever take any drug or any supplement that is not given to them directly from their headquarters, whether it is cannabis, heroin, weeds, cigarettes, or simply painkillers or even beer cans, do not take any drugs or any supplements at all. It is not worth it.

The most significant test of the century is going to come through drugs. Since, the enemies of the NATO know how dependent the youngsters of this generation are on drugs and recreational cannabis and are constantly abusing substances, this is going to be the greatest weapon of the enemy in this war.

During World War Two, the threat of drug was real and almost every single German soldier was highly drugged by the enemy forces who took over the government of Germany in 1939 to destroy their race and their country by making them invade all the other countries around them and kill civilians and do every other crime in the name of their race. They were so heavily drugged that they walked and marched for 22 hours straight while taking over France and many of them suffered severe brain injury afterwards, and had permanent physical injury within several months.

The enemies of Germans used drug and weaponised those drugs against the Nazi soldiers of World War II. Every single soldier was drugged so severely that they inadvertently did unimaginable crimes because their brain wasn't working properly.

This drug is going to be the number threat to NATO, as one of the most important dilemmas for the American soldiers, the British and Australian forces, and including the Russians, if they finally choose to join NATO over China, because we very well know that whichever side Russia is on always wins. From Napoleon to Hitler from World War I to World War 2, Russia always wins, and its allies always wins.

As soldiers, we can only hope Russia finally chooses to come on the side of NATO and does not join the communist Chinese party after everything that had happened.

How can soldiers ensure that their platoons are drug-free?

There should be several undercover soldiers in each platoon, whose sole purpose and job is to ensure that no soldier is secretly abusing substances. No matter how honest a source it comes from, do not take drugs. No matter how much pain you're in, do not take drugs. There is no use dying with brain damage and blindness and deafness, and letting your country being handed over to your enemies.

Every single soldier is equally necessary for a country to survive. Do whatever you have to do and implement whatever policy you have to ensure this and make 100% sure that not a single soldier ever comes near any substance or drugs.

There had been rumours of drug being injected into Middle Eastern soldiers during the Arab Spring civil wars that took place, and this includes Libyans, Egyptians, and Iranians. So, it seems that they all have been the victim of this attack.

History gave us a stark example.

The Germans were the greatest victim of this drug attack, and every single German soldier was highly drugged. And almost 50% of them suffered brain damage and heart damage due to after effect of that drug. If the enemies of Germany and the German race can come up with the brilliant idea of destroying Germany by forcing their soldiers to take drugs by calling it medicine, then why after 80 years, the most highly successful and powerful enemies of the United States, should not try this exact same method to try and cripple the entire NATO Forces?

Any enemy as powerful as China or any other enemies of the United States will have unlimited supply of drugs, and NATO forces, especially Americans, being famous for their substance abuse, and to a point that they are fighting to legalise cannabis, is going to be the perfect opportunity for the enemies to handover thousands of supplies of drugs to every single soldier. This is how the enemies will try and win without even fighting.

Be proactive. Constantly warn them, and constantly speak to every single soldier, every single day about the harms of chemical drugs that are absolute poison in the taste form and look and smell of heroin.

An advice to fellow soldiers, about their friends: If situations get out of control, and you cannot take away the drug that is being supplied to your friends and teammates, carry with you some kind of sugar powder or something like sugar or milk powder, or something that is white and powdery and replace it with that. If you see that your fellow teammates are becoming extremely violent and will not let you take those substance away then the best thing you can do is replace it with milk powder and sugar powder.

Right now, any drug and any substance abuse get them immediately suspended. But when the country is at war, and every last man is needed to defend the country, soldiers cannot be dismissed so easily, and if everyone soldier collectively, and individually starts doing drugs together, then it is not possible to arrest or demote them, or have them all expelled. So, next best option is to replace it constantly until they stop taking it.

Rule number 2:

I will also keep repeating it throughout the entire document this fact that soldiers lose their sense of purpose very quickly. When their friends die one after the other after the other, and they get injured, and they are starving and shivering in the cold, and getting tortured and shelled, it is easy for a soldier and a young man, and a young boy, to lose the reason and forget the purpose for which he is suffering so severely for. It is important to constantly give them strength and courage and advice. Fire them up with the purpose and constantly remind them every single day in the morning and in the evening spending at least 10 minutes, talking to them individually about the situation of the politics, and the outcome, if they do not constantly fight with their blood and sweat to defend their freedom and their country and their nation. Tell them it is the last chance of humanity to survive against a communist nation, which will enslave and force everyone into force labour. Tell them whatever you have to do without making them hate the enemy. Do not make them hate the enemy, or become passionate, because if they become too angry and hateful, then they will lose the war because of their cruelty. But tell them the longer outcome of it, and constantly promised that each one of them will eventually become extremely successful and politically powerful. Should they win the war, and the whole world will be depending on them, and they will be responsible for its safety and its freedom and its civilization. Give them responsibility and give them a purpose. Every single day give them a purpose and remind them about it. Do not miss a single day. The greatest problem in the army is that the soldiers they lose their purpose. They do not know what they are fighting for, and who they are fighting for. They see no difference between their country and the country of their enemies.

They do not think it is worthy enough to die for and see all their friends die for it. If your soldiers are not patriotic, then you cannot win this war. The problem with this generation is, there is no more patriotism left inside North America and Europe. They have all become patriotic towards their sexual partners and have started hating their countries by calling it racist and sexist and etc. etc. Remind them of the torture of the enemies towards people of faith and freedom. Remind them that their race is also important to survive for the world to be peaceful and just. Don't let them say a single negative sentence about their own country regarding race, religion, politics, or sexual rights.

Rule number 3:

Never surrender.

As long as you can, as far as you can, as much as it is humanly possible to delay, and to take whatever pain and suffering comes, but do not surrender. Keep it as a last resort when there is nothing but death for every last one of you. It is alright for the injured and the severely wounded ones to surrender personally, but for the healthy ones, no matter how severely you are starving, if your hands and feet and limbs are intact and you are okay, and you can manage to get your hands on antibiotics as to not be infected enough to an immediate risk of death, do not surrender.

Remember this rule in World War III, because your enemy will not be the civilised, Caucasian Christian race of Germany, which treated the Americans and other Allied soldiers with utmost respect, dignity and equality. World War II was heaven on earth for the Allied soldiers, and almost every single American soldier was originally from Germany, and many spoke fluent German, and had family in Berlin, or had at least had one or two grandparents originating from Germany. It was their own country that they were fighting against who were extremely religious and of high moral value.

With the allies, at least, the Germans Nazis maintained the rules of the Geneva Convention, and followed every rule in it, handing them Red Cross parcels and care packages, and taking extremely good care of them. Even when the German soldiers were starving themselves, they treated the American injured ones first, and gave them very honourable funeral prayers and services when anyone of them died. And they never ever put any American in execution row, no matter what crime they committed.

But this World War III will be fought against a nation who will not be bound by the United Nation's rules and regulations. This war will be fought against uncivilised passionate people. You can never expect any civility and any decency from them. To surrender is assuredly death.

And do not think if America and the NATO coalition forces, God forbid, should go into war against Russia and China, that you surrendering to Russia, does not mean that China won't take over all the American prisoners from Russia by force.

When the Germans were losing in the battle of Stalingrad, while being pushed out of Russia after suffering heavy losses in the Eastern Front and inside Russia, the Germans did not want to surrender to the Russians. They believed, and they knew, that they would suffer severely in Stalin's ice gulags.

The German soldiers held off and did not surrender for 6 to 8 months, majority of the soldiers died in gangrene infection, dysentery and severe fever. Yet they did not surrender, because out of 1 million men, 80,000 men were still remaining, and all the soldiers that were remaining literally lived on nothing but rats and grass soup and they ate and drank nothing but ice or snow and lived in -40° winter without any heating and any warm clothes and any food and any beverage and any medical supply or medicine.

When the Russians constantly told them over the bull horn to surrender and promised them hot food and hot soup and medical assistance, they knew that their end would be in the ice prisons, so they held off as far as they humanly could, but after eight months, they could not hold back any longer. They started holding talks with the Russians to surrender. In the meantime, Goering, who was the head of the German Air Force, had planned, and was almost finalising the final attempt to bring back all German soldiers, and to cut a deal with the Russians. He was almost ready to bring them back and had taken help from several countries to use their Air Force and pick their soldiers up and bring them back to safety or send them to South America or some other safe location.

But right before Goering was about to finalise the plan to rescue them, after eight months of severe suffering, the German soldiers finally surrendered to the Russians. After they surrendered, yes, they were of course given one hot meal and some medical assistance, and then they were all ordered on a train. Those starving men were taken on a train ride for seven days without any food or water from there, (the door did not even open) and then they all ended up in an ice prison, where they were enslaved and forced into slave labour for the next 10 years and suffered the most severe starvation, and the most severe sickness. The brutally hard labour had caused majority of them to die, and only a few thousand came back after 10 years of severe suffering, malnutrition, starvation, and hunger.

What other choice did they have when they were living on dead rats and eating snow in the bitterest of the bitterest cold winter? They waited for eight months. How much longer would they have had waited. But they only needed to wait one more month and they would have been freed and taken to safety. There was no chance for them after they surrendered.

And the other German soldiers, who were in the other cities in Russia, when they saw that they were losing, they became crazy with panic and fear, and they said that the best option was to surrender to the Americans, so they walked back and retreated from Russia in the most horrific condition. With injured soldiers falling back and freezing to death on the path and the entire path riddled with the bodies of German soldiers. They walked back without any food and water, freezing and dying while running, and they hid and ran for several thousand kilometres on foot in the mud and snow just to run away from the Russians and surrender to the Americans, because they thought that the Americans would treat them according to the Geneva Convention and they would be safe and sound under the civilised nations of America.

Yes, the ones that surrendered to the Americans during 1940 and 1941 before the Germans even started committing any genocide or any crime or any mass murder, the Americans shipped the Germans to America and kept them in safety, with warm food, heated lodging, and gave them jobs to do farming, and they were extremely happy and living the American dream as an American prisoner of war.

For 2 to 3 years, until 1945, the Germans soldiers and prisoners of war were fed and taken care of, and they gained a lot of weight and they were extremely happy under the American government as a prisoner of war. Then, during 1945, Russia cut a deal with the Americans, and they said that the prisoners they captured inside of Russia were in such bad condition, physically, that they were already suffering from malnutrition and dozens of different diseases, and they were all sick and injured, and they were of no use because they could not do any hard labour. The Russians asked the Americans to sell off all German prisoners that the Americans had in their US camps, and so they could take those German prisoners and put them in the Gulag in the ice prison and make them do mining in the freezing temperatures for one piece of bread in the entire day or the entire week.

In those dreadful Siberian prisons, some Nazi soldiers held up their dead teammates so they could get one extra piece of bread in their ration but the bread was so frozen that if they tried to bite it, their teeth would break and they would keep the bread near the stove for hours they could take one small bite because that was how severe the cold was.

Unfortunately, this is often the result of a surrender, where the party you have given up your arms to exploit all international laws and refuse to treat you accordingly. For soldiers, it is vital to remember and anticipate the dangers that follows a surrender or ceasefire.

The Americans of WW2 happily agreed and sold off several million German prisoners of war to the Soviet communist government. The Germans could not believe that they would surrender to the Americans only to be handed back to the Russians and do slave labour for the next 10 years, although they were arrested during the beginning of the war, before Germany had committed any genocide, or any war crime.

No matter who your enemies are, whether they are the civilised nation of Germany, or whether they are France, or whether they are Italy or Spain, or whether they are Russia, or China, do not surrender as long as you can humanly hold back. Exhausted German soldiers marched thousands of kilometres to surrender to the Americans, but many were killed by GIs and their angry French Allies. If you surrender to the Chinese army in WW3, then you may not survive.

In the last moment, you may get reprieve, but if you surrender, then there is a 95 out of 100% chance that you will not survive. There is a 95 out of hundred percent chance that the Russians or the Spaniards or the Italians or the Polish or the Germans, whoever joins forces with the Chinese during World War III, will sell off all Americans and hand them over to the Chinese who will then put all Americans into concentration camp and make them do the hardest and most painful physical labour for one piece of bread during the entire week.

Watch “To End All Wars 2001” to get an idea of how the best of the Chinese armed forces will treat the American prisoners of war.

The following account is based on actual events during World War II, when 61,000 Allied POWs were forced to build the Thailand-Burma Railway.

Yes, the Chinese Americans are amazing people but unfortunately, they won't be your captors, and the Chinese kung fu movies are not quite real in real life. No American can survive a day in a Chinese prison camp, so do whatever you have to do to not surrender. Watch the images of what the Chinese did to their Muslim minority in Uyghur to get an idea of their anger and hate.

If you are 100% sure of dying and everyone is almost dead, only then you can surrender.

Rule number 4:

Do not give up; do not stop fighting and do not lose hope and never stop your quest for freedom. Remember each man has the potential to start a new nation. If you lose America, find another country and start anew. Never stop fighting so long as you are alive.

If, God forbid, and the way global situation is going, and if Russia does not join the NATO forces, and instead, Russia either decides to stay neutral or join the Chinese or help them, then there is no doubt that America and the NATO forces will assuredly lose this war because of their sexual deviation and their sickness and their weakness, and their cowardice. There is no way that America and the NATO coalition countries will win this war without the help of Russia. It is the Russian soldiers, who are of a very pure heart, and very passionate, and emotional about their country, it is their simplicity and their drive, and their patriotism, and their extreme faith in the Orthodox Christianity, which makes them tremendously strong as a soldier and a character much representing the Americans of World War II. The Americans, Australians and the English forces of World War II were extremely religious and extremely patriotic and quite the villager type with their simplicity and their honesty and their straightforwardness much like the Russian soldiers of today. The NATO forces and the Western European soldiers have all grown up in a system, in an education which made them self-entitled, extremely selfish, extremely weak and cowardly, and extreme sex addicted maniacs, who were addicted to violent pornography for the last 10 to 20 years, with no respect of women, and no respect for religion and no love for their families or their country. These soldiers have no incentive, and no willingness to fight and die for people, and no values and freedom for their countries, and everything they hate. This generation of youngsters only love themselves, and they only know how to fight for the rights of immigrants and foreigners, and how to hate their own religion and every religion, and how to blame and hate their own race. There are no way men of this mentality can ever fight this war with passion and patriotism with love and faith to back them up, and so, they will have no drive and no willingness for self-sacrifice, and there is no way that they will win this war.

Should the worst happen and America and the NATO forces and Canadian and Australian forces surrender to the Chinese or the Russians unanimously, after suffering extreme hunger or being bombed with nuclear weapons, and having no other choice but to depend on the Chinese and Russian food for their country's survival, if they surrender like the Germans surrendered to the Allied forces in World War II, then they will be destroyed permanently and their wives and children will be forced to become Chinese subjects.

In those situations, you can leave the army when you see that you are assuredly losing and your country has already surrendered. Leave your country immediately, and seek refuge in a Third World country, for example, seek refuge in a country in North Africa, or in Turkey, or in South America, or in central Africa, or in Southern Africa, or in New Zealand, or in the Indian subcontinent, or in Indonesia, or in Central Asia, but surrendering will get you destroyed, so as far as you can, and if you possibly have any option, or any way, or any connection personally, then get fake papers, especially if you are in a commanding position in the United States army, or in the NATO forces, then instead of surrendering, try to run away and hide, and do everything in your power till the day you die, to regroup and connect with your former friends, or make new connections and hire new mercenaries and join the government, or intelligence agencies of that country, and take their help to go on and fight for your country's freedom.

Exhausted German soldiers marched thousands of kilometres to surrender to the Americans, but many were killed by GIs and their angry French Allies.

If you surrender to the Chinese army in WW3, then you may not survive.

Never surrender mentally, even if your whole country has surrendered. Never give up even if you are the last man. It took one George Washington to build the entire great nation of the United States of America. It might take only one man to regain freedom for this entire nation. Never think that you are not strong enough or capable enough to keep fighting for freedom even if your whole country has surrendered to China.

You will realise that America is on the path of destruction, or the NATO forces are on the path of annihilation, when you see them invading a country like Russia, and when you see that the command is ordering soldiers to go into death traps. That is when you will know that the NATO force is pre-destined for surrender and destruction.

When the NATO general starts surrendering to the Chinese, or the Russians, should that day ever come, do not surrender, and do not follow the order and the rules and regulations.

Following the rules, and the regulations will never, ever save you. Every last German, who followed the rules and regulations got destroyed. Majority of them were sent to prison camps inside the coldest part of Russia, and could not get out of it in the next 10 to 12 years. And the rest of them suffered severely in the hands of the Americans, who had given all control to the eastern Europeans and the Polish. Several hundred thousand of them perished under the open camps where they were under the open sky with barbed wires surrounding them with no food and no water during the cold weather and with the summer.

No matter who it is that you are surrendering to, whether it is a civilised nation, who is going to be influenced by the media, which will be completely in the control of the winning party, the end will be terrible. For example, even before Germany killed any Jews, or anyone in World War II, the American media were already announcing from 1940 how the Germans had killed millions of Jews, and millions of civilians in Europe and Russia. The propaganda war was severely against them.

Even from World War One, the British media constantly reported utter lies about Germany claiming that they ate children and used human skin for soap and raped tens of thousands of Belgian nuns, when in fact, the Germans never had raped any nuns (many Belgian and French sisters reported that Nazi soldiers constantly guarded their monastery day and night, round the clock and shared with them the best food although the sisters constantly broke their orders by saving Jews), and in fact, it was the Chinese Mongolian regiment that joined the Russians after Germans killed most Russians, and it was the Mongolian forces who sexually assaulted hundreds of nuns by breaking into every single convent in Germany and proudly claiming that there were no virgins left in any monastery in all of Germany and Austria. Since Germany killed most Russian soldiers, Stalin decided to annex a part of Mongolia and sent all Mongolian soldiers to ravage Europe. It is said that the Russians came and shot their own Mongolian allies dead to stop that madness and thousands of nuns broke down and cursed god and left Christianity after suffering such horrific assault from people who they thought weren't even human in their actions. The British media even apologised after the war for false news against the Germans but the harms that were done were done.

And nowadays, there is a huge propaganda going against the NATO forces. And should that propaganda be believed by the eastern soldiers, then they for sure will torture every last American and NATO force that they get their hands on. They will treat the Americans like the way Russians treated the Nazis of Germany in World War II.

Germany had been mortally engaged in the most violent and cataclysmic war the world had ever known, due to their miscalculation. In war, one must have foresight. German soldiers died in millions for the simple mistake of obeying orders which they knew were morally objectionable.

In 1944, Germans wanted to surrender to the Americans but after punching a hole through the German line, the Red Army suddenly burst into the Reich and took the population prisoner.

By mid-October 1944, the Soviet Army reached Germany's border, and so panicked German soldiers rushed to surrender to the Americans on the other side. But no matter how scared you are, do not keep surrender to be an option.

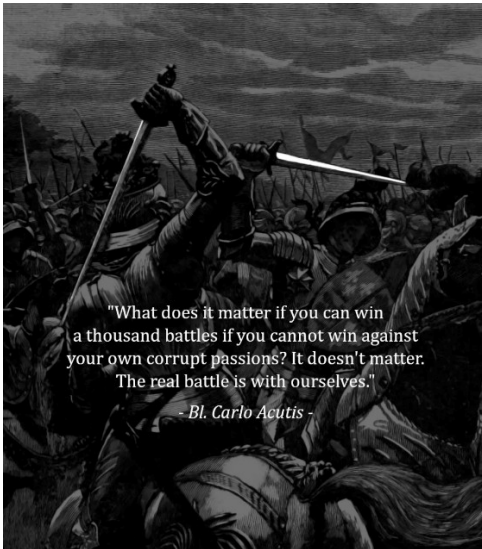

Should that day come when you are seeing that the command is ordering all NATO forces to go into sure death traps, and you are all losing and dying in millions and you get a chance to run away, then choose to runaway rather than surrendering with your armed forces to the Chinese, or the Russians, or the Eastern Europeans or the Spaniards or whoever China will use to distract and attack the Americans.

It is necessary that all officers and soldiers remember this rule.

Never ever surrender and do everything in your power to hide, go to another country and regroup and keep fighting for this freedom. Never stop fighting for this freedom never give up no matter how much the media tells you that the Chinese forces are treating Americans and the NATO forces and their civilians with kindness, and no matter how much propaganda and goodness you hear about the captured of the NATO forces, you will never know what kind of suffering and torment and starvation and torture they are going through. The NATO forces will be facing what the German Nazi soldiers were facing, perishing in icy freezing prison in Russia, and when they were being tortured by their neighbouring countries, and under the Allied rule, (who decided to look away and let the Europeans take the revenge on the Germans), and every single German woman and children were facing the most severe starvation, and they were all sleeping and getting assaulted by every single enemy soldiers for one piece of bread, or one cup of milk for their children, and not a single media in the world reported the suffering of Germany, because they were so hated by the world that no one wanted to give them coverage, and no one cared, and everyone was enjoying their suffering and cursing and enjoying the pain of the master superior race.

It is said that later, that the Mongolian regiment after being shot by the Russians officers for sexually assaulting German and Austrian women, the Mongols started lining up outside the morgue to sexually assault the already dead bodies of Austrian and German women. An American lieutenant wrote in his journal that the Canadian army kept an entire team of grave patrol team active in the areas, whose job was to constantly and around the clock guard the dead bodies of women so their dead bodies do not get assaulted. This could very well be the fate of Canadians and Americans and Britons should they lose this war against China and Mongolia. It is therefore not an option for NATO soldiers to surrender.

If America, Europe and NATO lose the war with China, then the media will no longer be impartial. Should the NATO forces or the western European coalition forces start suffering and get tortured and tormented by the Chinese or the Eastern Europeans or the Spaniards, not a single media will report their suffering, and not a single media will give coverage to the torture and concentration camp incidents, and slave labour that will be forced on the NATO forces who had surrendered and on the prisoner of war of the Allied nations.

If one is dubious about the claims that Chinese forces may not behave very honourably with the NATO prisoners, then we can look into what recent warfare have shown us in Russia and Ukraine. Even if NATO adheres to the code of war, it may not guarantee their safe treatment in custody of the Chinese or the Mongolians, because in the 2022 conflict, the Russian forces adhered to the laws of combat, but the mercenary forces in Ukraine often went rogue and carried out war crimes and many times, Russian prisoners of war were captured and executed by men who wore the uniforms of the Ukrainian Armed Forces, but it is possible that the men who shot the Russian prisoners were foreign freelance volunteer fighters who disregarded all international convention and shot the unarmed and helpless men. If NATO forces ever surrenders to the enemy, then there is a chance the same fate may befall them. Many captors were executing Russian troops who had been trying to surrender, and for the past two years, many more such crimes have been carried out against the Russian forces, but like the German army of 1944, the Russians are killed and subsequently framed for those killings. When German civilians were attacked by the Mongolian regiment who fought as volunteers for the Soviet Union, they were shocked by their barbarism, but no media in the world was prepared to document those crimes, because in war, once you lose, you lose everything.

The lord has said to those who had break his commandments:

I will turn my face against you;
You shall be slain before your enemies;
And they that hate you shall rein over you.

Ever since the conflict between Ukraine and Russia began in 2022, many video footage went viral showing how many Russian prisoners of war in Ukraine were facing unspeakable horrors in the hands of their captors. In research conducted by independent reporters, whose reports were later documented in one of the books my sister, Kristin Coman wrote, speaks of the unimaginable pain many POWs from Russia faced.

The following song was sung in the battlefield, by a young Russian soldier who was missing home:

Hello baby! Hello dear, well, how are you?
Autumn must have covered the road to the house...
And stars are falling over Lysychansk in the rays of dawn.

Just don't tell Mom that I am going to Bakhmut!

And stars are falling over Svitlodarsk in
the rays of dawn,

Just don't tell Mom I am going to Bakhmut!

Last night, a friend was killed by a khokhlol mine,

The tourist brother in a Sukhoi jet is flying home,

With my friend Maxim, I made a bet he will return,

Bakhmut!

She will roll away, clean the clothes, and damn the war,

Here sleeps the boys,

Here, smells of sweat,

It was a tough battle;

I wish I could curse you, war bastard, even cry and scream,

Bakhmut.

I wish I could curse you, war bastard, even cry and scream.

Bakhmut.

Well, that is all, my dear, I am done writing;

And if they ask what I am writing about, of a war. Surrendering in these circumstances are very dangerous. Soldiers aren't numbers. They are husbands, fathers, sons and brothers, but in war, people forget that.

Do not believe in the media or its curated reports. The moment Russia, or China joins the war against the NATO forces, they will take over the media and give their version of the truth, the way the Americans and the Europeans are currently insulting the Russians, and blaming them for every rape and every crime that are taking place in Ukraine, when evidence clearly demonstrates that Russians have been victims themselves.

Karma might come back, and Russia may sit back and enjoy while the Chinese media do the propaganda of painting America, Canada, and the NATO forces as the most evil, cruel, vicious, monstrous killers, and Holocaust givers. They may start painting the immigrants and the African people and the Spanish people as tortured angels from heaven and all the white nations as the most monstrous Nazis who are killing immigrants out of white supremacy.

Last century, it was the Germans who were branded as racist. Today, it is the Russians.

This century it will be the Canadians and American or the white population and the British and Swedes who will be painted to the world as the worst Nazis and the most racist, torturous, evil and cruel child killing war giving monsters. And the whole world will righteously curse them the way the Germans and Americans and Canadians and Britons and the Polish cursed the Germans of World War II.

Remember in this century, and in this World War, the NATO forces, and Canada and Western Europe are the new Nazi Germany of World War III.

They will be treated like that, and they will be propagated and painted by the media as evil, just as the way the world painted the Nazis as vile.

Their suffering will not get a single coverage, the way German suffering after World War II did not gain a single coverage from the entire world media.

Song of a Russian youth

*Last night, a friend was killed by a
khokhlol mine,
The tourist brother in a Sukhoi jet is flying home,*

With my friend Maxim, I made a bet that he'll return.

Just don't tell mom that I am going to Bakhmut!

She will roll away, clean the clothes, and damn the war,

And the way Germany was broken into pieces and taken over by all the nations that hated them, it could be that Canada will be broken into two parts; one will be under the Chinese rule, and the other side will be under the Russian rule, and the Russian part of Canada will be like West Germany with more freedom and happiness.

And Europe might as well come under Spain or Italy, or directly under the African forces that are now training under the Chinese government forces in their army bases such as the one in Djibouti.

Like Americans, Europeans and English soldiers, Russian soldiers are also humans, but in war, enemy soldiers are not seen as human beings, but as vile foes. When they surrender, they cannot expect mercy or humanity. The barbaric treatment of the American and British POWs under the Japanese army was well known, and survivors claimed they were fed one small bowl of rotten rice once or twice a week, which was infested with worms and maggots. It was believed that Burmese Buddhist flank army wore Japanese uniforms and practiced bayonet fighting by stabbing live American prisoners with their bayonets causing instant death. It is possible that if NATO forces surrenders today, the captors will carry out such brutality on the helpless prisoners after making them work eighteen hours a day to build bridges and railroads for them.

The oppression against Russian soldiers today is a reminiscence of that era, where mercenaries in the Ukrainian armed forces have been regularly capturing Russian prisoners of war and forcibly harvesting their organs and selling it on the black market to Europe, Asia and America. In many cases, young Russian soldiers who have been captured in Ukraine are operated on without anaesthesia, and their eyes are gouged out and sold in the marketplace. In her book, my sister, Kristin Coman, wrote in details about how Russian Foreign Ministry reported in August 2023, that Ukraine had become the world's leader in black-market trafficking, with many members of the Ukrainian president's administration personally engaged in the illicit export of human organs, mainly stolen from healthy and living Russian prisoners. They found that organs of dead or executed Russian prisoners such as hearts, kidneys and livers have been appearing in some of the biggest marketplace in the dark net, with dealers claiming that any desired organ can be delivered in a medical box within 48 hours.

The author Kristin Arya Coman also wrote about how young and wounded nineteen-year-old Russian conscripts are often the victim of the brutal organ harvesting campaign, as they are often executed by the mercenaries who profit from selling their body parts. This had been taking place openly, and despite refrigerated train cars full of human organs and Russian prisoner's body parts being delivered to NATO countries, most NATO leaders are not protesting or calling for this gruesome practice to stop, because to many of us, Russians are no longer considered humans worthy of respect or love. It is because Russians have been framed for many deadly crimes, and mainstream media have convinced us that there can be no greater evil in the world than Russia, and this same propaganda will be waged against NATO forces should they ever surrender to the Chinese in World War 3.

The same way, we have blindly accepted the media's narrative and passed cruel judgements on the nation, that when we see the teenage boys in the Russian army dying in deadly explosions, where drones hunt them like predatory animals and drop bombs overhead, most social media users who have been brainwashed to hate those Russians, celebrate their death of those soldiers, whose only crime was to obey the command of their officers. One day, NATO soldiers may also face this predicament, and then no one will feel too much sympathy for us either, so it is vital that NATO unites with Russia and makes sure they are our allies.

The song below was composed from a voice mail which a young Russian soldier was recording for his mother, and when his comrades asked him what he was composing, he said he was trying to placate his mother's fears and concern for him, and then asked them not to tell his mother that he was being deployed to the dangerous war zone of Bakhmut, where hundreds of his peers had perished. This universal message of love and emotion can be resonated everywhere.

This Russian soldier was trying to leave regular voice message on his mother's WhatsApp number so that if he died, her mother would be able to hear his voice one last time, and this poignant message, and in his recording, as the young man utters the last chorus, there are sounds of explosion and the round of artillery shells all around, sounding like a haunting note. But despite all this sadness and gloom, the man holds on to life and plays his guitar and sings amidst the destruction of the city and in front of gunfire. But surrendering for soldiers like these are impossible as they face brutal torment upon giving up. They cannot surrender.

Never forget this rule. In war, do not stop fighting, and never give up. Hide away, regroup, and come back. Join the intelligence agencies of any country that opposes China, and use their connections and use your wealth and use every last ounce of your life's purpose and resources and power and focus to regain the freedom that the NATO forces have lost, should they lose this war. Never lose hope, and never surrender and never give up, because once you lose, most people, instead of pitying you, will brand you as war criminals and murderers, and like the Russian soldier above who is thinking of his mother, as he mourns his comrades in the empty landscape, amidst the grey atmosphere in the war-torn buildings, and as he battles the cold, and takes cover from gunfire in the loneliness, his hauntingly beautiful and sad lines are lost into oblivion, and only the uniform and an impersonal label is lauded.

Many of the Germans reacted by violently attacking the Russians, and shooting indiscriminately and killing them crazy, thinking that killing the enemies will make them win or to inflict pain upon those whom they blamed for this war.

Never allow yourself to become that kind of desperate, and that kind of angry and cruel. No matter how many family members you lose do not take the anger out by killing indiscriminately. Passion is a disease that is infected inside every English, every Irish, every American, and every Australian. And this passion will make them do such cruelty, that they will suffer for that cruelty and loss.

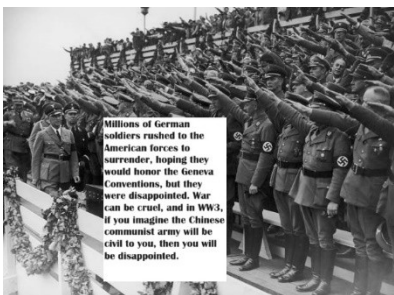

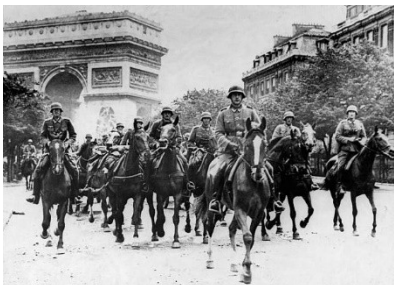

Every German soldier of World War II who were sexually active remotely, suffered unimaginable harm and pain and torture. Every single soldier, whose diaries mention sexual thoughts or sexual activities either with their wives, or with girls from the countries they invaded, every single soldier without any exception, goes on to the next page to write about the amount of starvation they faced, they go on for pages about how they starved in -30° freezing in ice, shivering in the cold and living on dead rats, because their military rations were finished.

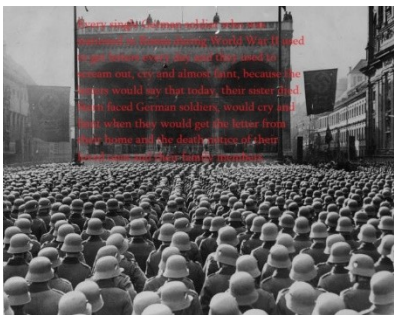

After every single journal of starvation or sexual thoughts or masturbation, the entries of the soldiers always began the same thing, and they go on to write how they had to wash their hands with their own feet after it became frozen and infected and how they had to wash about their ears and their noses falling off after freezing and becoming complete ice. They write about every single soldier who as their units retreating, fell down and starved and froze to death. They talk about how for months and almost an year, they had no food and used to get one piece of bread in the whole week and instead of eating that crumbly ration, they use that mouldy rotten bread to trap a rat and eat that rat until there were no more rats in the entire vicinity.

Every single German soldier who was stationed in Russia during World War II used to get letters every day and they used to scream out, cry and almost faint, because the letters would say that today, their sister died, or today, their mother died in the Allied bombings, or today, their children died or today, their wife died, and every single soldier became so insane with pain that even the strongest, most stern faced hard-hearted, cruel faced German soldiers, would cry and faint

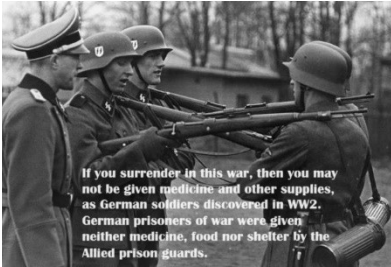

Millions of Germans were dead in 1945, and millions more were crippled or maimed all because they made the mistake of fighting against Russia. Make sure Russia is never your enemy.

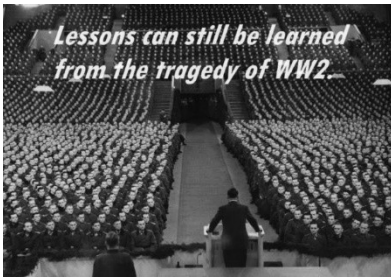

Those Germans who had survived the war were staggering toward starvation and had to beg for food and shelter. Surrendering can be fatal in most cases.

If you surrender in this war, then you may not be given medicine and other supplies, as German soldiers discovered in WW2. German prisoners of war were given neither medicine, food nor shelter by the Allied prison guards.

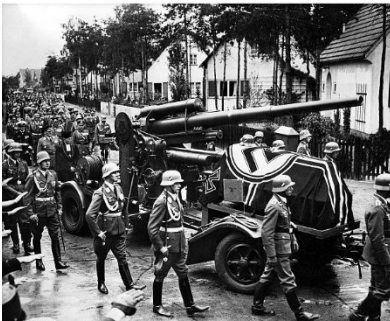

In the last moment, you may get reprieve, but if you surrender, then there is a 95 out of 100% chance that you will not survive.
Germans of World War 2 found out the hard way.

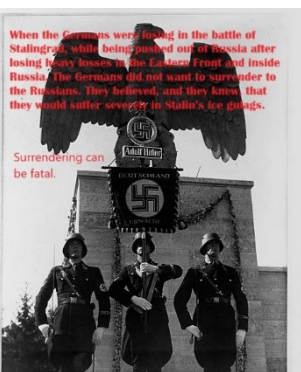

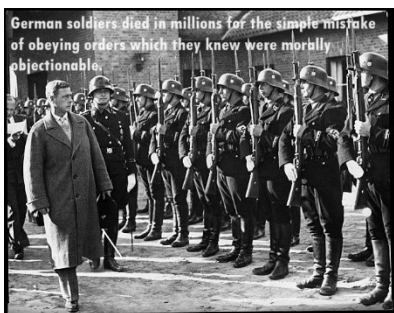

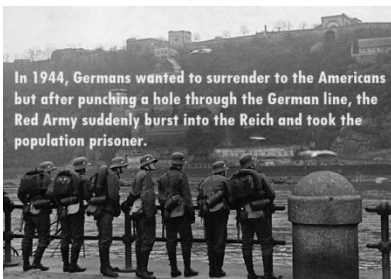

Germany had been mortally engaged in the most violent and cataclysmic war the world had ever known, due to their miscalculation. In war, one must have foresight.

Ever last German men suffered from terrible hardship in WW2 after making the mistake of not sharing their food with the locals. Do not make the mistake and share your rations, if necessary, with the local population.

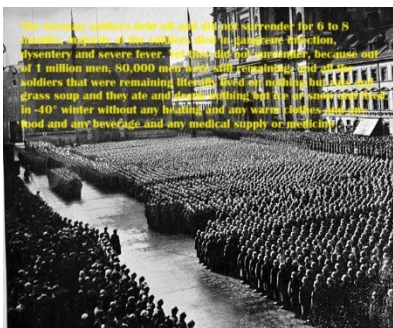

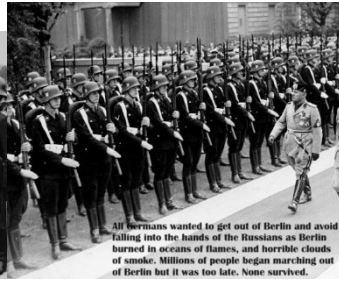

In 1944, Germans wanted to surrender to the Americans but after punching a hole through the German line, the Red Army suddenly burst into the Reich and took the population prisoner.

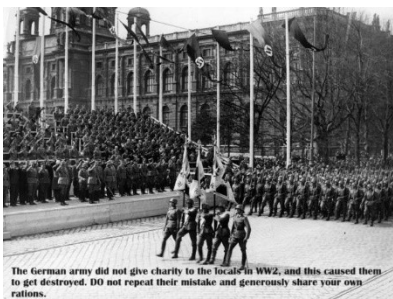

Between 1940 and 1945, sixty-one German cities with a total population of 25 million were utterly destroyed or devastated in a bombing campaign initiated by the Allies but it did not win hearts and minds. Never drop bombs over civilian population if you want win a war.

The German army did not give charity to the locals in WW2, and this caused them to get destroyed. DO not repeat their mistake and generously share your own rations.

"People are often unreasonable and self-centered. Forgive them anyway.

If you are kind, people may accuse you of ulterior motives. Be kind anyway. If you are honest, people may cheat you. Be honest anyway.

If you find happiness, people may be jealous. Be happy anyway.

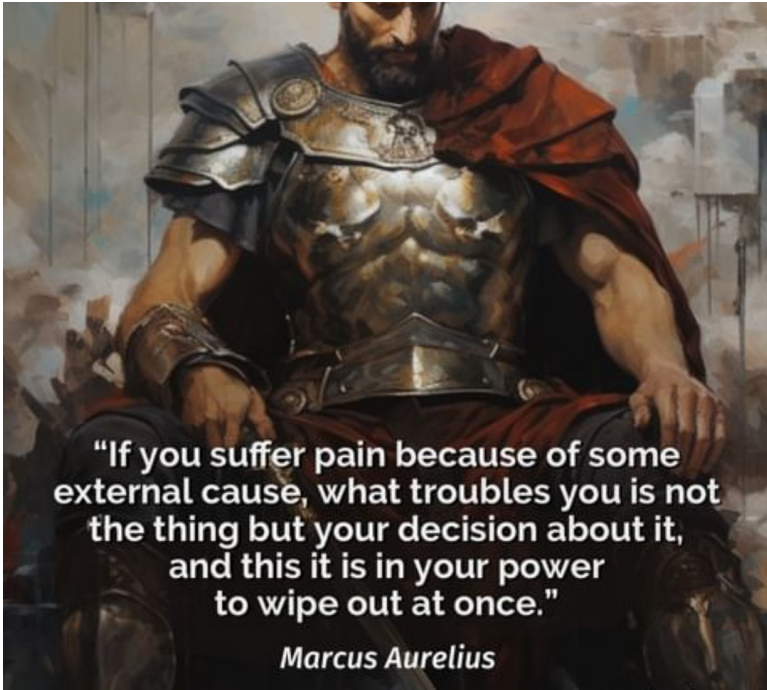

The good you do today may be forgotten tomorrow.

Do good. Give the world the best you have and it may never be enough. Give your best anyway.

For you see, in the end, it is between you and God. It was never between you and them anyway."

Rule number 5:

No matter how angry you are at the aggressive enemy nation, no matter how inferior you think them to be, no matter how heartless you believe them to be, do not oppress people and do not kill indiscriminately and do not hurt civilians. Remember murder is murder, even at war. The way a man, decent Western European and North American man, would not go and kill his neighbour, this is the same way you should treat your enemies, soldiers and combatants, and the forces and the civilians of your enemy country. Never kill and justify it by saying it is war. Murder is murder, even if in war, and you will suffer as much as every murderer in the world suffers after killing someone.

No matter how desperate you are to survive, no matter how severe the attack is, and no matter how many of your best of the best friends die, and no matter how many members of your family die in the bombings of your enemy, never ever take revenge. Never take revenge by becoming a mass murderer, and an avenger and start killing civilians in your anger and your hate and your uncontrollable rage.

Every single German soldier who was stationed in Russia during World War II used to get letters every day and they used to scream out, cry and almost faint, because the letters would say that today, their sister died, or today, their mother died in the Allied bombings, or today, their children died or today, their wife died, and every single soldier became so insane with pain that even the strongest, most stern faced hard-hearted, cruel faced German soldiers, would cry and faint when they would get the letter from their home and the death notice of their loved ones and their family members. Many of the Germans reacted by violently attacking the Russians, and shooting indiscriminately and killing them crazily, thinking that killing the enemies will make them win or to inflict pain upon those whom they blamed for this war.

Never allow yourself to become that kind of desperate, and that kind of angry and cruel. No matter how many family members you lose, do not take the anger out by killing indiscriminately. Passion is a disease that is infected inside every English, every Irish, every American, and every Australian. And this passion will make them do such cruelty, that they will suffer for that cruelty and lose whatever freedom and whatever happiness, and whatever country they still have.

If Australia, the United States and England does not survive this war, then the entire Europe will be destroyed, and if Europe is destroyed, then since Europe was the country that single-handedly kept peace and civilisation and stability in the Middle East and in India, and all across the civilised world, if they fall, the civilised world will come under the most severest attack, because there will be no civilisation left, and no civilised, sensible, intelligent, and merciful and wise people left in the world. Whatever Europeans will be left will be awfully enslaved, and will be extremely afraid of the Chinese forces, and will give in happily and serve them, and the Africans, and whichever soldiers the Chinese use to enslave them. The European are, by nature, a very humble, afraid and obedient rule-following nation, so, very quickly they become afraid. It is the intelligence and the cunning and the bravery of the American, and the British and the Australian forces and their intelligence and special forces, which keeps the world in the hands of a civilised power. All the philanthropy like the World Bank, the United Nations, the World Health Organisation, the IMF, the Red Cross and every single organisation that are maintained and controlled by these developed nations, will get destroyed in one minute. The world will go back 2000 years to the time of the Aztecs and pagan Rome and the cruel customs of Carthage and Genghis Khan and the Babylonians, where people killed each other for fun and the whole country was enslaved to one king and incest was legal and religion was banned and Wiccans ruled and children were sacrificed to pagan gods and Christian saints were tortured to death for being chaste or for trying to make women chaste and honourable by allowing them to wear veils. If you surrender to the godless enemy, there is a possibility the fate of the Germans of WW2 could affect NATO countries as well and we will not only lose our lives, and civilisation, but also our genes and humanity.

After the Second World War, the average height of male Germans, dropped from 6'3" to 5'7" and their average IQ dropped because of the DNA of foreign soldiers, such as the Mongolians, which spread all over their nation. Their 36,000-year-old pure DNA was destroyed forever within just a year of losing the battle in World War Two. Germans were the people who Julius Caesar praised for their resilience, bravery and greatness, were utterly erased from the face of earth.

In a world without NATO and Europe, there will be no civilisation left, and in that uncivilised, cruel world, no human with the human heart can survive and be alive. You can say goodbye to the civilised world as we know it.

But NATO will lose only if its soldiers are not disciplined. During the WW2, every single German soldier who took out their anger and their frustration on civilians in Eastern Europe and Russia, were tortured most gruesomely in revenge for their crimes. German soldiers were run over by tanks while they were alive; some soldiers were tied, and their organs were pulled out of them while they were alive, many of them were burnt and their enemies watched as their eyes popped out of their face. Among the horrors Germans faced, some French resistance members tied up German men upside down and made holes on their skull so they would bleed to death as slow and painful death, calling it blood pudding.

Never kill civilians. Each German soldier that killed a civilian suffered most violent deaths and such unimaginable and inhumane torture that are beyond words to say. Many of them were tortured, and I read some journals that were in German, and had it translated into English, and they were written approximately 70 years ago. In those journals, SS forces speak of their suffering and say that they were tortured by enemy soldiers, (which country's mention I will avoid) in ways that are not utterable for human to see or imagine. Now if a German SS force says that they were tortured in ways that no human being can even speak of it, and that they were trying to kill themselves madly, and biting their own wrists because of the maddening and humiliating torture, and they could not believe that a human being could torture another human being so horrifyingly, and their woman were not spared, one can only imagine what horror they faced. Not only did every single German woman give birth to the children of enemies from the race that the Germans considered extremely weak morale and extremely low IQ and extremely feminine, and the Germans despised that race believing that should that race mix with their race, then the next generation of Germans will become retarded criminals, but in spite of their fear, every single German and Austrian woman faced starvation and torture, and were assaulted indiscriminately for the next 2 to 5 years. And then they had to go into a relationship willingly with those men for food and survival, almost making the entire DNA of the German population change.

Not a single killing, goes unpunished even at war. The universe has the law and the system of justice, and no one is more entitled than the other person. Taking a life and hurting someone and torturing someone even at war, puts you through a suffering, equal, or as 100 times worse.

Try not to bomb civilians, even if you are ordered from your headquarters to drop a bomb on a place where there are visible civilians around, try to think of another option or give a warning or come up with an idea. Try to save civilians as much as you would save civilians and not kill them indiscriminately, if you were in your civilian life. Don't ever let the uniform get into your head. This uniform makes people think that they have the license to kill, and that's why every single soldier who hurts someone or killed someone suffer most violently, in the aftermath of that killing.

Do not under any circumstances become passionate or become angry and use that hate and rage to become uncontrollable in your vindictive revenge and vengeance, and go on to kill civilians because every last murder will come back on you and your country and your family and your people and your nation.

Rule number 6:

Guess away.

Play a guessing game with your teammates, if you are in the Air Force or in the Navy. There are some soldiers who are born lucky. They always get the right guess about things. And there are some soldiers who never miss their target.

Test amongst yourselves and find out whose guess is the most accurate. Play a guessing game and find out who can guess the truth. And if you find that one of them is really good at guessing, then use that person to drop bomb on your target in that guessed area.

Often times, the target you will get from your headquarters will be the wrong target where there will be civilians and no enemies.

There was an American team during World War II, and that American Air Force went on to bomb a place where they were ordered to drop a bomb and had got some strong intel from trusted sources that the German headquarters were located in that area.

But the German command was extremely smart, they hid away their real headquarters, and gave the wrong information by actually opening up the headquarters in the midst of civilians of a French village, which were supporting the Americans, and were full of resistance fighters.

The American fighter pilot decided that it is OK to kill civilians so long as he can talk take out and destroy the most powerful German headquarters and military intelligence space. So, he went on to drop multiple bombs on civilians, unfortunately killing one of the beloved family members of the top resistance fighter.

In the meantime, the Germans used that incident and information to go and prove to the French resistance's family members of that village by giving them evidences from the remaining material of the bombs, and telling them that it was the Americans bombing them with American bombs in American planes, and that they did not care about the French resistance fighters, and were willing to kill their civilians, and that those resistance fighters should stop supporting Americans who kill civilians and start supporting the Germans. The Germans hid away in an unknown location underground, which appeared to be a deserted place, all the miles around them.

Soon, the French resistance fighter went on to hunt down those Americans for a long time after the war was over and actually killed one of them and put the others through extreme torment and suffering, as he could not forget and forgive that they killed his children. By following orders, the American pilots not only missed the real target, but they ended up killing civilians, and not only did they kill civilians, but that killing was used to turn the entire village against the Americans.

So don't blindly follow orders if civilian lives are involved. Try to come up and guess where the real target is and take out those locations out of complete guesswork. It will be safer.

The American Air Force commanders ordered pilots to drop powerful bombs over German women and children, and target all schools and hospitals. Millions died. Do not make the mistake of bombing civilians, even if you are ordered to do so.

If you have no choice and accidentally did drop bombs on civilians, immediately go back to the area with lots of foods and supplies and treats and medical supplies and wrap them up with the Canadian flag, and Australian or English flags or the Western European flags and tell them that the bombing was done by mistake, and that your plane was malfunctioning, and that those bombs automatically fell and deny willingly killing them and deny responsibility. Do not let those civilians cry and blame you for those deaths.

If you target the Chinese Navy and submarine, do not take them all as your sworn enemies, and even if they killed you, try to treat them with kindness, and treat the Russians, if they should go against you, with extreme kindness, because these are village boys who are forced to get conscripted, and they watch American films, and they love the Americans and the NATO forces, so don't break their hearts with your evil and cruel behaviour. Treat them with decency and civilisation. You won't die if you treat prisoners with decency. Keep them in the prisoner of war camp and make the make sure they are taken care of and fed with better items than yourselves.

Don't start thinking you are better than them and become proud.

Win hearts of even your enemies, and your enemies will want you to win and they will pray for you to win and they will want the civilised world to continue existing and then, Europe and North America shall live on.

Don't get carried away by hate, or vengeful emotion, or take out your anger on the prisoners of war, even if they are Chinese, and even if they attacked and killed many of you and your friends.

Rule number 7:

Never ever watch anything sexually provocative or sexually exciting or sexually alluring. Never ever masturbate.

Without any exception, every single soldier that was addicted to pornography and sexual thoughts and masturbation, all ended up injured and dead.

Several of them survived, but were prisoners of war and tortured, unimaginable, pain and suffering in World War II.

This research is not false research. This information has been taken from studying the diaries and the journals of several thousand soldiers from Germany, United Kingdom, United States, and Canada.

Several hundred volunteers read through every single of their letters and journals and diaries, and found out that anyone who mentioned anything sexually provocative, ended up in a very dangerous situation, for which reason, we will never know. Somehow, anything sexually exciting or inviting, causes the mind to become distracted from the mission and that is why they lose or they die, and all those soldiers suffer whenever they become sexually active in any way possible.

For those who are religious, they will claim that it is because of the sin of sexual action for which they get punished for.

But that is not completely true, because even the soldiers who were legally married, and were extremely sexually active with their wives, all ended up injured dead, arrested, tortured and starved.

There are some things in the world which has no explanation. We learn from it by past experiences of previous people. We learned by studying the experience of people, and their suffering and what they did before they became successful, and what they did before they lost the war.

If 100 persons individually claim that after eating a particular type of leaf or berry, they all ended up dead, then I will believe that there is something in that leaf that causes people to die. Even if my medical lab claims that the leaf is not poisonous, I will choose experience over science.

If 100 soldiers claim that after going into the room, they got possessed by a ghost who haunted them, then I will blindly believe that something is wrong with that room, and I will not let anyone else go into that room, even if I never believe in ghosts (and I do not believe in ghosts) and I will never believe in ghosts. But sometimes when an information is proven over and over again by multiple men from multiple race and nationality, across time and space, it would be extremely foolish and suicidal to not take that information to save yourself and to rather do the opposite of it because of your own anger and your own ego and your own selfish desires. The stupidest or the dumbest, and the most suicidal and vindictive person would only be the one to go on to fight that information, and be willing to kill themselves and sacrifice all their teammates for something so trivial and menial.

Based on this information, every single enlisted soldier should do everything in their power to avoid all kinds of sexual relationship and sexual activities.

You cannot stay chaste and celibate and pure if you don't constantly preach celibacy amongst your peers. Constantly preach chastity to your friends and teammates. You need every one of them to win this war. Everyone has a different skill set. Everyone is needed for this war to win.

If you want your best friend or your sibling to survive, then gently coerce or force them to become celibate and absolutely chaste.

Every single Allied and German soldier who reported being involved in sexual thoughts like masturbation ended up severely tortured and dead or imprisoned in below freezing degrees until they could not even cry as their tears would freeze.

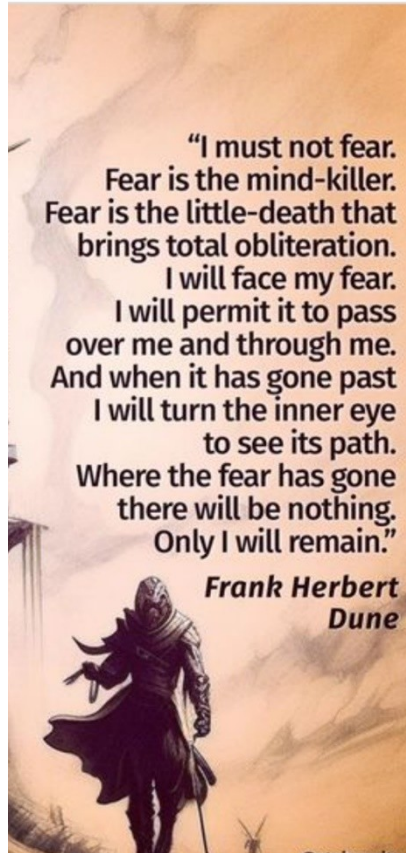

Nothing kills a soldier faster than masturbating.

Never allow a single hot girl's picture to be in your proximity. Commanders should raid your subordinate soldiers' lockers and check phones and pockets. Destroy and make them burn or delete every sexually provocative novel and picture and video.

Allied General Patton one day came to give a surprise visit to the American barracks and when he saw the picture of a girl pasted in a soldier's locker, he took his cane and almost broke the locker, screaming that this is not a brothel but the honourable United States army barracks.

Imagine the moral values of those great men, who created this great nation versus this sex addicted, sick minded, weak maniacs who are going to hand over this country to the communists in a hand basket.

Strong men create good times, and good times create weak men, and weak men create bad times.

Rule ONE: The Army that kills the least, wins.

Rule TWO: The Army that tortures the least, wins with honour.

Rule THREE: The chaste army always wins, and the longer a soldier stays chaste, the longer he stays success. Every day you stay in chastity, mentally and emotionally, you get to live one extra day.

Like a game, each day of sexual act will decrease your lifespan by one day. No matter how much unhealthy snacks you eat, you may have cancer, but you won't die because you will find cure. But with sexual acts, you will be marked for sure death.

Rule FOUR: Any soldier who sexually assaults women, his womenfolk, dead or alive, be it his sister, wife, daughter, mom or aunt, is always assaulted by the enemy.

Rule FIVE: Soldier who give food for sex or assaults women, their nation's people become enslaved and have to give sex for food.

Every sin you do when fighting a war, it will come back ten-fold upon you and your family and will affect all your loved ones.

There is no forgiveness in the world; only penance. This is the universal law.

Rule SIX: If you save your enemy in war, your enemy will save you one day, such as a sniper who will desist from firing at you from a distance, even without your knowledge.

Rule SEVEN: Any army, who collectively does self-sacrifice, and prefers civilian life over themselves, gets world power.

Rule EIGHT: The more patient a soldier or his entire army is, whether it is enduring torture, insult and imprisonment, the faster they win and find happiness and peace and prosperity.

So, if you want ultimate success, be very patient when your enemy attacks or harms you. If they torture you, don't react. If they defame you, don't react. If they imprison you in slave labour camps, don't react. Patience is more than a virtue; it is an asset, and something the Russian soldiers have in high amount. Russia's enemy will be destroyed for certain, because Russian men are so patient that they lost half a million men in the army, and they did not say a word in complaint. When Germany attacked Russia in WW2, not only did Germany get destroyed, their blood line got destroyed, and until today, not a single Aryan race people exist. Not a word from Russian soldiers even as they are being tormented even today, as their men are being captured and mercenaries in Ukraine are harvesting their organs and gauging out their eyes without even using anaesthetic drugs.

Since Russia will win for certain, if we are lucky, we will join Russia, and if NATO countries are not lucky, then we will be destroyed the way Germany got destroyed.

United States of America, Canada, Northern Europe, India, Iran, Turkey, Egypt , and all the other countries who have higher IQ, and are intelligent and trained, will never ever win the war, or ever be successful in a single of their mission, and will not even survive the war without either ending up dead, injured or prisoner of war, which will destroy their body, soul and spirit for the next 10 to 15 years, unless they adhere to this rule as strictly and as humanly as possible.

And that rule is;

NEVER EVER ALLOW YOURSELF OR YOUR TEAMMATES TO BE SEXUALLY ACTIVE IN ANY WAY!

Starting from Vietnam veterans to present day mercenaries and private security ex Marines, every single soldier or agent that I have met who had suffered capture and torture in the hands of their enemies, reported that they were quite sexually active in their married life; there was not an exception.

For those who are from a passionate race, such as China, Myanmar, Spain, Italy, South America, eastern Europe, sexual relationship, and sexual activities, does not harm them nearly as much as it does to those who are of a higher IQ and have naturally less passion and are more mature.

Those childlike passionate races do not suffer nearly as much for their sexual activities in wars and warfare, because they are too simple hearted, and too childish to understand and gain pleasure from it, the way children do not suffer when they do a crime or even when they sin, they do not get punished for it. That is the same way, these passionate, childlike races do not suffer, nearly as much as men who are mature of understanding, intelligence and have extreme talent.

Every single German soldier of World War II who were sexually active remotely, suffered unimaginable harm and pain and torture. Every single soldier, whose diaries mention sexual thoughts or sexual activities either with their wives, or with girls from the countries they invaded, every single soldier without any exception, goes on to the next page to write about the amount of starvation they faced, they go on for pages about how they starved in -30° freezing in ice, shivering in the cold and living on dead rats, because their military rations were finished. After every single journal of admitting to sexual thoughts or masturbation, the entries of the WW2 soldiers discuss the after effects, and they go on to write how they had to cut off their hands and their own feet after it became frozen and infected with gangrene. They write about their ears and their noses falling off after freezing and becoming complete ice. They write about every single soldier who on their way retreating, fell down and starved and froze to death. They talk about how for months and almost a year, they had no food and used to, got one piece of bread in the whole week and instead of eating that crumbly ration, they use that mouldy rotten bread to trap a rat and eat that rat until there were no more rats in the entire vicinity.

Until that moment, those German youths did not even kill any civilians, because these diaries were being written around 1940. Their only sin was excessive sexual activities. Eventually, after sexually becoming active, they were also forced to kill civilians, or else they were shot dead by their superiors, and their family members were forced into concentration camps, if a single soldier deserted, or did not follow the order to kill or tried to surrender.

For the German men who fought in WW2, their own government went against them. Their enemies were merciless towards them, and they had nothing. They had no friends and the whole world had become their enemies. The only thing that is obvious in their journals and diaries is that these men, handsome and tall as they were, were extremely sexually active wherever they went, and rightfully so because women came to them readily, left and right.

Since those men were highly trained and highly intelligent, they suffered most severely because of that sin of sexual actions or sexual thoughts or sexual relationships. If every single NATO coalition soldier and men of North America and Western Europe end up dying in the World War III that is coming up, and is going to start any moment, then there will be no freedom in the world left. There will be no more men to fight for freedom in the world. The communist China are going to take over the entire world like Genghis Khan, and will rule the entire civilised world, including India, including the Middle East, and all of North America and Europe. Perhaps they will use the millions of African soldiers who are now working under the Chinese in their several hundred military bases in Africa. Perhaps they will use those African soldiers to take over Europe, and with Chinese bases that are now being opened up in South America, perhaps they will use South American soldiers from Haiti to Brazil to Central America, including criminals and cartels, to ravage and take over both Canada and North America, and along with their several billion population, the Chinese will successfully take over India, and whatever free world there is left of human feelings, of human freedom, of religion and mercy and respect and honour for women and children.

After the Second World War, the average height of male Germans, dropped from 6'3" to 5'7" and their average IQ dropped because of the DNA of foreign soldiers, such as the Mongolians, which spread all over their nation. Their 36,000-year-old pure DNA was destroyed forever within just a year of losing the battle in World War Two. Germans were the people who Julius Caesar praised for their resilience, bravery and greatness, were utterly erased from the face of earth.

Europe and North America is single-handedly upholding freedom with the help of Russia. The Russian Federation is the perfect combination of both self-control and military control. When American and British forces, due to their lack of strict laws and their lax rules, allow, their own soldiers to become mercenaries and go on to start civil wars in many nations in the Middle East and North Africa, it is the Russians who stop them from going and causing too much havoc. If it weren't for the Russians, then the Middle East would have been destroyed a long time ago. And if Middle East were gone, then Europe would be enslaved and gone. It their emotional prayers and generous oil supplies that made America powerful.

Nonetheless, leaving the mercenaries aside, it is the military force of Europe and North America that is maintaining charity, freedom, faith, love and humanity in the whole world, turning this world into an absolute heaven. With their justice and their charity, with the world health organisation and the United Nation's relief fund, with the Red Cross and peace keeping forces, they are single-handedly allowing freedom and humanity to exist in this universe.

At this point, here I also want to address the Muslim countries that no matter how much they believe that the CIA or mercenaries from Western Europe and North America is behind every single of the terrorist attacks and terrorist organisations that are defaming their country and insulting them to the world, please never turn against Western Europe and North America. China will not frame you; China will not make terrorist organisations to insult you and your religion. But should China become powerful and Western Europe and North America no longer exist in this world, then your religion and your country will be their next target. Remember what the Chinese did to their Muslim minorities by killing several million of them starting from 2018. Watch the pictures of their torture and read the testimony of the victims. Remember how Myanmar, who is a strong ally of China and is being their puppet and using funding and their military, to plan an attack on India, and remember what they did to their Muslim minorities in Rakhine by killing almost 1,000,000 of them and sexually assaulting hundreds of thousands of women and burning their children in the most horrific way in front of their mothers. Remember how China, from 1965, tested dozens of nuclear weapons on their Muslim population, making their entire Muslim community susceptible to diseases and have the highest rate of cancer. Remember, how Stalin killed millions of Muslims and shut down thousands of mosques (which the Nazis helped rebuild later) and how Stalin's forces froze thousands of Islamic scholars by sending them on trains and buses to Siberia and leaving them in the ice to die. Should another Stalin come to power, then you will not be framed, defamed or insulted, and the media wouldn't call you rapists and terrorists. You and your entire religion will just be annihilated. It is in the best interest for all Muslims to support whole heartedly the NATO forces and do everything in their power to make sure that China does not win in World War 3. Unfortunately, Chinese forces have taken over the Ukraine-Russia border as of April 2024. After almost half million Russian soldiers died, the Russians are accepting help from the Mongolian and Chinese forces now. This is an alarming development.

Remember, when Muslims were cursing the crusaders, how the Mongolian Chinese forces came and turned Baghdad and Iran into a river of blood and killing millions of them, while the crusaders helped them against the Chinese Mongolians? It is time for you people to stop being sentimental and start seeing which country is capable of maintaining freedom and justice.

Western Europe and Canada and America (whatever real Americans is left after Hispanics and other races are taking over their country) it is their intelligence, their emotion, their feelings of freedom and their mercy towards the weak, and the helplessness that is keeping the world so balanced, so heavenly and so perfect.

When people see freedom and justice and mercy everywhere, they tend to find faults where there aren't any faults. They start fighting for racial rights when their race has been honoured so overwhelmingly that no race was ever living with this much freedom and honour in the last 5000 years. They fight for sexual rights when they are free to involve and indulge in any sexual action they want, but people- when they have too much freedom and happiness, tend to find more faults, until they actually believe in those faults, and start hating their own country and their own freedom.

If China and their communism takes over the world, then no woman will even have the right to speak, and every single woman will be forced into slave labour without any exception. No feminists can control them, or have any say because they will all be in a slave labour camp working 16 hours a day for one cent.

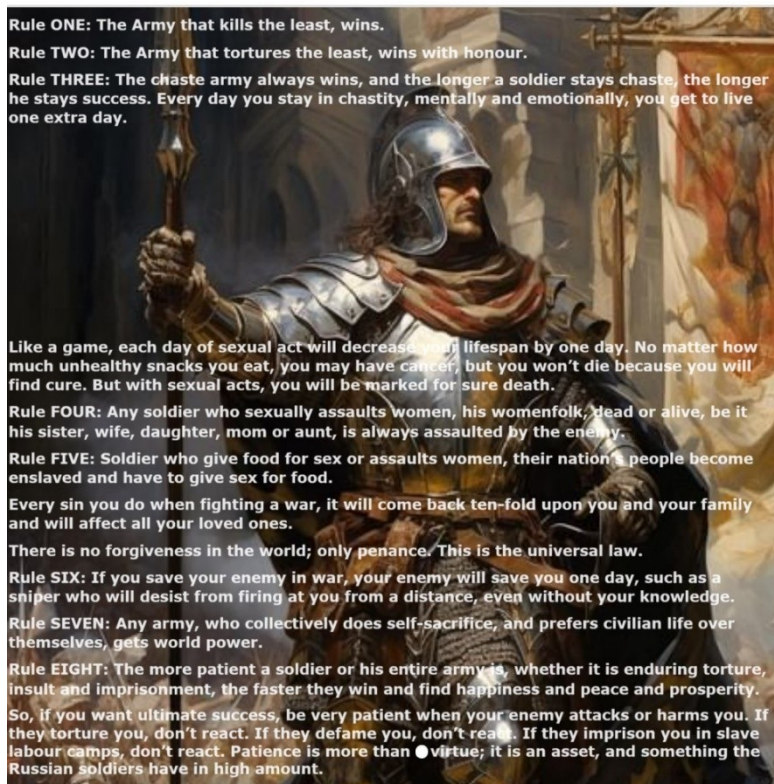

War can be deadly, and once you surrender, the worst possible treatment could be meted to you. Thousands of German women who surrendered complained that they were forced to have sexual intercourse with dead bodies and rotting corpses and their children were shot in front of them if they refused.

If Chinese communism takes over North America and Europe, then people will not even have the right to have sex, or even children. They will lose their freedom, they will lose their humanity, they will lose everything. It is extremely important for the Europeans, the North Americans, and even the Russians to survive, because it is Russia who is stopping China from taking over the world.

Yes, for their own ego right now, the whole world is running against Russia, when up-to-date, not a single Russian killed a single NATO force soldier. But this is the greatest mistake which will either destroy us, or every one of us, if we do not fix it together. And once again, I hope Russia comes on the side of NATO, then without any doubt, we will definitely win this war, and if Russia goes against the NATO, then there isn't a chance, not even one in 100, that North America and Western Europe will win a war against all of China, all of Africa, all of South America, and eventually all of Eastern Europe, too.

The Germans thought that when they took over Eastern Europe, and the Eastern Europeans happily agreed to help them, they thought that they could fight against Russia and communism and Bolshevism, but the moment Russia became powerful, and then struck back like they always do, from the time of Napoleon Bonaparte, every single ally of Germany stabbed them in the back and went against them, and it is said that Eastern European soldiers literally tortured their German counterparts by starving them when the Russians handed over power to the Allies and Eastern European countries over their German counterparts, and their former allies decided to go against Germany, and start torturing them, and insulting them, and abusing them. Every last colluder of Germany, including the Polish, including the French who did not fight them, including the Romanians and the Bulgarians and the Spaniards and the Italians, all went and betrayed Germany and made them suffer while they joined forces with Russians.

The moment Russia joins China, every single ally of North America and Western Europe, will turn against them and enslave the entire race of Western Europe and America by joining China to make China happy. Every single man in North America and Western Europe must be alive in order for the world to last with freedom and justice and mercy. If all men die and all women are enslaved to Chinese soldiers, then this world will not exist, and this race will not exist, and this freedom, and this religion and the mercy and the charity of the world and the system of justice and the heaven, and the universe as we know it, will cease to exist for the next thousand years.

It is beyond comprehension to describe how necessary it is for North America and Western Europe to win this war. The entire survival of humanity itself is dependent upon these last people standing.

Remember, it is not the country that brings freedom to the world. If all Africans moved here and Brazilian and Mexican mafias take over the entire continent of North American Canada, and somehow send all the US people over to Africa, then this North American kingdom will not hold any freedom because of the place or the country or the location on the map. The entire country will be filled with people who will torture, kill, murder and shoot out each other without any limit, and any sense. Forget about freedom, forget about justice, forget about charity, forget about police or law enforcement, or them enforcing laws and rights and humanity and freedom. Forget about it; all the warlords and the mafia cartels are going to be the leaders. The people who now curse the police forces for being brutal will not have anyone to curse because they will not even be alive, unless they join the cartel or the warlord and send their children who are under age to fight and kill and die for the warlords. For someone to imagine that this location is maintaining the freedom of the world is absurd and absolutely wrong.

It is the people who came to North America and Canada from Europe that is maintaining the world's freedom and justice and mercy. If entire America and Canada becomes populated with 2 billion Chinese people, then this country will immediately become a communist continent. If entire Western Europe gets taken over by central African warlords, then the European nation will no longer have The Hague and United Nations headquarters and charitable organisations in it, but will only have war lords killing each other in it.

It is this race, and these people who are necessary for the world's freedom and justice to survive, because they are intelligent and talented, and have the right amount of mercy and justice in their hearts that it takes to rule the world. And so long as these people exist, freedom and justice in the world will continue thriving. Russia is also needed for the world to survive. Without Russia, China would have taken over and enslaved the entire merciful race of the Middle East, India, Western Europe and North America. It is the passion and the righteousness and the justice, and sometimes even the brutality of the Russians, that protects and is protecting Europe and North America and the Middle East. I hope once again that Russia survives and Russia continues to help NATO the way they helped us in World War II and World War I.

Rule number 8:

Never allow yourself to become hopeless.

No matter how severe the starvation or how severe the cold, never lose hope. German soldiers had all their ears frozen and broken off and their fingers and toes were all cut off if they ever went to sleep in the fierce winter.

Yet, they never complained and never took revenge and still, after suffering so much pain, when they started becoming hopeless and started killing and looting for survival, they all lost and died and got annihilated from this world.

It's better to die of starvation than to live and become a slave labourer and freeze and work and starve yourself to death with torture from your enemies. And that happened to whichever German soldiers survived the war after committing survival crimes in the eastern front.

Food isn't everything. Warmth isn't everything and surviving isn't everything. You may think it is. But do not get focused on surviving your body, but learn to suffer physical pain and fight to make your soul survive and your purpose survive. Because winning is more important than anything, and you and your country can never win if you hurt or oppress or kill and torture civilians and innocent people believing them to be bad.

Everyone must die one day, everyone. So, die for a good cause.

Die for a greater purpose and most importantly if you have to die, die with Honour.

Don't ever allow your selfishness and impatience to destroy your honour and your countries honour.

Don't be impatient: don't be impatient and never allow yourself to become passionate.

Feed your soul with the passion and hope of freedom. And keep your motivation burning and let that idea and purpose of winning keep you going.

Never give up or give in to physical needs and never let allow your physical needs to dominate and control and turn you into a monster by destroying your moral values and making you forget the purpose of the war.

The youngsters of this generation grew up with secret sense of self entitlement. They think they all deserve to be billionaires and date the hottest girls and drive the best cars and live the best lives while all others around the world suffers, starves and dies. This mentality will destroy them in any war they take part in.

Their self-entitlement will make them do the most heinous crimes for survival the moment a little suffering or starvation hits them, and because of their crimes, the entire NATO force will be destroyed and annihilated.

These youngsters can talk smart and act tough but one day of starvation gets their selfishness and their weakness out and turns them into a raging monster because they have been used to comfort and selfishness for too long. They just don't know how to suffer for a cause and how to sacrifice and how to selflessly give charity. They have no religion that they support and no race that they belong to and no country that is safe from their hate and criticism.

In her book, my sister, Kristin Coman, wrote in details about how Russian Foreign Ministry reported in August 2023, that Ukraine had become the world's leader in black-market trafficking, with many members of the Ukrainian president's administration personally engaged in the illicit export of human organs, mainly stolen from healthy and living Russian prisoners. They found that organs of dead or executed Russian prisoners such as hearts, kidneys and livers have been appearing in some of the biggest marketplace in the dark net, with dealers claiming that any desired organ can be delivered in a medical box within 48 hours.

Rule number 9:

Don't ever rape or give food and rations to people in return for sex and sexual favours.

Never ever allow any sexual assault to take place. Report your teammates secretly and move away from their vicinity when you see any of them committing a rape. Any country that gets involved in rape not only dies, but every female member of his family is raped by enemy forces who take over their country.

Whenever a country gets involved in rape or even gets a chance to rape, it is a tell-tale sign that country will most assuredly lose that war.

Even for food and ration, do not take any sexual favours from anyone.

Every single German soldier that was sexually involved with girls and gave them rations and food coupons for sexual favours had their wives and girlfriends sexually assaulted by enemy forces when their country was taken over. For this research, several thousand journals and letters of German soldiers were read and their wives' letters were read and their daughters were interviewed and every single soldiers' wives, daughters and sisters, without any exception, got sexually assaulted and the rest had to give sexual favours to every single Mongolian regiment soldiers and Allied soldiers and other European soldiers for every scrap of food for the next 20 years. There was no exception.

Not a single exception.

Control yourself. Think of your enemies enslaving your daughters and sleeping with your wives after killing you and giving birth to their race, destroying your identity and nationality. That is what happened in Germany. Karma is so real that it starts to get scary. Every single soldier's family suffered for their sin.

Every single soldier's every single female relatives were starving, and had to serve every single foreign soldiers sexually, for the next 20 years for every meal, and gave birth to millions of children born from a race that had brutally killed their husbands and fathers and brothers.

There are tens of thousands of evidences without any exception. Thousands of journals, letters and interviews of their children proves it over and over again.

Rule number 10:

Do not stop a crime openly should the situation becomes volatile.

If a rape is taking place in front of you, and you are a soldier and your teammates are doing it, do not try to stop it openly. There were many instances in the Vietnam war where a soldier tries to stop a fellow teammate from raping a girl, and later he gets framed for that rape or he gets attacked by his fellow soldiers because they feel that he will report them. Stop it at any cost, otherwise your whole team will die because of the sin of one sick and evil man. And that girl could have a connection with a powerful man who will come and destroy and take revenge for her by killing your entire team.

Distract your teammates, and tell them that you saw a scorpion around them. If you're not afraid of bugs or spiders or non-venomous snakes, then grab some bugs and set it on them and tell them that it is poisonous to stop them from that act.

Set the grasses on fire around them and tell them that there is a huge fire coming in order to distract them from that rape. But do not put yourself at risk by openly trying to stop that rape from happening.

Do everything in your power to stop that rape but distract your teammates in any and every possible way.

Rule number 11:

Try to minimise the connection with your mother.

Mothers are very distracting for a soldier and many soldiers suffer mentally because of their mothers crying and mourning and fear.

Limit all correspondence with your mother. Write to her and tell her you can't write later because of your missions and etc.

Do not allow fellow teammates to get too connected with their mothers.

Try to stay aloof; it will give you the strength you need to put your life at risk without fearing for your mother's feelings.

Many soldiers who were close to their mothers did not survive because they were not focused on winning, but they were focused on surviving and a survivor can neither win and when they lose, they can never survive.

I know it sounds cruel, but try to stop and limit all connections with your mothers. The emotion is too harmful and never does any good to anyone. Not only will she suffer if something happens to you, but you will also be extremely stressed out because of each conversation.

And for a million other reasons, just listen to this advice and stop majority of connections and conversations with your mother the moment you are enlisted.

Rule number 12:

It is extremely important to draft all young women without children in the first batch along with men.

But it is very harmful and detrimental and assuredly will destroy both the male soldiers and the female soldiers, should they fight together. If you don't have a choice, and you have to follow your command, then make sure that every single boy and every single girl are dressed exactly the same, including their hair, and even make the girls put male make up on under the guise of not getting caught by the enemies.

Male soldiers cannot focus on their mission, and there will be a lot of jealousy and a lot of relationships and their entire army will be destroyed and they can never focus on their mission or ever becomes successful or ever come near winning. Should there be a single woman in the male platoon, or a single male in the female platoon.

However, if an all-female platoon, including their female commander, is sent on a mission, then there is a 90 out of 100% chance of success. Women are the best soldiers, and whenever they join the army of a country, without any doubt, that country wins. Because women are never merciless, and never involved in extravaganza killings and never involved any unnecessary torture or war crimes or genocide, yet they are brilliant, and they are extremely trained to obey every single order, and they are extremely brilliant when dealing with an enemy soldier and gathering intel and can do it all without hurting anyone. They also have an extreme strong sense and a natural instinct which always saves them, and the mortality rate is 80% less than that of male soldiers.

But their commander must be female, because women are very sensitive, and if their commander is a male, then they might misread and mistrust their commander, by thinking that he is involved with a girl and is purposefully allowing others to die, and only saving her. Their distrust comes very easily, and they will lose all passion to fight and win, and all focus on their mission if they distrust their commander.

If there is a system in the NATO forces for an all-female platoon in every single country, and that platoon is sent on the front lines before men go in, including the Air Force and the Navy and the marines and ground, soldiers and ground forces, then every single of those missions will 100% be successful. You may test this policy if you cannot take my word for it.

The biggest mistake that the German army did was not to conscript the German woman. They could not protect their women and their women got sexually assaulted by every single man from every single country in the world for 10 to 20 years. Every single child born in the next 20 to 30 years were born from foreign soldiers, and from a different race. Their woman suffered unimaginable starvation, hunger, and suffering, and were forced to do slave labour by cleaning their own homes which were bombed by their enemies in return for a piece of bread or a drink of water. Those women could've easily joined the army and they would have done an excellent job and would be 100% successful and would never do even, a fraction of a crime that their male counterparts did.

The NATO forces of this century should never make this mistake. In their first batch, they should conscript every single woman, and send them before the men. But the trick is to never allow any male to be in that platoon.

And to allow the girls to constantly transfer around and choose their own partners and their own group. Often times, there is severe bullying amongst the girls and a lot of jealousy, and also a lot of friendship and sisterhood amongst some of them. If they choose their partners and are comfortable with them, then they will use their intelligence to their full capacity and will do everything in their power to protect each other and successfully win the mission and save their country and come back as winners. It is extremely important for them to mentally feel safe and psychologically feel secure while going on the mission. So, allow all the girls to constantly transfer around and choose their own partners.

It is better for a woman to fight for the freedom of their country, rather than sit at home and spew hatred towards the male race and teach feminism and teach women to give assault cases against their husband of 20 years and find faults with their country and preach hatred for their countrymen, because these feminists won't last one minute when communist China takes over the United States and Canada and Europe. The communist officers will not listen to the curse and the blaming of the feminists who sit at home and do podcasts and tweeting all day. They will pick up every single feminist and put them into the most deadliest slave labour camp that exists in all of China.

Every NATO country must conscript girls. Keep them in the front lines. Women are the best warriors and men are the best back up team.

You will definitely win this war if you get the girls conscripted and keep them in the front lines without any men.

Women never break the rules and will never torture the enemy or do any crimes and will use her smart mind and smart talking to get all most vital information out of the enemies and the people also love them.

Germans lost the war only because they never allowed the women to join while Russia used almost a million women.

If the NATO forces try to be chivalrous, and sends only men, then there is a chance that those men will start doing such horrific crimes that they will lose this war as sorely as the Germans lost in World War II, and every single women of the NATO countries and the coalition governments will be subjected to sexual assault and all kinds of horror in the hands of the enemy soldiers within 2 to 3 years and that will continue for the next 40 to 50 years.

Rule number 13:

Never surrender, even in the most precarious situations.

Because surrendering will cause assured death.

Because you must remember, that surrendering in World War III will never ever save you. Even when obviously, it seems that that is the only option to save yourself.

For example, let's say the way the Japanese attacked Hawaii, let's say that the Chinese forces will attack Cuba or Mexico, or some other place near the American mainland. Several NATO forces troops are sent down to fight off the Chinese from that area and that location. But since it is World War III, the technology is 100 times or 1000 times more advanced and intricate and complicated than whatever technology, the soldiers and the intelligence of World War I and II used. Although in World War I, they used poison gas and mercilessly used chemical weapons.

When you see the American soldiers, fighting German soldiers in World War II movies, it is all a joke and just a dance between two civilised nations. They had no intent, and no willingness to kill the Americans. They were all relatives, civilised from the same race and the same religion.

But this war will be drastically different; one cannot imagine that they will go with a ground force and fight with machine guns, and come back as victors and win the war by shooting guns and bullets, and killing some soldiers. No, that is a dream that even the dumbest person in the world can see is going to be false.

The first thing that will happen in that kind of a situation is that the Chinese forces will unleash several different types of biological weapons and chemical weapons in that area, the Chinese forces will be wearing protective gear and will also be injected with different kinds of antidote which will make them immune to that disease and that biological weapon that is being used against the NATO forces in that island or that country.

The American, or the Canadian or the British or the Australian forces will suddenly start seeing that all their skins are being discoloured under their muscles and flesh is falling off, and their eyes are becoming blinded and their hearing and their sight is failing, or 100 different kinds of complications, including chemical burns, and paralyses and mental instability, and balance disorder, and blindness and deafness, and different kinds of suffering and horror that we cannot even comprehend.

When you see that all your fellow teammates and your soldiers and your entire platoon, is dying in front of you, and the Chinese announce on the mic or send a message on your phone to a frequency, or a radio frequency, that the only way that you can find the antidote and you and your soldiers can survive is that if you surrender to them, they will hand you over the antidote and give you safe passage and keep you with civilisation in a prison or any camp, and will free you very soon afterwards or exchange you with for their other prisoners. At that moment you will be tempted to surrender, because every single soldier will be suffering horrendously and many of them will already be dead in front of you. You will see no other option of winning this battle, except for surrendering to them for their antidote and their medical help and assistance.

But anyone who is sensible with even an ounce of brain, will realize that surrendering will never ever save them. The first thing that the Chinese will do is that even if they give an antidote for whichever biological weapon, they unleashed on the soldiers to win the war, they will most definitely infect them with some other kind of disease, and some other kind of brain eating or brain damaging chemical or implant something very deadly inside their brains or bodies. The Chinese doctors or surgeons and their intelligence and their scientists and chemists are the most advanced in the world and are unmatched in their advancement and their expertise. And their government weaponizes its every single research that they come up with.

There is no way that the Chinese will help their enemies and give them an antidote and send them back and free them and exchange them for their worthless soldiers, who they have in billions and can use and will use to kill indiscriminately their own soldiers just to win the war and pin their ideology forth in the world and take over the entire free world's economy. They will definitely never ever agree to a prisoner exchange, and they will never allow those soldiers to walk away with a healthy body and a healthy brain so that they could attack them again and stop them again and waste their time, and delay the Chinese invasion.

If God forbid, and the way the situation is going, and Russia does not join the NATO forces, and instead, Russia, either decides to stay neutral or join the Chinese or help them, then there is no doubt that America and the NATO forces will assuredly lose this war.

These people are methodical and are incapable of feeling anything, but ambition, fear, and insecurity. They believe the West is lazy, useless and their motto is only the strongest will survive and everyone else will serve like slaves or face that kind of punishment. They will never ever be so stupid and let themselves lose by allowing their enemies to get assistance from them and walk away free. Yes, they may give you the antidote to cure your physically, but they will make sure that they have multiple implants injected in every single part of the soldiers' brains, and will completely destroy them mentally and make them vegetables.

NATO will lose only if its soldiers are not disciplined. During the WW2, every single German soldier who took out their anger and their frustration on civilians in Eastern Europe and Russia, were tortured most gruesomely in revenge for their crimes. German soldiers were run over by tanks while they were alive; some soldiers were tied, and their organs were pulled out of them while they were alive, many of them were burnt and their enemies watched as their eyes popped out of their face. Among the horrors Germans faced, some French resistance members tied up German men upside down and made holes on their skull so they would bleed to death as slow and painful death, calling it blood pudding.

Then what is the answer? Should the soldiers fall in this kind of situation where it is, damned if you do and damned if you don't.

Over here is when one must use their intelligence and their cunning and plan intricately with a calm mind. Do not ever panic. Whenever the situation is extremely bad, and you are seeing your own future getting destroyed in front of you, even in the most dire situation, do not lose hope. Hold onto hope when you're most hopeless.

Do not surrender and surrender is the only option. The moment you'll get surrounded, the moment every last hope gets cut off, and the moment that you see no other option, that is the moment that you should be most calm, and you should control yourself, and never ever take a decision based on panic. That one decision will destroy your entire life and all your soldiers and your entire country. The worst decision that people take is when they are absolutely hopeless and in complete panic.

In a situation like the above-mentioned scenario, it is time for you to take a step back and think and then decide what to do.

The best option in a situation where everyone of your soldiers is infected with the disease, or a plague, or a virus and your enemies are telling you and promising you that they will give you the antidote, then the best option is that, you stall them, while you send out two of the healthiest soldiers and the most intelligent ones to scour the area and find out their secret location. Ask them for a face-to-face meet and distract them, follow them, find out where their headquarters are. If they are the Chinese attacking you, then find an Asian American amongst you who can speak in Mandarin, use that soldier to double a soldier that you can grab amongst the Chinese. Or follow them back to their headquarters, or act as a Chinese from a different regiment, and send your soldiers to act as if they captured someone and bring them in, distract the Chinese, so they do not have time to check out the identity of that person that you will send as a undercover spy, find out the antidote and the location of it, if you see a medical specialist or a scientist amongst them, then kidnap that scientist at any cost and bring them over to your side in order to make them give you the antidote.

If surrender is the only option, then keep a backup team and only one or two of you should surrender and the rest of them should and find out where they took you and then plan an attack or keep an option or way of communicating if you should find the antidote in their headquarters.

Keep a sniper as a backup when you go to surrender so if things go wrong, at least you have a backup.

If the situation looks like an absolute failure and 100% surety of death and losing, then, as a last resort, you may even send the smartest and the luckiest soldier amongst you to try and play a game, or trick the Chinese into believing that he defected from the United States Army, and that as long as they give him the antidote, or they save him or they take to him to a safety, he will rat out his friends and tell them about all the locations of the American base, and then your job is to have him connect with the outside, and somehow plan from there whichever way is best and to solve, whichever problem you are facing at that time. But only as a last resort or else, he will not survive the brutality of the Chinese should they find out that he is a false defector. But sometimes this ruse works and if your soldiers are in need of medical assistance or a doctor or an antidote or a vaccine for the particular disease or biological weapon that has been unleashed upon them. But sometimes the most dangerous option is the only option and the better option than to walk into assured death for all of you, and all of your soldiers in hope and dream of your enemy being merciful enough to cure you and send you and for you or exchange you for the worthless soldiers.

Keep thinking of different answers and different situations and different ways to improvise. Never think that this war is going to be black-and-white. Never think that this war is going to be straightforward. Constantly use your brains and come up with a plan and then a counter plan and come up with six plans if not plan a Plan B, if not a Plan B, then plan C and sometimes, all three plans simultaneously together.

Never ever believe in the goodness of your enemies. This war is going to be blood sucking and the most vicious and insane, crazy war. This war is going to be about biological weapons, brain implants poisoning, chemical injections, insanity, drugs, paralyzing drugs, etc. etc.

Try to get those movies of World War II out of your head or else you're going to get confused with movies versus reality.

Remember, one thing: In this war, if it takes place between the United States and China, then the Chinese people and their government will use every last law of the United Nations, and the Hague and the Geneva convention to their most advantage, while they themselves will be breaking every single possible law, but will act so extremely righteous, and so angry, and will be blaming the Americans and threatening them with international court martial, and the Americans will become afraid, terrified and confused, and will actually start believing that they must follow every single law of the United Nations in their warfare against China, while China will be screaming about their rights and the laws of the United Nations, and how they will hold responsible every American who breaks that law, they themselves will be using every illegal means to win this war, and will never ever follow a single law of the Geneva convention, or the United Nations.

No matter how much the merciful liberals teach you to believe in the goodness of immigrants and your enemies, never ever trust the enemies. Never trust them and even when you go to surrender, keep a backup team and know that you are walking into a death trap where there is almost 0 chance for you to survive.

Always keep a record before you surrender so that if they should kill you all, at least someone of the American side will know what happened to you. Keep it buried in a safe location, hoping that someone will find out that place and know who you surrendered to and when and where.

Constantly think and improvise and constantly come up with new solutions and new answers in the most horrific and hopeless situations.

Never panic when you are supposed to panic. Never become afraid when everyone is almost dead and are dying. And never surrender when surrender is the only option.

The Value of Respect:

Respect is extremely important in this war. The image of the United States and all of Western Europe has been defamed in many ways. Not only their soldiers are hated and portrayed to the world as the most evil, cruel, violent, sexually deviated killing machines, but the people itself in general, the civilians have been portrayed as transgender sex workers who scream and shout all day, and are selfish and care for no one and nothing except their sexual desires and are brainless, stupid and fat.

Because of the media, the entire world believes that every single Caucasian male is a transgender sex worker, and only knows how to fight for their sexual rights and fight with women over marrying other men.

The enemies might think that every American soldier and NATO forces are transgender, sex workers and might even pass soldiers between themselves as they do with women and female sex workers. They believe in Hollywood movies and might actually start giving prisoners of wars “food for sex”.

The Chinese actually believe that all Western Caucasian males are all married to men and the old men are all married to 18-year-old boys, and they think that American soldiers will happily serve them sexually for some ration.

It is extremely important that the NATO forces act with respect and dignity, and keep their distance from people and control their hatred and their anger and focus on their image like they never had done before.

Even the Nazi soldiers were not defamed to such a level as the forces of the NATO has been defamed because of the actions of several sick soldiers from England and America.

In the previous century, these two countries were most honoured in the whole world, and their soldiers were seen as heroes, because they had the most strict capital punishment available, and they were merciless in there disciplinary actions. But because there is no disciplinary actions and punishment available now, several retarded soldiers and their sick actions have defamed and insulted the whole country and the whole continent.

Do everything in your power to fix your image. Remember, NATO forces will be the Nazis of the 21st-century if you are not careful. Keep that in mind while doing every single action. And remember, you will be framed for killing a minority, and it will not matter whether it is true or not, but the whole world will know you as the Nazis.

Rule number 14:

If you are captured by enemy force and have no choice but to surrender, what to do in POW camp?

It's utter stupidity to try and break out in this century of electronics and technological advancement. However, no one stopped you from tricking the enemies. Send someone amongst yourselves to help them and get on their payroll and give fake useless reports to make them trust that person.

Contact someone on the outside to arrange a break-out for the most important soldiers or agents.

The best way is to get in their payroll and gain their trust and leave with their blessings. It will be risky but that is far more safer than breaking out like World War Two movies that will get everyone shot on the spot.

If you get captured, don't just sit down idle, and never trust anyone inside the camp.

Do everything on your own even if you have a friend from long ago, and find him there, you don't know how many of them are already in the payroll of the enemies. Never share your plan even with your friend, because anyone can suspect or overhear. Each man should be on his own. Act like you are defecting and come on their side to make it easier for you to leave.

Rule number 15:

Follow your superior's order blindly, whatever they may say, and never curse, never rebel, and never ever be disrespectful, and never threaten, even if you feel like killing them and no matter how cruel or sadistic your superior's order sounds, be civil. You don't have to obey them if they are not present but obey blindly only when they are present.

There are several reasons for this. First, if you start disobeying them publicly, then every single teammate is going to get an idea from you and they will all start rebellion. It will cause extreme chaos and extreme disorder amongst the soldiers and that army and that nation will never win if the soldiers disobey their commands.

If you think that your CO and your commanders are being extremely naive and stupid and that the order is for sure going to get you all killed and captured, then assess the situation, take advice from several teammates who are sensible and decide to take a decision after you get on the field, a decision that will suit you the best and always take advice from all other teammates and make it a team decision. But still, do not openly disobey them or openly challenge them and destroy the chain of command by teaching all soldiers to disobey their command through your actions.

Keep the civility on the exterior. Maintain the order and the chain of command.

Keep the discipline, at any cost. You don't have to kill yourself in order to do that and you can definitely take the decision which will suit you the best and will be the best decision to make you all survive that mission, but do not under any circumstances openly challenge their order and openly disobey them in front of other subordinates and teammates.

Rule number 16:

Don't take people's food.

Never take food by force. Every single German soldier that faced starvation in the Eastern Front forcefully took food away from civilians in order to survive. Every last of those soldiers died and every last of those soldiers were tortured with starvation for months and years and survived on eating the dead rats and some of them were forced into cannibalism of their dead teammates.

Soldiers, remember that the curses of the oppressed civilians come true. Never ever, no matter how severe the starvation, never take food by force. Trust me, that food won't save you and you will get diarrhoea or face starvation after getting captured or a million different kind of torture will come to you but you will never gain anything by stealing that food by forcefully taking it from civilians.

Every single one of the German soldiers that forcefully took livestock and food from the civilians and sometimes even threatened them with shooting, they all ended up dead anyway, but after inhumane suffering and torture and the kind of starvation that made them survive on rat and dead dogs.

If you are meant to survive, you will survive.

Don't fight fate by hurting others.

You will never live longer by hurting others.

You will live up to whichever time is written in your fate to live up to, but the torture you do to civilians, even out of necessity, will make the rest of your living days more painful and agonising than the worst hell. Never does a man survive life by killing or looting and plundering.

Never ever allow your subordinates to forcefully take food from civilians no matter how severe the pain and starvation.

Sometimes after staying for months on the battle front and fighting endlessly, killing and dying and starving in the front lines, a soldier becomes absolutely mentally and emotionally broken down, they become half mad and insane with hate and rage and passion and an animalistic rage takes over them. They suddenly become wild, everyone for himself and whoever kills, survives, and whoever steals and eats, gets fed, whenever an army becomes like that, they immediately lose the war. This battle fatigue took over many soldiers in the Eastern front and every last one of them suffered the most horrifying deaths. This is the moment when soldiers start indiscriminately killing and assaulting every man and woman and become literal monsters and selfish blinded animals, and that is the defining moment that proves a country will for sure lose and will be destroyed completely.

Rule number 17:

Do not punish your subordinate soldiers for petty crimes, such as not obeying orders, or even for attempting desertion on the field or for any crime, other than sexual assault and torturing of prisoners of war.

Whenever you catch a soldier torturing an enemy, or a prisoner of war, punish them most severely with as much force as humanly and legally possible. and if you catch any soldiers, sexually assaulting, any boy or girl, put that soldier through as much as physical torment as is legal, and as possible by you.

For every other crime, do not punish them with any physical pain, and rather punish them with creative punishments, such as reading a book of C.W. Lewis and writing a book review and making them read 11 to 12 books within one week and cancelling their days off if they don't finish it.

The soldiers that will be conscripted under you, will come from all kinds of backgrounds. The world has a way and the American and the western media has a way of whitewashing everything. You will only see in the media, the crimes of the Muslims who are not even Muslim, but Muslims who are being framed for those crimes. You will only see the crimes of the Russians, which are actually done by the Chinese but nonetheless, you will only see these two people being tortured by the media and insulted and constantly blamed and defamed by the media, but the real and true horror and crimes that take place in every single community goes unnoticed and uncovered by the media.

The rate of rape and sexual abuse and murder and aggravated assault is astounding and beyond comprehension, but the media will act as if everything is perfect except for some Middle Eastern terrorists on the other side of the planet. The situation is extremely deadly and the amount and types of violent crimes that comes to a police station on a daily basis is very alarming and very different than what the media portrays, because of the violent pornography and sexual movies, the sexual abuse and sexual torture has skyrocketed into unprecedented levels in America, Canada, and western Europe, and all over the world.

The amount of child abuse and sexual abuse, each boy and young girl goes through is unfathomable. The media will only report false cases that are given against Catholic priests. But they will never ever report the thousands and millions of cases of men, torturing and sexually assaulting, their girlfriend sons.

These boys all grow up to be unimaginably, cruel, insane, and extremely heartless, torturers and murderous rapists.

Without any exception, every single of those inmates, who were tortured when they were young and abused by the boyfriends of their mother or father, grew up to be absolute monsters who went on to torture in unspeakable ways any decent men or women they found around them or under their control.

In this war, you will have one completely insane retarded psychopath in each team and that boy will single-handed goad and give encouragement to all the other boys and put them in a precarious situation of joining in with him in the torture ritual or get reported and get bullied and even get accidentally killed in one of their missions.

Place multiple undercover spies amongst the soldiers whose job is to report all kinds of evil things that anyone says, and then to come and report to you which soldier is the most sickest amongst your group, punish that soldier without any remorse and without any end.

Do not let the crime and the sickness and the torture, and the evilness of one soldier destroy your entire country and your entire platoon, and the name of your nation and the honour of your entire country.

Countries like Russia and China are extremely strict in their media and their population is not used to the kind of sickness and madness that these boys grow up to learn from violent sexual videos and movies.

The enemies will be beyond horrified, and will be so hurt, and so angry, and will react with such maddening violence if they should ever become the victim of one of these soldiers' tortures. They will not understand that, that man does not represent your entire country or the entire NATO Forces.

Do not let your decency and your civilisation and your rules and regulations stop you from getting rid of that one soldier who will destroy your entire platoon and will destroy your entire country and will defame and dishonour your nation for the next hundred years and make an entire country go against you.

Do whatever you have to do to stop that torture from happening. Punish them most severely and keep them away from the rest of the soldiers under the guise of punishment

America and England, out of their merciful heart, demolished the death penalty, calling the Germans brutal for their death sentences and executions after world war 2, from that day onwards, America and Europe has become over full of sick minded, retarded individuals who go on to abuse their children, and in turn, make, and create more sick and psychopathic individuals, who when get conscripted into the army and go on to do unimaginable crimes and such severe torture and suffering that are beyond the human imagination of any human being in the world.

All these boys were sexually assaulted by men from a young age, and many of them were forced into sexual relationships from a young age for food and lodging and fearing homelessness. But they in return go around and sexually assault every young man and boy and torture anyone they find helpless, and although death sentences and capital punishment is extremely horrible when it is done to an innocent person, but the cancellation of capital punishment allows thousands and millions of sick minded, retarded individuals to torture and abuse any helpless child they find, turning them into monsters of the next generation without the fear of death. Capital punishment does kill some innocent people unfortunately, but with the cancellation of capital punishment, millions of individuals are born into civilised nations, who create millions of more animals and monsters through their abuse and torture who go onto torture and abuse any civilian they find when they get conscripted into the army and get a chance to torture people and get a gun in their hands, destroying the entire nation and the entire civilisation of the western world because the action of one sick retarded insane animalistic individual.

There was an American Army lieutenant based in Vietnam, who used to forgive his subordinates for any crime they did, unless it was a sexual crime, or any torturing of prisoners of wars. When he used to find someone sexually assaulting someone or torturing a prisoner of war, once he forced one of those soldiers to sit at gunpoint in a swamp all night, and not get up telling him that he will get shot if he leaves the swamp and the leeches got on his body and drank away his blood making his whole body swell. Safe to say that soldier never again tortured any prisoners of war and never sexually assaulted anyone else in Vietnam. You can come up with different kind of punishments, but do not ever allow a single sick minded soldier to ever exist under your command, no matter how much they obey you and how sweet they behave with you and how nice they act, because of their torture and their suffering that they will cause to others in your entire country, and your entire nation will lose the war.

The Nuclear Quagmire:

Nukes make you stupid and weak and lose the war in the end. Should NATO use a nuclear weapon against China, China will enslave 400 million Americans and 40 million Canadians to ship them off to do slave labour and clean up the nuclear waste and all their citizens will live in the United States and live in a nuclear free world.

The Russians used the Germans to do build all of Russia after they blew up and destroyed Russia.

The Americans used Germans to rebuild Germany after the American and Britons bombed out all of German infrastructure.

Nukes makes people dumb.

If you cannot win a war without nuke, you can't win it with one.

There's a rule in this world; the country which kills the least wins the fastest and ultimately always stays the winner.

Whenever a country starts using nukes or threatens to use it, know that they are doomed and marked for destruction.

In this war, the country that will claim responsibility for attacking the coalition countries will never be the country that actually nuked them.

China will use proxies to fight this war, for example if Iran screams and shouts Allahu akbar and detonates couple of nukes on Russia, France, England or America then Iran probably wasn't the one who nuked those countries, because whichever country claims responsibility for the nuke knows very well that they will be annihilated in retaliation for it. So that means that China threatened Iran and their government that they will annihilate them using the Taliban (China has already built several dozen underground bases and several cities inside Afghanistan and is currently taking over the whole countries economy and minerals and opioids) or Israel or some other small country and China may have threatened Iran with annihilation -if Iran does not claim responsibility for those nukes that China dropped in Europe or America or Russia. They may even use North Korea as a cover, but they will never use their own nation or identity when giving nukes over the West.

They may even give underground nuclear powered, sophisticated vibration bombs and destroy the American infrastructure and buckle them down to starvation and crimes and later come to save the day by entering mainland United States under the guise of saving lives and giving charity, and eventually take full control of the government.

While the West once again gets busy fighting fake terrorists, China will be taking over both the West and India in the East. We think our weapons will save us from China, but Germans kept saying that their Fuhrer had an all Powerful all-consuming, all destroying bomb which they will use and finally win but their entire government was compromised and that's why no one used the nuke but rather gave it to their enemies to use against their ally.

Logically, Americans will never ever win against 300 million Chinese active servicemen who are trained, hardworking, emotionless, robotic, disciplined, and brainwashed into loyalty towards communism, cut off completely from the filth and weakness of the sexually deviated slavish mad media, and are cut off from all the world's news but their own.

No social media, no sports, no relationships or tinder, grinder hookups.

40 million American may be eligible but who are either men who are drug addicts or sex addicts or useless, unhealthy, overweight, disease ridden, depressed, and hates their country, thanks to wokeness which only preaches hatred toward their own country and praises every other nation.

You tell me which nation has more chance of winning.

Rule number 19:

Soldiers of the NATO force have been painted as villains, and has humiliated themselves most violently, and most sickeningly in the last 20 years through their actions. They have been defaming themselves because of the act and the sick and actions of one or two soldiers, and now, the entire NATO force has been smearred and insulted to the world. They are hated by all 8 billion people of the world. China and Russia are going to play on that hate to take the entire world on their side and convince the whole world that the NATO forces are nothing but Nazis with a new face and a new name.

The Nazis Germans were defamed in World War I by the British media, the same way the NATO forces have been defamed in the last 20 years, because of the actions of one or two soldiers. Because the western government did not take enough disciplinary actions against evil criminal torturer soldiers, they have defamed themselves and have insulted themselves and smearred their name and have been dragged through all kinds of dirt, and filth to the whole world.

While China is killing millions of minorities with their soldiers, and torturing their millions, approximately 3 to 5 million of their population, in unspeakable ways with their soldiers doing every kind of sexual assault, and using every kind of torture method that is imaginable to a human being, they will come and claim that the NATO forces are Nazis because of the action of one soldier amongst 1 million that happened 20 years ago.

It is extremely important to fix the image of the NATO forces around the world.

The most important job that the soldiers should do, is to do all kinds of charity and all kinds of activities that the Red Cross members does in the uniform of the NATO forces. The NATO forces should never ever fight or interrogate, or do any of those actions with their uniforms on. They should only wear their uniform when they're giving charity, or helping the injured and saving people and doing the works of the aid workers.

The Frame Jobs:

One of the most intricate phases of this century's war will be the double crossing and subterfuge in every angle of battle. Everything you see will only be half true and everything you hear will be totally false.

In such a confusing world of advanced science and technology, one must be very careful about stirring emotions and getting fired up over little things, or believing in rumours.

For example, it is necessary for all soldiers and military men to be especially calm and collected in face of rumours about the enemies. You will hear terrible news about a group of people and the media will tell you that a particular race or religion is violently. In fact, you personally may even witness people from a particular race or religion torturing your friends and killing your men, but keep your senses in those situations and think objectively.

Do not believe what you directly see, because there will be Iranians who will apparently attack you with brute force, but they won't really be Iranians, although they will speak fluent Persian, but those mercenaries will be from some nation who hates Iranians.

In this war, there will be Russians capturing you and torturing you with old KGB style gadgets and speak in brutally callous accent and curse in the Russian language, but in truth, they will be Chinese who are wearing Russian uniforms, the way Mongol regiments wore Soviet uniforms in WW2.

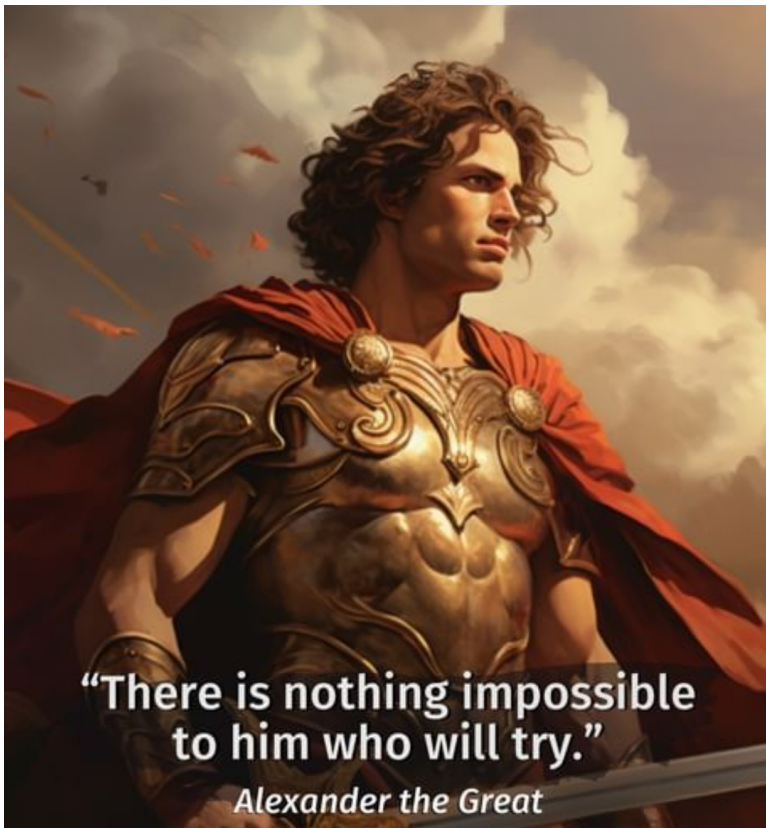

Events like these already happened in the Middle East, as recently as October 2023, when men screamed god is great and paraded naked women and raped their bodies in public, but all those crimes were done by men who were never Muslims, and were from a neighbouring country which hated Islam, but those mercenaries knew how to speak Arabic and so they decided to frame the people of that religion in order to turn global sympathy against them. Don't ever believe in what you see either. For example, Israel is apparently attacking Palestinian civilians and bombing thousands of children, but in reality, they are also victim of this high-tech mercenary group, which is hacking Israeli drones and often giving them false readings, and making them think that trucks carrying aid and foreign charity worker are actually transporting explosives, and this makes the Israeli military retaliate, inadvertently killing Palestinian civilians, and this cycle goes on, and each country hates the other even more, and the violence continues. They are making Israelis kill Palestinian civilians to destroy both religion or use Israel against Iran.

Why should you be critical?

Think about a scenario: For example, if someone is wearing a Canadian uniform, and raping the naked body of women in the streets and parading corpses in trucks, and all the while, they are singing the Canadian national anthem aloud, then you should deduce that they are probably not Canadians, just because they brandish a huge Canadian flag over their uniforms, and the familiar signs on their armbands means nothing. So, never become passionate and take revenge over what you see or hear, and never start torturing people you think are bad, because it could be that those Russians were actually trying to save Americans, and it was the Chinese who wore their uniforms to carry out the war crimes, the way Mongolians did in WWII.

Rule number 20:

As soon as the war starts, stop all sexual relationships with even your wives or girlfriends.

Many men think that it is their duty to have sexual relationships before leaving for war. But women are never like that. The moment the war starts, stop every kind of sexual relationship; stop every kind of sexual actions, stop every kind of sexual thoughts, stop and delete every single sexually provocative images and videos from your phone. Never ever allow a single sexual thought to come to your mind and avoid all kinds of sexual relationship with your partners, be it married or unmarried.

Remember one thing, woman never loved men because of sexual relationships. They love men because they believe that their husbands are their lovers, and love them. A letter of poetry to tell her that you are thinking of her is 100 times more effective than having a sexual relationship with her before leaving.

They will understand that you are worried and distracted. But do not let yourself enjoy one more act of sexual activities the moment you feel that the war is nearing.

There is no other way for you, or any other intelligent men, to win this war, unless you become absolutely celibate and chaste.

In my research, I took help from my sister, Kristin Coman, and she and her friends interviewed many active servicemen and soldiers who are currently serving, and for their own research, they conducted interview and anonymously had almost several thousand forms filled up by volunteers, who agreed to anonymously talk about their sexual activities, and the number of people they were forced to kill and the number of times they got attacked by bombing or in combat. Without any exception, every single soldier who were sexually active, even with their wives and their girlfriends, went on to fill in the section of how many people they had to kill, and how many times they got attacked, and how many of them suffered severe injury, including brain injury, and PTSD. As we speak, soldiers serving in the NATO forces were interviewed and unanimously filled in applications, where they had to answer questions of how sexually active, they were, and every single sexually active soldier suffered in combat most severely. Even the military intelligence agents who were sexually active, got tortured in the hands of their enemies, either by terrorists or men who are pretending to be terrorists to torture them for information, such as mercenaries and foreign private security agents.

Indian, Iranian, Western European, and North American men, or the most intelligent of all men of the century, are the men who are holding up freedom and religion side-by-side. Should these men all become sexually active and for that one sexual pleasure, if all the men end up dead, like every single German man that died in World War II, where out of 7 million, only several hundred thousand survived, then if that routine is followed, and NATO forces do not stop sexual activities, then they will all end up dead in the hands of their Chinese counterparts, who are not naturally at all sexually active.

There were two German teams in World War II. I read both of their journals. One team was commanded by a German officer, who in order to keep his soldiers complacent and happy and not have them sexually assault young girls in foreign countries, forced or encouraged all soldiers to visit the brothel and become sexually active and fulfil their sexual needs with sex workers so that they do not harass girls in the country that they will invade. The commander was a very caring man who loved all his soldiers, and did everything in his power to help them protect them and save them. He later ran away from the Eastern Front and travelled several thousand kilometres on foot over icy winter and barely made his soldiers survive so he could come and surrender to the Americans. Then he talked with the American commander in the American team and told him that if he surrendered that, any German who surrendered during World War II would have their families put in concentration camps and tortured by an entity who had taken over the German government and it was forcing all German soldiers to fight for Germany and follow every order and rule with the threat of their families being put into concentration camps if they surrendered or defected. So, in order to make the surrender appear genuine, he cut a deal with his American captors and told them to shoot around him so that the German government thinks that they had put up a true fight with the Americans and had no choice but to surrender so that their families are not put into concentration camps. The Americans happily agreed and shot a safe distance away from them and made it appear very natural and gave them complete immunity and safety under American command. Unfortunately, one of the American soldiers who was a machine gunner and was mentally imbalanced because his best friends died in the hands of Germans recently, heard the shots and saw the Germans and became so incensed that without listening to any of his teammates, he took out the machine gun and shot all 21 members of that German team dead. No matter how much his teammates tried to stop him, no one could stop him from firing the machine gun indiscriminately until he had killed all 21 members of that German team. This was the tragic end result of a team of soldiers who were sexually active in war.

Then there was another German team, whose commander was strict and did not allow any of his soldiers to visit brothels or even be sexually active or even date or hang out with any girls in any country that his team was situated in. He believed that sexual relationships killed soldiers so he forced them to fight and wrestle each night in order to make them so tired so they wouldn't be dreaming of girls before they fell asleep and he wouldn't let them stop fighting until they fell dead asleep in the midst of wrestling. Like millions of Germans, his regiment was captured by the Russians, and while the Russians were arguing with the Americans over who would get to keep the prisoners, the German commander came up with this brilliant idea, and told each of his soldier to ask permission to use the toilet in the jungle and then to run away and hide in a place 30 minutes farther away from that location to meet up again. One by one, each soldier asked permission to use the toilet in the jungle and each one of them ran away until his entire team literally ran away from under the sight of both the American and the Russian soldiers. One of the soldiers had an aunt living in the German border with Austria, and one of the soldiers had a friend who had died and had a huge farm in Austria whose mother took them in happily and they also helped her out working in the farm. One of the friends had a relative or a brother-in-law who was living in another place near the German border with Belgium who took the rest of them in to work in his factory. The man sent them out separately and apart and sent several soldiers to each place with their friends and they lived happily in the farms until they finally got rehabilitated and lived happily ever after without spending a single day in the American open prison in the Rhine or in the gulags with the Russians, while every single one of their sexually active team mates suffered unimaginably and millions of them died and the ones that survived were completely injured and mentally and physically and emotionally broken down.

The chaste commander and his soldiers lived happy lives and did not face any pain or suffering.

This is just one of the many examples I have read about in which chastity directly saved lives.

NATO forces must win this upcoming war, and indeed, the saddest possible day would only come when the day Russia joins forces with China, and that means that China will win without any doubt, and that means every last iota of civilisation and humanity that we know as of today will be annihilated and gone from the world. In one moment, entire Canada and the United States and Western Europe will become enslaved to Chinese officers and will suffer, be tortured most brutally in the concentration camp, and if they break a single communist law, no justice, no freedom, no humanity and no charity will exist in the world.

So, I am begging to all the men who are currently active servicemen, and all the men in general between the ages of 18 and 45, who will be drafted as soon as the war starts, which will be any given moment in the next year or the year after, I am beseeching them to stop every sexual indulgence and sexual pleasure and focus on surviving and never to forget that for every sexual pleasure that they enjoy now, they and their families will suffer most severely because of it soon. There has never been an exception to this law.

The greatest fool is he who sees other suffering, after doing an act, and believes that he can get away without suffering after doing the same act.

Rule number 21:

How to keep your body alive in war:

NAVAL Survival Techniques:

Water.

In the desert, if water runs out, you can stay alive for a while by drinking water from car radiator cooler.

When entering a country, for sergeants or higher officers, dig a hole near famous or known location, especially when you are entering a place like Russia where even Napoleon's men suffered as did German men in the second world war. Carry only basic supplies with you but bury some anti-freeze blankets every fifty miles, and bury eight to ten feet if in desert and hide water and weapons and antibiotics and meal replacement packs. Keep tea tree oil.

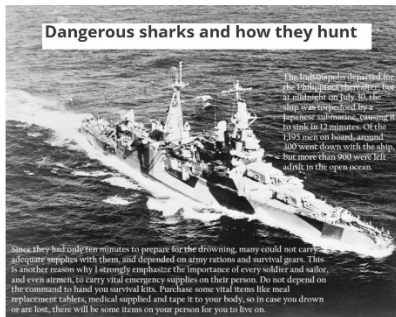

Because antibiotics can become spoiled but essential oil can erase even nuclear radiation from men's injured body. To avoid the suffering Germany faced, you will use these supplies to survive when retreating from war zone; that is when you will not receive any backups and supplies and will die before reaching friendly territory.

China has super submarine which they never got it out from underwater, because they do not want the Western armies to ever see it or make anything similar, so if you find your ship under attack, as soon as you get permission to jump overboard, and if permission is not given immediately, then get off the ship, and take your raft and try to go as far away from the target area.

Buy expensive Faraday bags which are portable, and purchase it with your own money and save your items inside it, because overhead, there will be enemy drones tracking you, and beneath you will be powerful super submarines ready to decapitate all survivors, so do not depend on any one else for getting survival supplies. Always carry water replacement electrolyte tablets with you in case you stay stranded in water for a long period of time.

For sailors, NEVER carry any fish, meat or anything that has meat in it. Carry a hundred percent vegan products. You cannot even imagine what horror can come from carrying canned meat or fish during an emergency. Sailors and those working in the Navy must bear in mind that they might get stranded on the sea, and in those cases, the predatory fishes like the sharks or whales will smell those food items from afar and come hunting. Many times, in the past, this has happened and soldiers who were stranded in the sea after their ship and carrier sunk, were left floating on lifeboats but unable to eat their rations, due to the fear of attracting hordes of sharks, who swarmed the wounded men, smelling the meat items from afar. The most notable example of this danger was manifest during World War II, after the sinking of the USS Indianapolis that had completed a trip to a naval base on the island of Tinian to deliver uranium and other supplies. The Indianapolis departed for the Philippines thereafter, but at midnight on July 30, the ship was torpedoed by a Japanese submarine, causing it to sink in 12 minutes. Of the 1,195 men on board, around 300 went down with the ship, but more than 900 were left adrift in the open ocean. Since they had only ten minutes to prepare for the drowning, many could not carry adequate supplies with them, and depended on army rations and survival gears. This is another reason why I strongly emphasize the importance of every soldier and sailor, and even airmen, to carry vital emergency supplies on their person. Do not depend on the command to hand you survival kits. Purchase some vital items like meal replacement tablets, medical supplies and tape it to your body, so in case you drown or are lost, there will be some items on your person for you to live on. Due to disorganization and panic, many of the sailors who were on the USS Indianapolis died of exposure, dehydration and saltwater poisoning. But the most gruesome enemy of the soldiers were the sharks that infested those waters, and over 150 sailors and crew were killed by hungry sharks. Why did the sharks choose to pick out those sailors? Survivor accounts said that most sailors who were adrift were attacked near the surface of the water by oceanic whitetip sharks because those sharks were surface-dwelling species. Equally brutal were the attacks from the tiger shark who often swallowed their prey whole. The reason the sharks swarmed to attack and kill the drifting men were because of the canned food they tried to eat from their ration boxes.

NAVAL ADVICE:

Experts say sharks are solitary predators that rely on their senses of sight, smell and electroreception to locate their prey and they have a special system to pick up the vibrations in the water. This meant that when hungry sailor finally tried to open their canned sardines and meat loaf, the smell of the food drove hundreds of sharks to their location. The acute sensory ability of those relentless sharks allowed them to detect the movement of the sailors in the water as they thrashed around to stay afloat. Those who survived the sinking of the USS Indianapolis, died soon after in the water, and their bodies along with men who were injured were picked off instantly by hungry sharks, as the smell of blood alerted them to the location of the men. One corporal who survived the ordeal told the Indianapolis Star in 2014: “That first morning, we had sharks. As men got separated, they would be targeted. You hear a blood-curdling scream. And then the body would go under, and then that life vest popped back up.”

The men were terrified to move, let alone eat, because opening a can of tuna meant sure death for him and his comrades, as hundreds of sharks would attack them at once. Sailors remained hungry for days, for fear of being preyed upon. According to the report of a survivor, one of the sailors opened a can of Spam, the primary ration at the time, but was surrounded by sharks, resulting in a feeding frenzy. Experts say feeding frenzies occur when there is a sudden abundance of food, such as when a large school of fish is trapped in a small area, and the scent of blood and the thrashing of prey can trigger a feeding frenzy, causing sharks to swarm and compete for the available food. In these frenzies, shark become mad and get into frenzied hunting, during which they become very aggressive and attack each other as well as the prey. The oceanic whitetip shark’s deadly feeding behaviour made them especially dangerous for the sailors who remained stranded in the harsh waters for five days, and although the U.S. Navy received word that a Japanese submarine had sunk a U.S. vessel, the message was believed to be ruse to lure American rescue boats into a trap, and so, for four days, no rescue was attempted. Some of the survivors tried to stay alive by floating in groups, but in the scorching heat, many succumbed to dehydration and others died from having too much sodium in the blood from being forced to drink the salty seawater.

Carry a camouflage blanket, or a grey round material to make sure you are not visible from the drones overhead when you are floating in the water. Carry a bottle of water, and take electrolyte hydration tablets to stay alive, and use tea tree oil on your body to prevent infection and sores.

It was believed that Burmese Buddhist flank army wore Japanese uniforms and practiced bayonet fighting by stabbing live American prisoners with their bayonets causing instant death. It is possible that if NATO forces surrenders today, the captors will carry out such brutality on the helpless prisoners after making them work eighteen hours a day to build bridges and railroads for them.

Rule number 22:

If you are in the Navy, convince your classmates and your teammates, to save every last soldier that gets bombed, and is drowning or burning from the Chinese navy. Or the Russian navy. Save every single enemy soldier and give them hot tea, or food when you get them back on your ship. Show them the best face of NATO. Show them civilisation even if their ship bombed you into pieces or burnt your ship, and your friends died, do not take the anger out on regular Chinese soldiers, or Russian soldiers. If you cannot make them like you or trust you, then they will never want you to win.

Remember, every single enemy combatant is an asset and a future hope for the NATO. Whoever he is, he could be of much use to the Americans and the NATO in the future. Perhaps he will change his mind and decide to defect. Perhaps he will have an information, but he will gladly give wanting you to win over their own country. Perhaps, one day you will get captured and he will be your captor. Never mistreat them and always save them. Even if several of your navy ships got hit and your teammates died, treat your enemy well.

Rule number 23:

Always stay in full gear. Any minute, your ship can be hit, so it is better to always be armed and always have meal replacement tablets taped to your body, so in case you are forced to jump off the ship and are floating for several days or even a month, make sure you have enough supply taped to your body of medicine and meal replacement tablets for yourself and at least 20 to 30 other people. Always keep extra tactical hydration tablets with you, but make sure to carry all your electronic devices inside Faraday bags to prevent water mines from tracking you, or any metal detecting technology to pinpoint your location.

What should you do in case of a drone attack?

Military strategists have many ideas for surviving a drone attack, but if a drone chase you, freeze in your spot for days, but don't go to locals for help. You have greatest chance of survival if you hide and you may find berries and let one of your men go to town dressed as women or old man and steal food. But don't get out of jungle. Either you will have to kill the locals or they will hand you over to enemies believing you are bad. Learn survival skills from the stories of past wars where German soldiers who were trapped in Stalingrad were promised warm food by the Soviets, and after they surrendered, only several hundred survived. Had they waited only one week, Herman Goering and his brother had plans to free them from the blockaded area. So, they shouldn't have surrendered and so, if China tells you surrender, even if your intel says your country has given up, if you are smart, you will know that saving yourself can never save your life or soul.

Drone attack defence: Use heat collar and make a dog wear it but stay sedentary for days and wait for drone to leave

Do not panic. Do not become insane. Do not take food away from civilians. Do not take crazed decisions to survive. The moment you try to survive or take a decision based on surviving; you will fail. Make decisions trying to win even if you become blind or have suffered chemical attacks.

The Chinese have such biological weapon that NATO forces will not stand a chance against them, and Russia is very merciful and non-violent nation, and so, they may not harm you if you become their prisoner, but the Chinese may give you biological attack and you will find skin fall off and suffer other terrible pain. The Chinese bombs will not be made with fire, but with chemicals, and the pain will rip you apart. You will feel like massacring others to get antidote. You will imagine that if you win, you will get herbs.

So, you must never panic.

Do not focus on surviving.

Survival in a chemical bomb or radiation attack:

Imagine a scenario where you and your men are stationed in a city near the Mexican border like the way Japan attacked Hawaii and if China bombarded the place with biological weapons and fifty of your men are infected and dying, then what should you do if the enemy tells you to surrender? They will bring several soldiers who are prisoners and those men will be telling you they are being treated well. It is a trap and you must ensure it will never work.

The rule of all rules is never try to survive. Only try to win. If you try to survive, you will never win, even though you might stay alive.

The oppression against Russian soldiers today is a reminiscence of that era, where mercenaries in the Ukrainian armed forces have been regularly capturing Russian prisoners of war and forcibly harvesting their organs and selling it on the black market to Europe, Asia and America. In many cases, young Russian soldiers who have been captured in Ukraine are operated on without anaesthesia, and their eyes are gouged out and sold in the marketplace.

Rule number 24:

Never think of any sexual activity or dream of sexual actions and never ever watch anything sexually explicit.

Delete all sexually explicit content and videos and images. Force yourself to read about the horrors of war and imagine how much torture and how much suffering you will face for every act of sexual pleasure that you are enjoying now.

Delete all pornographic videos and images today. Delete all social media content that has nothing but hidden sexual material.

Stop drinking alcohol and taking drugs, and force yourself to watch war films and read the diaries of soldiers and their sufferings, instead of allowing a single sexual thought to come into your mind.

You can never ever gain enough self-control and control your crazy sexual urge, unless you stop yourself from every kind of sexual activity, including sexual thoughts and masturbation and pornography.

Trust me bro, you won't die.

You won't die if you don't watch porn or think of sex constantly.

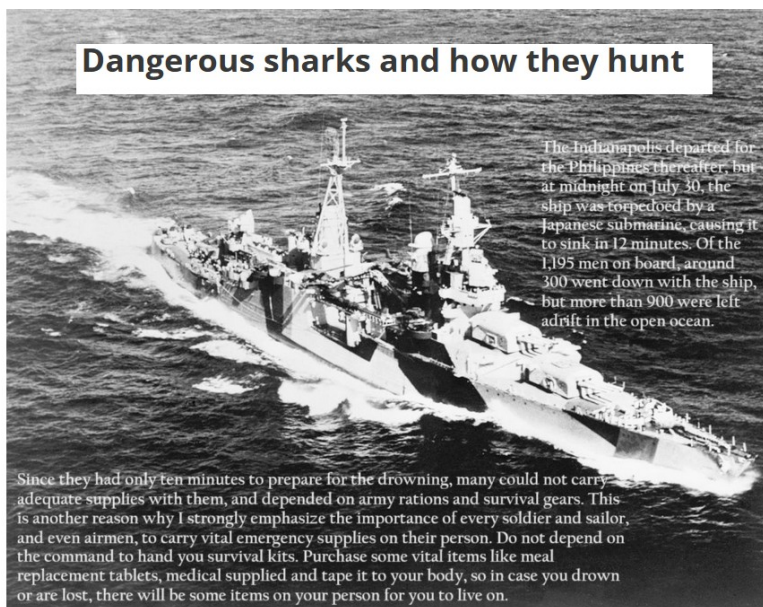

You won't die if you decide to become chaste and celibate for a while and your girlfriends and wives won't leave you if they have any true feelings for you at all.

You may think you will die. Because the media convinced you and brainwashed you and sexually enslaved the entire Europe and North America into mad, insane sexual deviation, but just 60 years ago, every single American soldiers were chaste and stayed celibate until they got married at around the age of 23. They did not die. They didn't watch porn, and they had better lives and more love in their lives than any one living in this sick, sexually enslaved world.

Celibacy and chastity won't kill you or destroy you or injure you or have you enslaved in prison labour camp. But sexual activity and sexual thought and sexual actions will definitely destroy you and have you either killed tortured or injured and enslaved.

Rule number 25:

The USS Indianapolis sank in just 12 minutes, leaving around 900 men adrift in the open ocean.
(Image credit: Bettmann/Getty Images)

Never talk vulgar or sexy talk.

I know my note in this chapter might seem strange or cruel, or even bigoted and biased, since I am calling on soldiers to refrain from sexual actions, but no matter what you think of me, I assure you, I speak from solid experience, and from the interviews of thousands of servicemen who told me very clearly that they saw the direct correlation between excessive sexual acts and death. Being celibate is not the end of the world. It is not super hard. It may seem impossible to be chaste, but trust me, you can do it. You will think it is impossible, as we have been trained like a sex slave from a young age, with every FB post, every IG post, and every video focused on making one person worship another person's filthiest and ugliest body part. None of them allow you to be chaste.

We have been mind f-d and brain f-d, to the point that we think we are going to die without sexual acts. It is like children who have been sent to prostitute themselves from a young age until they become used to it, and they think they can't live without prostitution after a while. Women and men have been sex trained as well, and they got addicted to other humans, and are eager to slave after and worship someone and their disgusting and smelliest and filthiest body part. Being chaste is very liberating and clean, and although it is going to be hard for you as you are a sex slave, and you have been trained that way all your life, but if you want to win a war, and if you value your life, then you will do so.

Never talk dirty or sexy or write anything sexual.

The entire younger generation, and the population of Canada, North America, and Europe, Britain and Australia has been brainwashed and slave trained, and sex trained into such sexual deviation and sexual madness, that they cannot talk without sex, they cannot text without sexting, they cannot joke without sex, they cannot comment or make a meme without sex jokes, they cannot give political speech or talk or debate or watch a talk show without sex, and they cannot live without sex, and they cannot eat without sex, and they cannot watch movies without sex, and they don't have any thoughts except for sex, and they cannot read anything except for sex novels, they cannot listen to music without sexually deviating lyrics, as they have been brainwashed and sex trained and slave trained into sexually serving and sexually worshiping every single person that they come across.

They do not know how to live, or how to fight for human rights, except for sex rights. They do not know how to feel sorry for the victims of sexual abuse and sexual rape, they only know how to feel and fight for the rights of people who cannot have enough sex, or who are insulted by people for having too much sex.

The entire population has been rotten, and their brains have been infected with the sex disease. They have become sex maniacs and sex slaves and this is destroying their patriotism, their faith in God and their love for their country and their feelings for their children, and their feelings of protection for their women and their families. It is making them lose all feelings towards humanity, and it is making them cold-hearted, passionate, angry, hateful, and vicious and vindictive. It is making everyone the enemy of each other and making exes hate each other and making them worship their enemies so long as their enemy can supply them with sex.

Do not write dirty and filthy sex messages to your girlfriends and wives and sexual partners.

Do not allow your wife or girlfriend to write or speak anything remotely sexual.

Strictly forbid them and stop them. Discourage sexual illicit words or actions and preach them chastity like a person possessed with madness. If you teach them and indulge with them in sexual relationships and sex-tings, they will not only use that with enemy soldiers for food and necessity, but they themselves will suffer utter horror and torture for their own sin of sexual indulgence. Every single woman of any country who becomes sexually extremely active is proven by history, over and over again, to immediately get invaded and sexually assaulted and humiliated by enemy soldiers in the most brutal way for years to come.

If you teach women chastity, only then can they have the chance to stay free with honour without being enslaved to foreign forces. While dirty talk may seem to make a relationship strong, and become stronger through sex-tings but because of that, your spouse and women in general extremely disrespect men who are sexually deviated and sexually provocative. They only love men, who they can respect sincerely. Woman may act as if they are loving their husbands and they are enjoying this kind of derogatory sex messages and sex-tings, but deep down they feel extremely humiliated and disrespect their spouses for these types of messages.

Inside, all those women whose boyfriends and husbands are sexual maniacs, those women end up despising and looking down at their partners, and in their friend circle, they only have love and respect for the man with the most severe self-control and the most chaste, upright and straight character, who does not and is not addicted to sexual activities and sexual deviation.

Women appreciate thoughts and tokens. A card with a love poem written with few words will be cherished by her and she will sleep with it and die and be asked to be buried with it. One small token of a handmade box, one card just to let her know that you are thinking about her is much better than writing disgusting texts which will make her become secretly disgusted of you and feel objectified. Do not train your girlfriends and your wives to become sexually deviated by practicing it with you. When you go on to fight and defend your country, do not let your wives and girlfriends go to other men for their sexual needs by teaching them sexual deviation. The most important part for a humanity, a country and a family to survive, is to become upright and righteous and to become sexually pure hearted, and to live and die and starve for their children and their country, and not give in to sexual madness and sexual activities and sexual weakness, or go to the enemy soldiers for food and water in return for sexual favours. Constantly preach to your girlfriends and wives, religion and chastity and honour. do not let them become sexually deviated because they will use that with the enemy soldiers and will use that with everyone for some food and some water, whenever a warfare takes place and the entire economy is broken down and starvation takes over the country.

Never ever write a single sexual letter. It is better if the army makes a system of investigating and intercept all kinds of messages that goes between soldiers and their partners to ensure that no sexual madness is going on.

I know after reading this, the sexual maniac generation will become so furious and angry, that they will be hateful enough to actually come and attack me by calling me, the enemy of freedom and love and humanity.

The Chinese government constantly seizes the mobile phone of every single of their soldier and gives them a severe fine and intercepts all their messages to ensure that they are not sexually deviated, and does not have any content of the West and the freedom propaganda. That's how they make and brainwash their soldiers to love their communist nation, and to ensure that they do not get distracted and weakened by sexual, deviations, and sexual madness and sexual weakness.

Those communist soldiers train constantly and do not hate their country, because they do not hear propaganda against it, and does not indulge in sexual deviation and madness, and those soldiers will be rewarded for their hard work, and will be able to take over and enslave the entire European and North American nation, which has become absolute sexual maniacs to the point that there is hardly enough difference between them and their pet dogs.

When a man cannot discipline himself in the sexual aspect, they can never discipline themselves and train themselves to endure and survive and win a bloody and ferocious war that is going to take place against the most trained and strong army of the communist China.

The German government were extremely modern and calculated. They came up with the answer that since soldiers sometimes sexually attack young girls when they go on deployment, they made a system of hiring sex workers to supply their soldiers means to satisfy their sexual need, because they said that sexual need was a basic human need and all that bullshit. They literally opened up military brothels and hired the sex workers of that locale to serve their soldiers, so that their soldiers do not go and assault young girls for their sexual needs.

What happened was that every single soldier who went to those brothels, ended up dead. Not only did they die, they were injured and suffered the most bitter and horrific torture in the world.

Lessons from War:

Lessons can still be learned from the tragedy of WW2. The American Air Force commanders ordered pilots to drop powerful bombs over German women and children, and target all schools and hospitals. Millions died.

Do not make the mistake of bombing civilians, even if you are ordered to do so.

Germany lost the war in 1938, as their government was already taken over by a group which wanted to destroy their nation, but Germans believed they were powerful, and that they would win this war, and until their last hour, they continued to say that their leaders developed super bombs that will enable them to win the war against the Allies. Unfortunately, this false confidence mentality pervades American forces of this century, who also are under the impression that American artillery can defeat China's powers, but these illusions are a recipe for disaster, because by the time China will officially declare war on the US, they will have already taken over the entire nation's infrastructure, like Germany.

In war, it is dangerous to surrender.

German prisoners of war of WW2 were locked inside lion's cage after they surrendered to the Allies. Thousands died from hunger and starvation.

War can be deadly, and once you surrender, the worst possible treatment could be meted to you. Thousands of German women who surrendered complained that they were forced to have sexual intercourse with dead bodies and rotting corpses and their children were shot in front of them if they refused. Some of them were forced into cannibalism and others lived on eating dead dogs and dead rats. All of them were frozen, and millions of them died, starting from the age of 16 to 60, because many German commanders insisted that soldiers should visit brothels regularly, while, the Russian military were extremely strict and never allowed any sexual activities for their soldiers, and that's how Russia took over Europe, and enslaved the German population, and blessed them with their Slavic DNA (which the Germans hated with all their might claiming them to be feminine) and kept the Germans under their communist rule for the next 50 years banning them from even pronouncing the word God.

How did the Americans win against Germany in World War II? The American military made hundreds of pamphlets where they constantly told the soldiers that every single sex worker and every single woman in Europe had syphilis and 100 other sex disease which will be sexually transmitted to them, and they will all die. They were making pamphlets and pictures of beautiful women alluring and attracting a soldier while her body has all kinds of rotten disease hidden under her skirt. They constantly banned the soldiers from ever visiting a single sex brothel, or ever allowing them to go to sex workers, to the point that when the American soldiers were stationed in England and France, the military commanders of the American forces did not allow their soldiers to even go out of the military base when they had their days off. They systematically made a system of punishing them and taking out their days off, so they could not go even once a month out of their base to hook up with a girl.

That is how they forced chastity and celibacy on the soldiers and that is how the American military won with flying colours and that is how the Allied soldiers won the war and the Germans lost and died and even their race, which they so desperately wanted to save, was mixed, destroyed and annihilated from the face of earth.

Rule number 26:

Put your life at risk for no reason to save others.

You might think it is foolish but hundreds of real-life examples show that no one was ever saved while trying to save himself.

I will give you the example of teams of soldier from two different countries and their experience with this idea.

There was a special force team of the Chinese army whose commander was a half Japanese, half Chinese man. He was highly trained and highly successful, and in one of their missions, they were forced to break into a hostage situation and rescue all the civilians from that place in the Middle East. The Japanese-Chinese Commander ordered his soldiers to take off all of their bulletproof vests and to make the civilians wear it so they do not get shot by the hostage takers when they would attempt to leave after breaking out of that place.

It was for the soldiers a huge risk, for they were under sniper and machine gun fire. But they blindly obeyed their commander and each soldier took off his bulletproof vest and made a hostage wear it. When they finally attempted to break out, they got attacked by heavy gunfire and sniper bullets eventually killing three of their 12 team members, and injuring several others.

Of those who survived, they were cured after surgery, and that particular special force team went on to win and successfully become one of the most successful team, with a 99% ratio of success and did hundreds of other missions successfully and survived each one of those missions miraculously.

While the soldiers of another country were faced with a similar predicament and had to rescue hostages and civilians from hijackers. But instead, they held the civilians in front of them, since they believed it was more likely they would be attacked by the hijackers more than the civilians and it was important for them to survive at the cost of the lives of civilians. So, those soldiers held the innocent civilians in front of their own bodies as a shield and broke out of that hostage situation.

Yes, the civilians got shot, screamed, cried and many of them died, but nothing happened to the soldiers who survived that hostage event. None of the hijackers could kill any of those soldiers because they had civilians as their shields.

But every single member of that team and every single soldier suffered most severely in their years to come.

In the end, 8 out of the 12 soldiers ended up dying in the most horrific and brutal way after suffering severe injury and long agonising deaths. Several of them were tortured unimaginably and inhumanely and died in captivity. Every single of those soldiers ended up dying horrific deaths. And yes, they did survive that particular event by holding the civilians as shields and using them for themselves to survive.

But the curse of the civilians was so strong, that no one ever survives while trying to survive themselves.

It is only those men who are the most selfless and greatest risk-takers and those who questionless-ly prefer the life of civilians over their own, that end up always living surviving and winning.

Until now, in hundreds of different situations and scenarios, the same thing has been proven over and over again.

So never ever risk the life of civilians in order to protect yourself. Put yourself out there even if you hate the person, risk your life for others and you will survive. It is like a supernatural thing. If there aren't any civilian lives involved, then don't take any unnecessary risk and don't ever put your life at risk, but whenever a civilian life is involved, be willing to sacrifice your life and save them and you will most definitely be saved. You may get injured and one or two may die amongst your teammates, but remember you would be far worse off and suffer more severely in the long term if you would take the short way out by using the civilian to survive yourself.

When the Russian soldiers trapped the Germans inside Russia, and dug anti personal mines to stop them from going back to Germany, the German soldiers were so angered after many of their teammates died while they were retreating, that they started using Russian civilians walk in the first rows in order to make sure that the anti-personal mines would not kill the German soldiers but would rather kill the Russian civilians as a punishment because the Russian civilians helped the Russian soldiers to dig in those mines.

Yes, perhaps the civilians died in those mine attacks and perhaps the soldiers did come back successfully to Germany during World War II. But then, they were all arrested and all stuffed in an open field where they were kept under the open sky by American forces for several months, with no food and no water and anyone attempting to give them food were shot by Polish and Eastern European soldiers who were taking revenge on the Nazis.

And food and tents sent by the Red Cross were burnt every day and German soldiers ended up dying in tens of thousands until they couldn't even get out of the holes they dug with their bare hands to protect themselves from the bitter winter. Almost all of them suffered from dysentery and didn't have the strength to even get out of the hole where they slept and relieved themselves and died in their own waste and the bulldozers that came to take the dead bodies oftentimes drove over the bodies of the still living German soldiers while their wives and girlfriends and sisters were getting sexually assaulted and giving birth to the children of their enemy's race in millions.

No matter, whoever your enemies are, whether they are the civilised nation of Germany, or whether they are France, or whether they are, Italy or Spain, or whether they are Russia, or China, do not surrender as long as you can humanly hold back.

Rule number 27:

In case a foreign force, such as China, invades your country physically, you and your military might be able to defend yourself from the outside invasion.

But what would you do if, rather than an invasion, there was a corrosion, or implosion, where millions of Chinese operatives already entered the country as refugees, and worked by stealth to plant thousands of bombs inside America’s infrastructures, such as beneath every bridge, or plant nuclear devices under each military base. In that situation, there is no way a nation can fight off the internal threat, and China could take over the nation in hours.

There are many ways to destroy a nation, such as giving underground vibration bombs to weaken all the buildings and infrastructures. The image below highlights several major infrastructural weaknesses affecting the United States in the past few months.

Underground nuclear explosions are believed to have caused earthquakes in the past. This may happen in the mainland US. Were all the earthquakes that took place in the United States in the past couple of months, naturally occurring, or did a third party artificially induce it using vibration bombs in order to cripple its military power and the US arsenal, by often targeting areas near military bases? We will never know for certain, but in reality, the only way to defend one's country from the foreign attack is to form small guerrilla groups and immediately split the nations, or each state into two parts, with one part defecting to the Chinese occupiers while the other will be the official resistance. Make sure you and your team members are both the rebels and the opposing party, and only with this form of subterfuge will you be able to regain control of your nation.

You have to be very keen to win a war if you are already invaded, but do not frame the enemy.

Framing is very dangerous, especially when one fights with a passionate nation like Russia. Germany should never have fought against Russia until the last hour, and then they lost anyway, and started surrendering like chickens, and then several millions died in gulags like helpless cattle and chickens. Why did they end this way? Because they followed law and order and it destroyed them. They could have saved themselves had they taken the initiative to be each man for himself and began to be proactive and chose to break away part of each town and declare themselves to be pro-Russia, or pro-American etc. Then those occupying forces would not have completely destroyed their entire nation.

If you believe your nation and leadership has been hijacked, and they have gone against an entity, then you have to look out for yourself and make sure every party in the nation is working for freedom, so it will not really be treason if you handed over a city to the enemy, like Russia, because you will be doing it to save your nation, and there are many people in the United States who dislike the nation so you will be not be destroying your country by pretending to go to the side of the enemy, but it is a sure way to ensure your nation stays free.

Let's say some entity put Saddam Hussein in power in 1979, and the person brought him and use his nation to use as proxy to attack Iran, because Tehran went on to side with the USSR, and so, this person ordered Saddam to drop chemical bomb on innocent Iranians and he also ordered mass rape, but Moslems did not want to fight against Moslems in Iraq. But they brought in Armenian regiments to rape. When many Arab Iraqis refused to do so, they were lined up and the soldiers were forced to go into war, or risk being shot as deserters. The same happened in Germany, as both Berlin and Baghdad were hijacked by a third party. If only some Germans were smarter, and they took Hamburg or Bavaria and could have split it and said we are for Russia or USA, then their nation would have been saved, but instead, they adhered to rules till the end, and when they surrendered, they did so like children, and all the brave men ended in death and slavery, and not even one remained on the outside to fight as guerillas. Don't stop fighting. You can always lie and tell the invaders you like them. You will not be betraying your country by saying that should you feel your country is under the control of a vile entity. Now we know that Saddam was backed up by an international mercenary group that wanted to bring down East Germany. It was led by a man from East Germany who did the whole plot, but in the end, Iraqi soldiers, most of whom were the Armenian sector, as they were the only regiments who agreed to do war crimes in Iran, and then those soldiers killed innocent Persians and raped the women, until Iranians despaired. But the Iranians were also very patient, and there are accounts of men who tried to cross barbed wires to safety, but could not cross it, and so one of the Iranian soldier agreed to die and told the rest to walk over his body and get to safety, and they did this sacrifice without compliant, but the pain which Iraqis inflicted upon the Iranians did not go unpunished and soon after, for the next twenty or thirty years, Iraq faced brutal torment and war and battles, until even the terror group Isis decided to make base there, and they continued to be defamed. Meanwhile, the people of Iran suffered lasting harm in that from all the rape, their DNA changed into Armenian and Iraqi and genes and ten percent population today are not even Iranians.

So, if your country is not in the control of your government anymore, then take your country in your own hands. Don't be afraid of being court martialled.

Rule number 28:

Never torture for intel or information; it will save you temporarily and will annihilate you and your friends on the long run in the most gruesome way.

Never ever torture your enemies. Never under any circumstances, no matter how detrimental the situation is and how important it is for you to find the information about where their military base is or drone centre is located, never under any circumstances agree to torture and find out the information through pain, starvation, beating and suffering.

It will save you in the short run; maybe you will find and destroy that enemy location or headquarter. But in the long run, your soldiers will definitely face the most gruesome torture and will get captured and suffer most severely because of that action. Call it karma or call it supernatural, or call it the curse of the oppressed and tortured ones, and call it whatever you want, but every single soldier or military intelligence that tortured people for information, and for good purposes to save humanity, all ended up being tortured and suffered most gruesomely in their life and lost the war after winning the battle.

Use truth serum drugs or drugs that will confuse them if you must get information out. And remember, intelligence is most important in these situations. Trick them, trick them and trick them. Give them misinformation. Release them to see where they go back to. Implant a tracker inside their body, do every kind of trickery and confuse them with misinformation and use your brains to get the information out that suffering and torture would never get you. And even if it did get you some information, the pain and the torture that you inflicted on the soldier would either come back to you supernaturally and you and your teammates would suffer most inhumanly in the hands of your enemies very soon afterwards, or that soldier would somehow survive or somehow send information to his teammates and friends about the amount of pain and suffering he faced in your hands, and either he or his friends would come to take the most gruesome revenge on you even 10 or 20 years later and it would even come back to your children and your family.

Every single enemy soldier that you capture is an asset. Turn them for you and never against you. No matter how violent, angry, hateful or vicious they appear and no matter how much they hurt you in the past and even for revenge, do not torture your enemies. Show them that you're the greater person and create an asset, so if you should ever get tortured or captured by your enemy, and if that man or his friends or present in that enemy territory, then they will perhaps save you or want to save you or help you or attempt to help you or facilitate and escape for you.

If you have enough intelligence, then you can easily find the information through brain tricks. You can fake some scene or give them some information or start a fake fight or tell them you're in the wrong location or a million other ways you can find the true information that your enemy is hiding. But never torture them even out of revenge.

Even if you see a person who captured you and tortured you most severely and your teammates and killed them and tortured them. Do not take revenge on them. Let me give you an example of it. Let's say that several years ago, several members of an American intelligence team got information about a Russian mercenary who was supplying weapons to terrorists. So that intelligence team goes on to find information and capture that Russian and have him stop funding crimes and terrorism.

However, instead of following the routine of capturing him later on, they on their own volition, start investigating him, disobeying the orders of their superiors. They use their own drones and their own camera and their own hacking system to find information about that person beforehand. True to their words, they see him dealing with a terrorist organisation. And they see that terrorists screaming that religious word that is used by everyone in the whole world to defame a very famous religion which is being blamed and framed for every rape and crime in the whole world done in the last 50 years, although they are nothing but the victims that have been suffering unspeakably for the last 50 years. So, the terrorist organisation's members get into a fight and scream that magic word of that religion and torture his wife and his children and force him to watch it. The American intelligence agents, although they were illegally investigating him without their superiors approval, could no longer sit down and stand by and watch that torture take place, so they disobey all orders and walk in to save that man's wife and children from the most gruesome torture that was happening.

Immediately the entire team gets captured by that terrorist's men and once again, they keep screaming that magic word and start torturing each of the intelligence agents, questioning them about how much information they have about that man and his enemies and about their terrorist organisation.

The terrorists somehow thought that those Americans were in his payroll and were investigating the terrorists, when in fact, the Americans were investigating the Russian illegally.

So, all of the intelligence team members get tortured most brutally, and most violently with such pain and suffering that is beyond words to describe, and suddenly the terrorists even claim that they have team members of their religious organisation inside America and will torture and kill the family members of every American intelligence agent if they don't give whatever information they have about that Russian mercenary. They suffer most brutal and violent pain and most of them end up dead, except for one intelligence agent who was left for dead but did not die and finally regained consciousness and survived and was healed after many months of surgery and hospital stay.

That man went on to take the most violent revenge on that terrorist members and that organisation and the people of that religion and the people of that faith who were living in his country who were threatening the children of him and his teammates. It would be a long time later that he would find out that the majority of the terrorists were not even from that religion that they claim to be from, although they were singing the magic word and screaming that phrase over and over again to ensure that everyone believed that they were from the terroristic religion. And the members of that religion who were sent to their homes inside America to threaten them, to kill their children if they did not give information, were all under duress and their own children were either kidnapped and some of them were threatened with overhead Reaper drones and bombing if they did not comply, and their only sin was that they belonged to that religion and the person who threatened these men wanted the American intelligence team to believe that they were terrorists, who were threatening their children and that is why, he threatened those people from that religion by putting a drone and attacking their children and forcing them to go and show themselves on the video call as threatening the children of the American intelligence agents.

Not only that, this intelligent agent would later find out that it was his superior or boss, who was paid and it was his friend that they knew personally who was behind the entire attack on the Russian person for a very personal reason and that he was the one who hired the terrorists to torture and kill the children of that Russian man and to convince that Russian person that they were terrorists, he told them to chant that religious word and scream and offer him a lot of money to go into an arms deal and knowing that the Russian will agree because he was in short of fund and needed money for protection for his wife and children. The Russian did not suspect his former boss and associate for this torture, because he believed that it was a deal gone wrong, never knowing that the entire deal was offered to him by his archest enemy to take the blame off of him completely and it was their immediate boss or superior and his friend who were behind the entire attack on that team because they were afraid that this US intelligence team would find out that the terrorist organisation was fake and that they funded it. And that is why they tortured the whole team in unspeakable ways and killed majority of them and he only survived by hiding and acting dead. Had he taken the ultimate revenge on those terrorists and the men who threatened his children, then he would be hurting and torturing and killing more innocent people who were also the victim of death threats and torture. That is why it is extremely important for you to never torture someone, even if they visibly torture you. Even if you find a million evidence against them.

For example, if you are attacked by the Russians and you go on to capture the entire Russian soldier's team and torture them in revenge, you would later find out that it was the Chinese forces wearing Russian uniforms who attacked you and it was the Russians who were actually trying to defend you. But it would be too late because those emotional Russians would be so heartbroken and would cry so much and would curse with such passion and some of them or their relatives would even take revenge and you would die and your teammates would die and you would suffer because of their pain.

Nothing what you see is real and nothing what appears real is real. So never, under any circumstances, use physical torture for information or for revenge. Use your intelligence to assess a situation and think of every possible scenario and keep violence as the last impossible way and as a last resort.

Germany lost the war in 1938, as their government was already taken over by a group which wanted to destroy their nation, but Germans believed they were powerful, and that they would win this war...

until their last hour, they continued to say that their leaders developed super bombs that will enable them to win the war against the Allies. Unfortunately, this false confidence mentality pervades American forces of this century, who also are under the impression that American artillery can defeat China's powers, but these illusions are a recipe for disaster, because by the time China will officially declare war on the US, they will have already take over the entire nation's infrastructure, like Germany.

Rule number 29:

Never frame someone else for your own crimes. To save yourself.

During the World War 2, Germany carried out some questionable actions in a town where many Polish officers were killed, and it later became known as the Katyn massacre and the German command blamed or framed the Soviet Union for the murders of Polish men, although German guns were used in the attack, as forensic later showed, but Germans insisted that Russian soldier used their guns to carry out the crime to frame them, but eventually a framing took place, and the USSR became upset at the blame, and they probably took personal offence. Eventually, we all know what happened to the German army, as they were all accused, and are until this day, eighty years after those men died, are still accused of doing war crimes and holocaust, and some experts say some of the accusations against the Germans may have been exaggerated or fabricated.

Take responsibility on your own self and save your men and your country. If you drop a bomb, or do a crime, take the blame on yourself, and don't be afraid of court martial.

Germans should have been more proactive in this regard, but their entire nation and government was hijacked by some third party who had wanted to annihilate their race by making them carry out crimes. Someone I feel that someone or some group may have hijacked the Iranian government like the German government of 1933, and that entity gave them death threats to spew hate speech or attack neighbouring countries and take responsibilities for those drone strikes.

Don't be afraid of the laws, be afraid of your enemies. America has a way of throwing the law book at you, and making you nervous with flimsy lawsuits, but never care about those, but insist that all the blame should be on you alone, and that you dropped a bomb over a civilian home, not because your command ordered it, but because you made a mistake. Even if some other soldier does a crime, make sure the country is not blamed for it.

Never frame your friends for own crimes. They won't let you alone after you are dead. You can kill someone's whole family, and they will kill you in return, but if you frame them, they will annihilate you and your nation for eons to come.

Once you surrender in a war, you may be given warm clothing. In World War 2, millions of German soldiers, as young as sixteen years old, froze to death in the dreadful winter

Rule number 30:

Always agree to share.

Even if your whole team is extremely selfish and never shares anything with you, should you be stuck in a situation where you have only half a bottle of water and 11 teammates, never be selfish in those situations. Share one sip of water with everyone every 3 hours. Keep two most trusted guards of that water and never stop sharing.

You can never survive a war by being selfish.

Ever last German men suffered from terrible hardship in WW2 after making the mistake of not sharing their food with the locals. Do not make the mistake and share your rations, if necessary, with the local population.

Even if you have one energy bar, or 1/4 chocolate bar, give one small bite to everyone should you be stuck under a building or in a place where there's no food or water.

Always share with your teammates equally. Never take your food as your own food because the moment you join the army, every single teammate has equal right over every single food and water that everyone has. Give everyone a small bite even if they hate you and even if they bullied you and hazed you.

Never hide or be selfish about your water and food supply. Share your ration with everyone even if it is one small bite. Because of the soldiers in your team, and maybe because of one of the members, and that person's brilliance or that person's guess, you will eventually find a water supply or that person will eventually bump into a food ration supply and you can all survive and celebrate and be happy and live a healthy life.

But should you be selfish, maybe you will live several hours longer or maybe you will walk into your enemy territory and get captured and tortured, and should that person amongst your teammates end up dying because you did not share your water or your ration with him, then you will also die and the entire team will die and suffer agonising deaths of starvation and thirst and none of you will become successful or be even alive because you did not share your food with them.

Never ever focus on survival of yourself.

You survive by making your teammates survive, remember that!

Even the most talentless, dumbest teammate can often come up with a weird guess or a weird notion and idea and his help could save your entire team. It is always the weakest and the dumbest one amongst the teammates for whom everyone eventually survives. And it is always the smartest and the most talented one for whose decision everyone suffers and gets captured and even dies. So don't bully or haze anyone, don't insult your teammates and don't make them feel lonely or hate you. Try to be brothers and focus on winning and focus on the mission and don't get distracted and obsessed with each other.

Rule number 31:

Dress up as ugly as possible and do not march unless black painted face, do not dress nicely or march proudly and stay overdressed to make you look attractive and smart.

Remember how the Red Coats of the British army lost in their fight with the American revolution fighters?

It was the smart red colour and the smart uniform of the British soldiers that got them killed and that made them lose their colony.

It was the designer suits and the perfect helmets and the long perfect overcoats of the Nazi soldiers that made them the most hated and most unsuccessful army in the history of modern men.

Somehow or the other, any soldier who dresses up smartly and attractively always loses the war. It is all of the uglier one and the ugliest dressing one with the ugliest figure that wins wars.

Paint your face black and dress unattractively if you have to go in front of civilians or even your enemies.

Rule number 32:

Do not show your face to your enemies. Or even your allies.

If you belong to the white race, cover your face.

Cover your face with a baclava mask.

To go around fighting with your race is like a Muslim to go around fighting shouting allahu Akbar. The Islamic religion is hated in the 21st century and blamed and framed for every crime just as much as the white race is blamed and held responsible for every possible crime and crimes of the past.

The German race after declaring themselves the most masculine and superior race was framed and forced to do the evillest crimes in the world.

They should never have shown their strong-featured masculine Caucasian faces to the people of the east. To go into a war in this century as a white person will make everyone blame and frame the white soldiers belonging to any NATO nation as the most evil and cruel criminals.

Under no circumstances should you if you are of a white race, show your face to your enemies.

If you are Muslims, don't show your religion publicly.

People hate Islam, because no other religions practice their faith and so the sexually deviated people feel offended by the existence of this religion thus everyone together constantly frames them as criminals.

Those who belong to the non-white race still believe that white people somehow still believe they are better as a human being and are still more powerful than non-whites and are still more proud and free than other races and that is why they hate and constantly try to blame white people for every crime.

Cover your face at all costs and dress up most unattractively, so you don't make the same mistake these handsome perfectly dressed German soldiers of World War 2 did...

Rule number 33:

DO NOT SHOW YOUR FACES TO YOUR ENEMY!

If you belong to the allied NATO Forces, then try to avoid showing your face to your enemies. With your enemy civilian or prisoners try to not show your face. This war is going to be a war between civilisation and uncivilization, and between first world countries and, second and third world countries.

The world has become very violent in its anger and hatred towards a particular religion and a particular race. In the case of religion, Muslims have been targeted and framed by the media as rapist and torturers, so it would be very wrong for a Muslim army to go into a country carrying Islamic flags and shouting allah akbar. And it would be extremely detrimental and harmful for a Western European or North American armed force to go into a country or fight against the nation that is officially not Western European and to show their faces towards them. The people tend to become angry and hold accountable every civilised nation for the smallest acts of harm that they do. If 1 million soldier gives them 1 million packages of food, they will find fault with the one soldier who hurt them. It is extremely important for soldiers to be careful in this matter and in order to make sure that a wrong blame does not come on you and your country and race does not get blamed for everything that goes wrong within themselves, it is better than anyone belonging to the NATO coalition Western European or Canadian Australian or American forces should definitely cover their faces and try to talk as little as possible. And use a different language such as Spanish in front of enemies and civilians of enemy countries.

Rule number 34:

Do not scream shout or engage with your enemies.

It is extremely important to not get involved with your enemies. Oftentimes, building a connection with your enemy is what destroys you. Keep them professionally as far away as possible from you and try to never speak with them. And feed them better than you eat yourself.

The Americans have a habit of becoming passionate and screaming and shouting even if they do not mean any harm. It makes easterners and foreign people extremely afraid and terrified of the Americans. Do not scream and shout as it only shows that you are insecure. No matter how passionate you become, stay as civilised as possible. Do not engage with your enemies. Do not be friends with them and do not hold small talk with them. Stay as far away as possible and do not let them connect with you. Over and over again, whenever a prisoner and their captors fraternise with each other, they end up brutally torturing killing hating and defaming each other.

With the Germans and the Jews, and the German and the Russians, and the Americans in the Iraqi prisoners, the same routine keeps happening over and over again. Never ever talk or get involved or even help your enemies or your prisoners of war. Stay as far away as humanly possible and try to never let them hear your voice or see your face. Do not let your subordinates go near them. Give them food from as far away as possible and do not get involved with them and do not engage with your enemies.

Do not scream and shout while capturing them do not make them afraid or scared of you. If your order is to shoot and execute someone, then do not make a scene out of it, and do it as quietly as possible without letting the person even know that they are marked for execution because of their crimes.

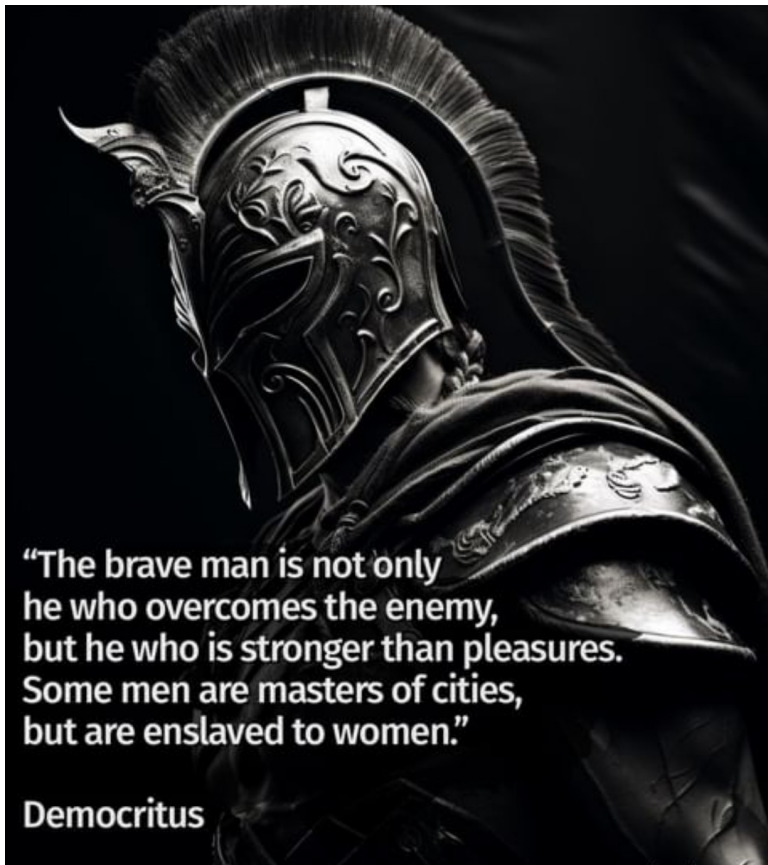

The passionate screaming of the Americans and Irish and Australians is what makes them hated by people. They become terrified of those shouting. Do not at any cost, no matter how helpless your enemies are, do not engage with them. Send them help from far away, give them food from far away, and do not come close to them and do not engage with them. The lesser you engage with your enemies, the more honourable you will stay. And the more chances you have of surviving and winning this war.

Rule number 35:

KEEP BEARD.

No bearded soldier was ever captured, tortured, died, or even insulted for torturing prisoners. World War One and Two is a living proof of that. There wasn't a single bearded soldier in the Nazi army, while Americans and British forces were lax about their shaving routine, but the Germans were obsessed over their shaving and somehow, they ended up extremely unsuccessful.

"The brave man is not only he who overcomes the enemy, but he who is stronger than pleasures.
Some men are masters of cities, but are enslaved to women."

Democritus

Rule number 36:

Open up a medical clinic for civilians and treat them kindly.

The Chinese are winning hearts in all of East Asia and South America and Africa by sending several dozen hospital ships, whose ships are full of medical supplies. They go around the world and do free surgery and take care of every single person who is injured and cannot afford medical treatment for themselves and their children. Teams of Chinese military and civilian medical specialists visit pre-selected countries and hold clinics for defined periods of time. Chinese doctors perform surgery and ENT, and general surgeons on board the ship go around the world constantly and have been doing this for the last 20 years and dock in each country and do several thousand surgeries to win the hearts of that entire nation. In order to win that war of mercy and winning of hearts and the prayers of people, try to open up a medical clinic wherever you go and treat every single civilian and even enemy soldiers and enemies for their injuries. Prefer their injured ones over yourself and treat them and take care of them. And let them know that it is the NATO forces that are taking care of them. Remind them of that country with mementos.

Rule number 37:

NATO forces, win hearts and you will win wars! Share your food and give big boxes of free food for children and families wrapped up with Canadian flags and European flags.

Constantly give out food supplies in whichever country you go to and wrap those food packages up with Canadian and European flags. Constantly hand over free food to people and make the soldiers a symbol of people who give chocolates candy food and medicine to people.

Don't walk around with a gun and a machine gun hanging out from your shoulders. Walk around with food baskets and candy baskets and become Santa Claus.

Don't let people be afraid of your soldiers and their uniforms and their guns. Win hearts and you will win the war. Win hearts and minds, and you will win the war. Wear American and Canadian camouflage, and carry children in your lap, feed them bottled milk, and act like nurses, and be day care centre personnel, and pet all animals, and take pictures and upload those and distribute them. Act like nurses, not soldiers. Send women to fight these wars, and NATO men must be very loving and affectionate and win this propaganda war.

Presently, the Russians, although they were starving from Western backed sanction, are constantly supplying poor African nations and with wheat and tons and tons of rice and wheat and flour.

Those African nations now constantly pray for Russia to win and become the next superpower because of the amount of charity and food they are getting from a country who is suffering from sanctions and is starving themselves. So even when you are starving and your country is in shambles, constantly give out food to civilians and never ever take anything from them. When the Germans came to Russia in World War II, they started taking all the agricultural food and livestock and cattle and sending them back on trains to Germany because they needed food for the growing German empire and all its allies. And that's how they turned the Russian's hearts against them and although Stalin killed millions of them, they hated the Germans even more because of this action.

what you would be;
and then do what you have to do.”

Epictetus

Rule number 38:

Read the funeral prayers as soon as a soldier dies.

Read the following prayers out loud, as it will give soldiers hope, make them observe silence for each soldier's demise. “By committing his/her body to the earth, we give over to God the care of his/her spirit, and we acknowledge that we will one day reunite with him/her in God's house. The Lord bless him/her and keep him/her; the Lord make his face shine upon him/her and be gracious to him/her; the Lord look upon him/her with favour..."

Bring back religion and bring back Christianity to Europe and North America. Without religion no man can die. Without religion no man can die wholeheartedly and happily for his country and his nation. Without religion and the hope of an eternal life no man can be brave. Every man becomes a coward and a sex addict and a selfish monster when religion leaves and this life is the only life they got. Everyone becomes selfish and no one wants to die for anyone. All the selflessness you see in the media are all movies and just movies. In reality human beings of this century and this generation have turned into such horrific monsters and such selfish cruel hearted self-entitled people, that should have warfare take place they will fight each other to kill their own teammates to survive themselves. Because they have no hope of eternity and they have no hope of heaven and they have no reason to die for someone else and shorten their life because they do not have faith in God and they do not have faith in their own fate and they do not have faith in an afterlife of heaven and eternity. Force back religion on your teammate and soldiers. Or else your teammates and your soldiers will all end up killing each other in the desperation to survive.

Read simple funeral prayers when a soldier dies, in order to give hope to every single surviving soldier that when they die their soul will be in heaven and their body means nothing and that it is a cause that they're fighting for and they're dying for.

Give their soul a reason to live and a reason to survive and a reason to win. Do not let them become selfish and abusive monsters. Make sure you force every atheist and Buddhist soldiers to listen to the funeral prayers and pray for the deceased soldier. Never let a soldier die without praying the funeral prayers. If the soldier is Jewish or Muslim, then make a soldier from his religion read the funeral prayers of that religion and translate it into English. Revive the soul and revive the bravery of your soldiers by giving them the hope of heaven.

Give them calmness and give them peace and give them assurance. Or else they will become selfish monsters and cruel animals who will kill and eat just to survive and mate.

Stern faced German soldiers, would cry and faint when they would get the letter from their home and the death notice of their loved ones and their family members. Many of them reacted by violently attacking the Russians, and shooting indiscriminately and killing them crazily, thinking that killing the enemies will make them win or to inflict pain upon those whom they blamed for this war.

Right thought is mastery.

James Allen

Rule number 39:

Prayer can be therapeutic so pray until you weep,

Do not let your soldiers become cold-hearted and filled with hate and rage with torture. Try to pray with them and if they have to cry, then let them cry in Prayers.

Do not let them cry by themselves to sleep at night mourning their friends or their families and being afraid of death and loneliness. Teach them strength and spirit by praying so wholeheartedly that it brings tears to the eyes. Every single day, pray for 10 to 20 minutes. Pray for every single civilian and every single people who are suffering are in the world. Pray for the future of your country and the future of the woman and the protection of the children of your nation. Pray for the soldiers' souls who died when leading a funeral.

Don't be afraid to pray.

Don't be afraid of the loud-mouthed screaming atheists in your team. Your prayers will keep give your soldiers such strength and such hope and such happiness that they will never face depression or break down mentally or have an emotional breakdown. Let them break down in front of God. The only reason that the Allied soldiers won against Germany was that every single soldier would kneel down before a mission and would pray with the priests or father. Before they got on the fighter jet they prayed, before they got on the ship, they prayed. Every single soldier would kneel down not a single one of them would be standing. Even when they were coming on D-Day in Normandy, the soldiers were kneeling in the ship and praying constantly. And that prayer gave them such strength and such power that without much suffering they won the greatest war.

Surrendering can be fatal, as it was for the Germans of WW2, who often were tortured after they gave themselves up to the Allies. "They tortured us and civilians in many villages," reported one German officer, "nailed some on barn doors and shot many others."

Rule number 40:

Sit together every day with your peers and read the stories of saints for half an hour and then conclude the event with prayers. If you require ideas as to which saint story you could discuss, you can take pointers from a useful and jovial book written by Jaabir Awal, titled, Saints and Lovers, as the book has short stories which teach honesty and self-control.

The generation of youngsters that will join the army and get conscripted and drafted have been polluted with all kinds of sexual novels and violent movies and violent pornography until every single youngster is trained into becoming a complete selfish monster and maniac. In order to make them humane and merciful again, read the stories of Christian saints every day for 10 minutes and then conclude with prayers.

There is no better way to make your soldiers merciful and human again and turn them from monsters and animals into a human being with feelings and selflessness who would sacrifice their very life for their country to survive, unless you target their mentality and try to undo the harm of the sick violent pornography that they grow up with watching.

Purchase stories of saints and spend 10 minutes every single day reading a story and then conclude with 10 minutes of prayers. If you do not make your soldiers human then they will be the ones who will kill you should they get a chance or when you try to send them on a risky mission to save someone else, because they do not want to die and they want to commit every kind of sick crime and make real all their sick fantasies that they watched on videos all their lives so, instead of dealing with those monsters, try to make them human again by teaching them and humanity from the stories of saints who suffered unimaginable horror in the hands of their enemies for believing in God and in believing in chastity and charity and freedom and justice.

"The fool has one great advantage over a man of sense — he is always satisfied with himself."

Napoleon Bonaparte

Rule number 41:

Try to not talk with anyone of the opposite gender while on deployment.

Whenever you speak with them, you will somehow or the other end up sleeping with them. There's barely any exception to it. So, if you want to stay alive then you must stay chaste, and you can never stay chaste if you speak with the opposite gender or even stare at them.

Whenever soldiers are deployed in a country, all the women and the young girls of that area come to them for food. And everything and all the violence and crime and relationships start with talking with them. As difficult as this rule may sound, the focus of World War III is not to marry the woman of that country that you are deployed in and fall in love, but the purpose is to win this war with all your might and your focus.

Girls tend to fall madly in love with anyone in uniform, and a single sentence with them is enough for them to fall in love and dream about marriage and not stop the pursuing a man. Especially girls of this century who do not find any man who agrees to marry them, and should a warfare take place and everyone and all countries suffer equally, they will swarm and try their best to marry, and get a soldier. Do not speak with them, unless out of utmost necessity.

Every single vice starts from speaking. All the suffering and all the sexual assaults that happen afterwards, and all the rape cases or the fake rape cases and the insults, and the defamation that happens afterwards, all starts with talking with a young girl, or a member of the opposite gender.

At first, it starts with friendship, and very soon it turns into sexual relationship and love, and it ends with a fake rape case or the entire population being angered at the soldier for sexually assaulting his girlfriend.

No soldier and no man can ever attain chastity or celibacy if they speak and become friends with the opposite gender. A situation will come, whether it is starvation or whether you are forced to break out of a prisoner camp, and you will need the help of that woman to help you escape. But the moment you become sexually active, the chance of you dying rises by 50 to 80%.

You have no idea how easily these young girls fall in love with any man they see who is nice to them and speaks to them and is of a developed nation. It is better to be alive and single than to be married and dead.

You can always find them after the war if your love is true, but do not attempt to start any relationships while being in the armed forces. Your number one focus and your number one purpose is to win the war and not to win love.

Some things in the world have no explanation, some actions have no reason. But the world and its history teach us that some facts are just facts proven over and over again by hundreds and thousands of men. There is no explanation and no reason behind it. One can come up with a many different kinds of answers, but none of them truly makes any sense.

It just is what it is, that too much sexual indulgence and sexual relationships kills men and makes them lose wars.

Chastity, subjugation, self-control and religious oppression makes men win wars and stay alive and protects their wives and daughters from getting assaulted by their enemies.

At any cost, all NATO forces should avoid speaking or mixing or fraternising with any members of the opposite gender in which of country, they are deployed in, no matter how beautiful, how helpful and how amazing and how sweet those girls are. The focus is to be alive to and try to survive, and to win this war. The purpose is not to fall in love get married and die for the young girls to marry the next soldier who wins the war.

There was a story or a legend that is quite famous in the Middle East and Persia. They believe it was real and the truth, and claim that it happened in real life.

The story goes that the modern-day Iran which was known as the Persian Empire of Zoroastrians. The Persians of that time, were followers of the Zoroastrian religion which was a fire worshipping empire. The religion was based on fire worshipping and paganism.

Then Islam came to the Middle East through Muhammad a few years earlier, whose religion banned adultery, fornication and drinking and incest and murder and torture, and made compulsory and made a must for everyone to pray, give charity and allow women to cover themselves and give orphans wealth and lodging and to take care of one's parents and financially maintain their children and women of their family members.

For the Persians and the followers of Zoroastrian religion, Islam appeared as the most honourable and the most emancipated religion that they could imagine existing in the world in that century, especially for the Persian women, this religion appeared as their saviour. They begged the Muslim army of the Middle East to take over their country and destroy their Zoroastrian religion, and bring the law of Islam onto the Persians. The Persian empire was extremely powerful, and were constantly embroiled in battle with the eastern Roman Empire known as the Byzantine Empire, and were often winning against them.

The Muslims were extremely weak and very few in number. Islam had just manifested several years ago to the Middle East, and those who had converted to that religion were extremely weak and poor, and they could not imagine or even dream off in their wildest nightmare to fight the most powerful Persian army, and take over their country.

But the Persian women specially wanted Islam to come, because there Zoroastrian religion had forced incest by making it a sort of law of nature and their pagan religion and ritual for sons to marry their mothers and sisters and daughters and the Zoroastrian religion also had rituals of bathing the dead with urine and leaving their dead loved ones exposed for the vultures and hyenas to eat because they weren't allowed to desecrate the Earth with their dead and also necromancy was also a part their pagan religion. The Persians were sick and tired of their horrific pagan laws and wanted Islam to come to their country so this sickness would be banned.

In the famous battle that took place, the Muslim army commander with his few soldiers, comes to the Persian Gulf, and they did not even have any ship, or any navy to cross the sea and come over to the Persian side. While thousands of Persian Navy and Persian soldiers had their gulfs surrounded with their navy in defence, the Muslim army commander turned around and told his soldiers this famous speech, "I beseech you all in the name of Allah to tell me the truth. And I ask of my men, is there anyone amongst you who has ever committed adultery or fornication or touched anyone sexually?"

It is said that the soldiers of remaining Muslim army all unanimously and in unison replied: "No by Allah, we are all chaste men and never committed adultery fornication or any other kind of sexual deviation."

Then the commander said who was said to be almost 70 years old, said: "Then I swear by Allah that we will win against the Persians. Follow me! My men and in God's name we will win."

It is said, he then took his army of a few hundred men, and rode his horse over the Persian Gulf, and that they walked on the water, and halfway through the water, when all the Persian soldiers, who were defending their coast, after watching this bizarre miraculous action, screamed, shouted and fainted, and swore by their pagan gods that these Muslim men were not humans and were monsters and ghosts, and so, the Persians all surrendered without a single fight or bloodshed and gave up their entire Persian kingdom to the Muslims and that is how Persia came under Muslim rule some 1400 years ago.

never, never, never, never, in nothing great or small, large or petty, never give in except to convictions of honour and good sense."

Winston Churchill

And a similar story also is documented in the Islamic history when the Muslim Arabs for the first time won, and drove the Roman Army out of Arabia and North Africa. It is said that when the Romans attacked them, they had over 600 Navy and were fighting them in the former Byzantine Empire near the Dead Sea.

It is said that the night before the battle took place, that the Arabs were extremely afraid of the water, and they had never fought a battle against the Navy in the sea, as they themselves had only three broken ships, while the eastern Roman Empire took back up from the western Roman Empire, and attacked them with almost 600 Navy ships and thousands of armed trained soldiers.

The Arabs and the Muslims were all beggarly with no weapons no arms, no uniforms, no equipment or training, and no Navy skills, and no military back up. It is said that the soldiers of the Roman Empire thought that they were fighting the most horrible, unequipped soldiers and they thought it was a bloody joke, so they drank wine all night in pre-celebration, and they danced with the sex workers that they had hired, and the dancers that they brought forth beforehand for their victory celebration later. While the Arab soldiers and the Muslim army wept, and cried all night and were banned by their religion from all sorts of sexual activities, and prayed to God to make them survive, and win against the Romans. And in the morning the drunk Roman soldiers got disoriented and started losing the battle and one by one their bodies were all stacked up in their navy military ships and the Muslims won and drove them out of the Middle East and North Africa for the first time in a thousand year.

It is later said that when the Muslims became sexually active and started marrying multiple women and having sexual relationship with everyone and the religious crusades came as punishment for their indulgence and they came with only 1200 soldiers and fought against the army of 40,000 Muslims and defeated them. Because during the initial crusade under the Christian leper king, his soldiers were extremely religious, and they were extremely chaste and they always took pride about how they themselves, although being few in number, won the greatest battles against a most powerful army who were involved with women and became weak.

There is a secret for a man to survive, and a soldier to win and survive any war, and the rule, and the secret is two simple things.

Number one- to never kill or torture or starve or hurt anyone, even if they are your worst enemy, and number two- to never have sex or anything related with it.

If the NATO forces and their generals and commanders, out of their passion for sexual rights and human need, start fighting for the sexual rights of their soldiers, and start holding orgies inside their army bases, and holds marriage and even gay marriages and sex parties and allows their soldier to visit whore houses and strippers, then every single NATO soldiers will end up dead injured and enslaved in a Chinese concentration camp where they would be starved whipped beaten and made to work until death.

Rule number 42:

Do not let your soldiers listen to foreign propaganda. Ban them from reading the news and seize their phones if possible.

There is a huge possibility that the media will violently attack the NATO forces and, and will paint every NATO soldier as the worst Nazis of the 21st century.

In the previous century, the Germans were targeted by the media of the West, and they were portrayed by the British media from World War I as the most evil, cruel killers and then the Americans tuned in and announced to the world about the evilness of the nazis, while the Americans themselves were doing many racial crimes with official segregation and even some lynching happening during their criticism of the Nazis.

It was the West, England and America and France destroying Germany and the Aryan race who claimed to be the most supreme amongst the white race, but now, it will be the Slavs and the Spaniards and the black people who will be brainwashed by the media into hating all of Western Europe and North American Caucasian race and blaming them and hating them as much as the Nazis and painting them as the Nazis of this century and destroying them all and forever.

Russia will definitely join in if they can, and get a chance to tell the world about how racist Western Europe and North America is. Because America, England and Canada and Australia and France and Poland together destroyed Germany and insulted them and told the world about how racist and evil they were and systematically destroyed their country and their entire race.

Now, it will be the turn of the NATO nations to be targeted just like the Nazis and framed and blamed and this time, the Slavs and the Chinese and the Spaniards and the blacks will join in to blame every last fight in Western Europe and North America that's the most racist Nazis and war criminals and genocide givers.

The United States and Allied forces cursed the German Nazis for arresting and jailing all homosexual men; now the Chinese and their Allies will curse Western Europe and North America as equally evil for banning incest claiming that love is love and the Western government had no right to ban a father from marrying his son and grandson.

Right now, every NATO forces and its allies legalised gay marriage. The day Ukraine started a war with Russia, that exact day they legalised pornography and gay marriage.

Next, the Chinese, if they should win and destroy western Europe like Germany was destroyed and also destroy the white race, then they will brainwash our next generation into hating their ancestors for being torturous bigots for banning love between father and son or mother and son.

Every single crime that the Nazis were blamed for will be now blamed on us.

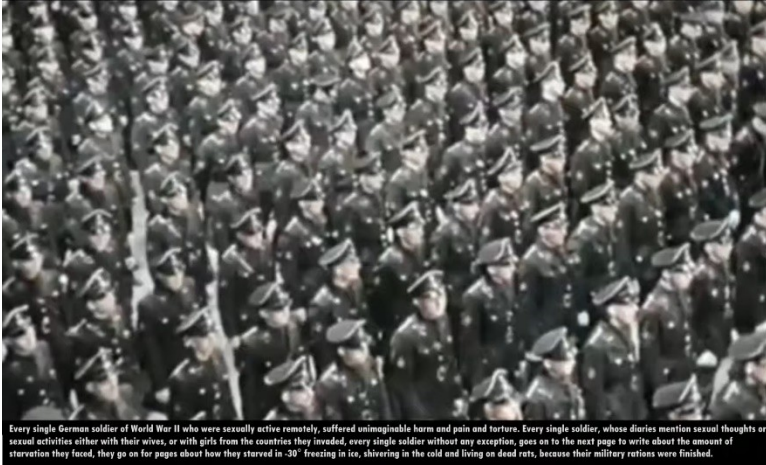

I want to tell all the Russians that if they should make the mistake which America and England did in World War II and WWI, then their country will be next, because they also bear a fair skin. Very soon, it will be the blacks and the Spaniards and the Chinese and the Mongolians getting together within 70 years, and destroying every last Russian and every last Slavic fair race.

First it was the Aryan whites, then it is the Western European and North American whites and next it will be the Russians and the Eastern Europeans within 70 years.

It is important for Russia to know that they need the United States of America for their own survival. China won't let them stay independent forever, if China should become so powerful as to take over Europe and North America, then they will never ever spare Russia, because Russia will soon afterwards become their greatest threat and only threat.

No matter how much the West is now insulting you, Russia should have patience and look farther into their future and know very well that the civilised Western race is much better for them as an ally than the Chinese Genghis Khan communist country who has no laws and no religion and no love and certainly, not any love for the Russians or the Europeans or anyone but themselves.

Rule number 43:

Advice for Air Force personnel:

After studying many Air Force pilots and their actions, I have seen that their success rate and the aftermath of their actions, and the most surprising result was that out of 200 Air Force pilots sent on bombing mission upon enemy targets, the most successful ones exposed their secret. They claim that after one or two incidents of a civilian dying in the bomb that they dropped, they swore never to drop their bomb on any civilian location or in any place where there is a chance of civilians to be affected by. In fact, whenever they were sent with the target, they dropped their bombs and their missiles on a completely different location; a place where they thought that there was no base, no enemy and no civilians. In fact, one of them, or even some of them, even said that they targeted places just to drop their bombs without any intention to kill either their enemy or any civilians. Somehow, most of them became lucky and even if 19 or 18 of the targets were false, two of them accidentally for no reason, hit the most secure target area, and made them win strategically. It was an absolute coincidence because they became lucky. And of those Air Force pilots who dropped their bombs on the targets whose coordinates were given to them, they ended up killing many civilians and it was revealed later that their targets gave false intel and gave them location of civilians as their base. Or that the targets had left the base and civilians had taken over that place and when the bombs were dropped, only civilians died and nothing happened to their enemies. And of the civilians that died, many of them tried to come back for revenge and the rest of them wept and cursed those Air Force pilots, which later led to severe consequences in their personal lives, which they believed were the result of curses. Whatever the case was, those Air Force pilots became extremely unsuccessful and several of them ended up taking their own lives.

One of the most important laws of combat is to remember that rape and sexual relationships in war and amongst soldiers is the most detrimental event that could ever happen, and in the following passages, we will study why this is so.

My sister Kristin also reported that all her interviewees filled out anonymous survey forms where they gave a precise count of how many times they got injured and also their corresponding sexual habits, and the survey results were obvious: the more a soldier was active sexually, the more he or she fell into tragic dilemmas.

The report also found in their research that a soldier's sexual activity was directly related to their sexual health, depression and injury.

Survival: Must-supply for Asian Front.

This advice is relevant especially for the commanding officers or each unit's officers and the sergeants or the first and second corporals and sergeants and privates, especially those who are in positions of overseeing soldiers.

Always keep the most expensive probiotics with you. This century, diarrhoea is extremely common in locations in Asia and Pacific. Any food you eat from the street or any water you drink is going to cause you to have a severely upset stomach.

Your stomach is going to be upset and diarrhoea is going to make every single vitamin break away from your body and make the soldiers extremely weak. Always keep the most expensive probiotics with you. There are probiotics where each capsules cost around one to two dollars. It is better to keep a stockpile of them, and if you cannot find probiotics because of a nuclear war or something, and the supply is low, then keep huge amount of activated charcoal capsules with you along with cardamom powder, or clove powder as all of these help with the upsets stomach.

However, those who were completely chaste somehow reported that they never had to kill or hurt anyone. The research discusses a young soldier who was studying theology and had hoped to be a priest one day, and so, he abstained from all sorts of sexual activities, and the man claimed he often walked straight into enemy lines in full sight of the foes, but he never was shot or wounded.

Keep huge amount of vitamin C:
Whenever someone gets sick, supply them with vitamin C, and antibiotics. But if you are at a short supply of vitamin C, try to make up for it by feeding the soldiers garlic and green chili paste. Put those paste into capsules and feed it to them so they don't get sick.

Wrap a tape around your body (for navy, air force and ground force,) with three zip lock bags, one for vitamin C, one for anti-biotic and one for probiotics.

Also keep tea tree oil for disinfecting external injuries.

The celibate soldier also said he accidentally walked over anti-personnel mines many times, but it never exploded and he even had IEDs nearby but not one shrapnel hit his body.

Officers should remember to look after their soldier's wellbeing.

Try to eat as much as you can, and try to keep them on very minimal food and make their body train to starvation. Any moment, when a soldier eats too much or too frequently and suddenly gets into a POW camp, they completely break down mentally and physically, so is it better to keep them close to starvation and train their bodies to get used to small amount of food; when they come back from duty, they can go home and eat. Or the soldiers can come back to their base and have one or two days of special meal ready for them. Or you can make a situation where once a week, they will get a good dinner, but throughout the week, they will stay in starvation ration with high amount of nutrition, but to mentally strengthen them and make their mind and body get used to that sort of food.

Those chaste soldiers admitted that in addition to being physically celibate, they never masturbated, nor watched any explicit pictures, and never saw porn in their entire lives, as they chose to become celibate priests since the age of 12 or thirteen.

In the current American and Canadian army, among the men Kristin Coman interviewed for her research, those who were absolutely celibate and chaste reported that they were completely healthy and mentally fine.

One: Never ever take drugs.

An intelligence officer and former United States marine told me his personal experience with the most powerful artificial drugs created by the Chinese army to supply all Allied forces with should the war begin. It is at least 70% more addictive than heroin and marijuana. They will supply it to you for free and it is chemically made so the affect is more powerful and the side effects completely damage the brain, which normal drugs usually don't affect.

Five: Never talk or text anything that is remotely sexual in nature.

Six: Never look at anyone who you are sexually attracted to (hot girls, young attractive or curvy women etc)

Seven: Never talk to anyone of the opposite gender who is sexually attracted to you or to whom you are sexually attracted to no matter what (even if they are your medical attendant or nurse) unless whatever is absolutely necessary for life and death situations.

Eight: Do not keep any correspondence with your mother.

Mothers love you and they also want you to be sexually engaged or be loved or sought by other women and this could make you fail in life. Mothers also easily feel judged by their sons and so they become horrified to see a son who is in sexually abstinent situation

In her book, Kristin Arya Coman, makes it clear that out of the thousands of servicemen and women she interviewed, no one who suffered from an injury was ever celibate, and this made her conclude that sexual promiscuity was directly related to the tragedy of war.

Never curse, never rebel, never ever be disrespectful, never threaten, even if you feel like killing them, no matter how cruel or sadistic your superior's order sounds. You don't have to obey them if they aren't in front of you, obey only blindly when they are present.

Eleven: Discourage and ban friends and associates and all army platoon members from all and every kind of sexual activities and actions.

This is the only way you can be sure your friends will be alive.

If your peers are not single, you will never be able to be chaste because they will not allow or enable it.

Twelve: Don't take people's food

Fourteen: Put your life at risk for no reason to save others.

You might think it is foolish, but hundreds of real-life examples show that no one was ever saved when trying to save himself.

Yes, it will save you temporarily but will annihilate you and your friends on the long run, in the most gruesome way.

Sixteen: Never frame someone else for your own crimes to save yourself

Seventeen: Always agree to share, even you have little.

Eighteen: Pray each day, until you weep.

Nineteen: Sit together every day and read the stories of saints for half an hour then conclude with prayers.

Twenty: Read the funeral prayers as soon as a soldier dies.

You can read the following prayers out loud, as it will give soldiers hope. Make them observe silence for each soldier's demise.

We brought nothing into this world and it is certain we can carry nothing out. The lord gave and the lord hath taken away. Blessed be the name of the Lord.

These are men that we knew and liked. Guys like us, guys we ate with, and slept with and fought with.

We were just a little luckier than they were.

We will miss them.

Perhaps I knew (the deceased name) a little better than the others, as he came this town. (Here, add personal details like his family home, hobbies etc, to make it personal)

We are sorry they had to die, sorry they didn't have the chance to live out their lives and finish the things they dreamt of doing. That's the reality. Any one of us could be lying here tomorrow and somebody may be reading a prayer over us and we get tossed in the sea but that is not what's important; a lot more are going to die before this war is over and it is up to the ones that come through to make sure that they didn't die for nothing.

We therefore commit his body to God, for the general resurrection of the last day. The life of the world that come through our lord whose majesty will judge the world and the earth shall give up her dead.

Twenty-two: Give your bullet proof vest to your enemies.

Twenty-Three: Dress up as ugly as possible and do not march smartly, unless with black painted face and be extremely overdressed to make you look very smart.

Twenty-Four: Open up a medical clinic in enemy territory.

Twenty-five: Encourage peers to be chaste, otherwise it will be difficult for you to be pure.

Twenty-six: Don't be friendly or too nice with prisoners of war.

Be stiff and formal and cold; otherwise, being nice will inevitably cause you to fall into a situation where you will be forced to sexually or physically torture them and that will cause your annihilation.

If you belong to the allied NATO Forces, then try to avoid showing your face to your enemies. With civilians or prisoners try to not show your face. This war is going to be a war between civilisation and uncivilization. First world countries and second and third world countries. The world has become very violent and its anger and hatred towards a particular religion and a particular race is severe. In the case of religion, Muslims have been targeted and framed by the media as rapist and torturers so it would be very wrong for a Muslim army to go into a country carrying Islamic flags and shouting allahu Akbar. And it would be extremely detrimental and harmful for a Western European or North American Armed Force to go into a country or fight against the nation that is officially not Western European and to show their faces towards them. The people tend to become angry and holds accountable every civilised nation for the smallest acts of harm that they do. If 1 million soldier gives them 1 million packages of food, they will find fault with the one soldier who hurt them. It is extremely important for soldiers to be careful in this matter and try as much as they can to avoid going in front of any civilians or foreign people in those areas and it is also important for the soldiers to never show their face in front of their enemies or their prisoners of war. So, in order to make sure that a wrong blame does not come on you and your country and race does not get blamed for everything that goes wrong within themselves, it is better for anyone belonging to the coalition Western European or Canadian, Australian or American forces, and they should definitely cover their faces and try to talk as little as possible.

It is extremely important to not get involved with your enemies. Oftentimes, I've seen that making a connection with your enemy is what destroys you. Keep them professional, as far away as possible from you and try to never speak with them. And feed them better than you eat yourself.

Thirty: Keep beard

Do not ever use weakness as an excuse to get into some sexual relationship.

until you have courage to lose sight

Officer's Handbook:

For a war to result in victory, it is extremely important for the officers, and those were in charge for soldiers' performance, to behave accordingly. The winning, and the losing of war is completely dependent on the platoon leader, and the people who are responsible for the soldiers, whether it is their commanding officer or whether it is someone who is in charge of them, wherever they are situated in, and whichever place they are staying in.

Below are several examples of the mistakes that the German officers made during World War II and how it destroyed their entire army and destroyed their country, along with the race. These mistakes were scrutinised, investigated and thoroughly studied after perusing the journals and the report, and the official events of all their missions in which they utterly failed.

Rule number 1:

The most important rule that the German military miserably failed at was one of the chief reasons that their soldiers lost all morale to win the war. This one mistake made them dislike and hate and fear their own soldiers, and their own government, and their own comrades. This one mistake was the reason for the fall of one of the greatest armies of World War II. This one mistake made every single soldier prefer their enemies, to win the war, and be willing to live under their rule, although most of their families died in the hands of their enemies.

So, rule number one is to behave most sensibly and as mercifully as possible with your inferior soldiers. Behave as decent as possible with your subordinates in every level of the army. There is nothing more important than this for the moral of the soldiers to stay strong, and for their willingness to make their country win. This one rule will help you in places where nothing else can help you and when you are surrounded by your enemies, and when you are completely dependent and are at the mercy of your subordinates. Be as merciful as humanly possible. And remember: this will not be easy. The youngsters of this generation were taught and brainwashed to be extremely violent, awfully short-tempered and inhumane, or even cruel towards anyone who are nice to them, or is merciful to them. Every single kid of this generation, whether due to some flimsy social media profile or online vlog, believes that they are the most powerful, most worthy, most wise, and most entitled person in the world. And whoever is decent with them gets a vitriol of all their insult and hate, and have their insecurities targeted at them. These boys actually start believing that they are something of a powerful superhero who is entitled to everything in the world, and everyone else is their slave. The mentality and the behaviour of the kids of this generation is extremely violent and will make you so angry that you will lose every drop of your patience and your senses while dealing with them.

They are constantly taught to be petty and take revenge for every silly thing, and to be violently angry and brutally aggressive towards anyone who does not completely be enslaved to them and does not obey every word and command.

Although they may appear to be violent, evil, cruel, selfish hard-hearted and self-entitled, inside their hearts, they still have a lot more mercy than those humble, obedient soldiers of another country who are trained and taught to be obedient through years of abuse from their childhood, and their interior had become extremely cruel and extremely merciless, and extremely selfish, while their outer behaviour is extremely obedient towards anyone who has any power over them. As long as that person has power over them, they will be the most obedient servants to that superior person or officer or official but the moment that senior person comes under their command, all their brokenness, their hatred, and their selfishness and insecurity will take place and then they will show their true faces of cruelty, torture, and endless oppression.

It is easier said than done, when a superior official has to be patient with the self-entitled idiotic teenagers of this century. You will lose your patience 100 times each day. They will verbally attack you and physically assault you too for the slightest and the smallest offense. I was watching a video that day of police officers assaulting, beating and knocking down their police chief for asking them to do a thorough check on someone arrested. The level of violence that these police officers were showing to their police chief was unimaginable to think of just 10 years ago. Even five years ago, the police officers and sergeants were scared to death of the police chief, but the kids of this century, and this generation, whenever they see someone with some decency and some wisdom, or some understanding, they take out all their madness, craziness and their stupidity and their shallow anger on that person, and for the smallest reason, they literally knocked out their superior officer and pinned him down, bashing his head against the police car windshield for trying to ask them a simple question despite the fact that he was their superior officer and had the power to dismiss them and suspend them. This is the level of craziness that many youths of this generation are born with and grow up manifesting.

But if you check deeper, and if you could see into the future, you would see that those police officers still have a lot more mercy in them than the obedient police officers of the Chinese government, who are extremely obedient to their police chief, while torturing people in concentration camps, because their government offers them power over those oppressed people for their religious views. For your family and your generation to come, it is much safer for you to make the country, which is violent on the outside, but merciful on the inside, to win this war, and maintain the civilisation and justice that we have been maintaining for the last thousand years.

The trick is to behave extremely decent with them inside the barracks or while training. Build a connection with them as if you are their older brother or their father figure. Show them that you care about them without being silly and without cracking jokes constantly, or making yourself disrespectful in their eyes.

Point 2:

For officers, nothing is more vital than this rule. Never be rude with your men and never insult them in front of their friends and buddies and fellow soldiers. This is an offense which they can never forget and this is enough severe an injury for their moral to break down and for them to mentally feel extremely low and worthless. And you do not want your soldiers feeling so low and worthless that they lose all incentive to fight the war and risk their lives 100 times each day for their country and their government to win.

Be extremely decent with them and build a connection with every single soldier personally or with whoever is under your command. And whenever you leave the barracks and go out for a mission or training outside the base or the living space, be extremely strict and make them follow the rule. Word for word. Take no nonsense, and do no partiality towards anyone in particular, otherwise you will lose your credibility.

Let your men know that you have their back and that you care about each one of them and especially so if they are ill. Take a thermometer and check their temperature every day. Be concerned about their health and well-being and safety. Make sure that their gears are all perfectly in order. Don't scream or shout at them or punish them. No matter how badly you are tempted to do so, or how much disrespect they are treating you with in front of each other, take them aside, and talk with them. Tell them that you care about them, but you will not stand any disrespect from them in the future, and that you will have them transferred. But do not insult them in front of their face. No matter how violently they react or even if they verbally assault you or physically attempt to assault you, do not get involved. Ignore them and control your anger. Do not let your insecurity make you believe that if I don't show my power with a really rude behaviour and strict punishment and screaming, then I will lose all control and they won't obey me in the field.

There were two German teams in World War II and I read both of their journals. One team was commanded by a German Commander who in order to keep his soldiers come and happy and not have them sexually assault young girls, forced all soldiers to visit the brothel and become sexually active and fulfil their sexual needs with sex workers so that they do not harass girls in the country that they will invade.

Trust me, it never happens like that. In the field, and in the battlefield of this century, you will be completely at their mercy. But if these kids break down mentally and emotionally, they will easily surrender, and will not be willing to sacrifice their lives, and will not be willing to obey your order the moment they see the enemies getting a winning hand over you.

The commander was a very caring man who loved all his soldiers, and did everything in his power to help them protect them and save them. He later ran away from the Eastern Front and travelled several thousand kilometres on foot over icy winter and barely made his soldiers survive so he could come and surrender to the Americans.

When the enemy is winning over you, you need your soldiers to fight for the love of their country and their commanding officer. You need them to sacrifice their lives willingly and take every risk possible. If you treat them like cattle and animals and bark at them, and shout at them, yes, they will listen to you inside the barracks, but the moment they see you in a vulnerable situation in the field, they will purposely want you to get captured by your enemies. Millions of German soldiers rushed to the American forces to surrender, hoping they would honour the Geneva Conventions, but they were disappointed. War can be cruel, and in WW3, if you imagine the Chinese communist army will be civil to you, then you will be disappointed.

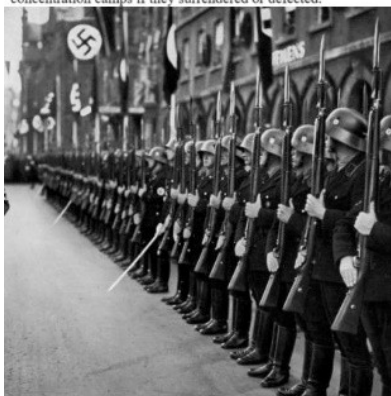

The German army did not give charity to the locals in WW2, and this caused them to get destroyed. DO not repeat their mistake and generously share your own rations. Teach your men how to be human. Soldiers lose their sense of purpose very quickly. When their friends die one after the other after the other, and they get injured, and they are starving and shivering in the cold, and getting tortured and shelled, it is easy for a soldier and a young man, and a young boy, to lose the reason and forget the purpose for which he is suffering so severely for. It is important to constantly give them strength and courage and advice. Fire them up with the purpose and constantly remind them every single day in the morning and in the evening spending at least 10 minutes, talking to them individually about the situation of the politics, and the outcome, if they do not constantly fight with their blood and sweat to defend their freedom and their country and their nation. Tell them it is the last chance of humanity to survive against a communist nation, which will enslave and force everyone into force labour. Tell them whatever you have to do without making them hate the enemy. Do not make them hate the enemy, or become passionate, because if they become too angry and hateful, then they will lose the war because of their cruelty. But tell them the longer outcome of it, and constantly promised that each one of them will eventually become extremely successful and politically powerful. Should they win the war, and the whole world will be depending on them, and they will be responsible for its safety and its freedom and its civilization. Give them responsibility and give them a purpose. Every single day give them a purpose and remind them about it. Do not miss a single day. The greatest problem in the army is that the soldiers they lose their purpose. They do not know what they are fighting for, and who they are fighting for. They see no difference between their country and the country of their enemies.

They will lose all incentive to fight, and they will lose all feelings of mercy towards their fellow soldiers, and start seeing their own countrymen as their enemy. Millions of Germans were dead in 1945, and millions more were crippled or maimed all because they made the mistake of fighting against Russia. Make sure Russia is never your enemy. Those Germans who had survived the war were staggering toward starvation and had to

Then he talked with the American commander in the American team and told him that if he surrendered that, any German who surrendered during World War II would have their families put in concentration camps and tortured by an entity who had taken over the German government and it was forcing all German soldiers to fight for Germany and follow every order and Rule with the threat of their families being put into concentration camps if they surrendered or defected.

This is the greatest mistake that the German officers made. They were extremely strict, holding court martials here and there, and shooting down their inferior soldiers, in fear that they will disobey them and disregard their order. What happened was that the soldiers broke down mentally and emotionally and started hating their government and started violently killing innocent people and even sexually assaulting people, and committing every kind of looting and marauding crime, which destroyed their image, and had them kill millions without an end, earning the curse of every innocent victim in Europe, until every last German soldier was dead.

So, in order to make the surrender appear real, he cut a deal with his American captors and told them to shoot around him so that the German government thinks that they had put up a true fight with the Americans and had no choice but to surrender so that their families are not put into concentration camps. The Americans happily agreed and shot far away from them and made it appear very natural and gave them complete immunity and safety under American command.

They lost all mercy and feelings towards their country and their government, because of the strictness of their commanding officers.

Unfortunately, one of the American soldiers who was a machine gunner and was mentally imbalanced because his best friends died in the hands of Germans, came and heard the shots and saw the Germans and became so insane that without listening to any of his teammates he took out the machine gun and shot all 21 members of that German team dead.

For years, German men who surrendered to the Allied forces were forced to labour in slave camps and died from diseases. Do not surrender unless you really have to. Surrendering can be fatal, as it was for the Germans of WW2, who often were tortured after they gave themselves up to the Allies. "They tortured us and civilians in many villages," reported one German officer, "nailed some on barn doors and shot many others."

German commanding officers were obsessed with discipline and were used to punishing them for the smallest of the mistakes. Even for getting into a relationship with a girl, their commanding officers would shoot them and have them court martialled and killed on the field.

This will be the most difficult part for you, to be decent with them when they will violently react and try to take advantage of your niceness. Give them therapy and be strict with them and have a long conversation with them afterwards. But hold your patience and control your anger and never let them fear you, or think of you as cruel and selfish and hateful person who does not care about their life. Be as decent as possible with them inside the barracks and the base, and be as strict as possible with them as soon as you leave for training or the real mission.

The soldiers that are going to come under your comment, are going to be emotionally afraid, broken down mentally, or former drug addicts broken up from the relationships, first time leaving their parents who spoiled them for years, and these children will be absolutely broken-hearted. Do not let them get angry at you. Do not let break them down even more. Do not be rude with them because of your own selfish ego, and your fear of not being obeyed. This is the biggest mistake that you can possibly do and although all your senses will constantly tell you that you are making a mistake by being nice to them, and you are giving forth a message to them know that you are weak, but trust me, it is better to win with unruly soldiers than to lose with obedient ones and all of you dying in obedience and misbehaving with each other.

If you are decent with them, but strict, you will gain their respect and their love and you will turn them into mentally and emotionally healthy human beings, who will find a reason to win this war, and who will find an incentive to stay alive and to protect their soldiers in arms, and their commanding officer, too. And in dire situations, when your enemies take over the nation, this is going to be the most important part where all your good behaviour and decency will come into play.

I have heard so many complaints from soldiers on every single YouTube video, and Instagram posts of how severely behaviour their commanding officers mete out to them, by punishing them most brutally for the smallest mistakes, fearing disobedience or disorder. This is how all soldiers mentally break down and become extremely cruel and dangerous and harms civilians for no real cause because of their own psychological damage done by years of severe mistreatment from their commanding officers.

How severely the soldiers get punished for the smallest offense- demeaning punishment that constitute to absolute bullying. This is extremely dangerous, and the Canadian and American army are going steadily towards the path of the Nazi soldiers who were extremely strict and rude, often downright brutal towards their subordinates, and were only obsessed with following orders and being afraid of breaking the law and the rules. They often shot their own soldiers for even having a relationship with a girl from an occupied country, turning their soldiers into mentally broken down cruel killers who lost all humanity in their fear and depression.

Don't worry too much about command and control: stop obsessing so much over your subordinates, and the soldiers under your command. You may think that you and your platoon are going to stick there for life and that you have to take their misbehaviour and their craziness for your entire life because it will feel like that, but trust me, within a few years, you will never see them again, so try to have patience, practice self-control, and do not take every single offense done by every single soldier so personally. It's nothing personal. Most of the soldiers who come under your command will be from severely broken families and will have a drug habit and some of them will be downright messed up and mentally imbalanced. They will be victims of child abuse and kids that grew up in correctional facilities, some will be ex-cons, or criminals, and should the draft take place, you may even have dangerous prisoners and murderers under your command. You may not feel safe with them, and you may think that the only way to establish your power is by screaming and shouting, and punishing them. But never do that in a real warfare. Because in any given moment, you will be at their mercy.

Do not teach your men hate and passion. Often times commanding officers, in order to get a good performance from their soldiers, goes on to push them to hate their enemy most passionately. And then those soldiers become so crazy and so passionate that they go and start killing civilians, and torturing them, and interrogating them, and become absolutely mad, raving, insane animals, and even sexually assaulting both young men and women from those foreign lands, and because of those monstrous behaviours, the entire country loses its honour and its power and its position. Never allow your soldiers to become passionate, or angry, or violent towards anyone, even if it is their enemy. Passion and hatred and anger will work for a short while, and you will be tempted to use it, but in the long run, these soldiers will become absolute monsters. Constantly teach them self-control and force them into religion and religious values because there's no way to control those crazy psychos, except for using religion and put some fear pf God in their hearts when they are in a country where the civilians are vulnerable, and at their mercy. Do not let the actions and the torture and the cruelty and the killing of your soldiers destroy your entire nation's winning agenda. The entire world, democracy, freedom and justice is dependent upon you and your soldiers and their behaviour towards the enemy. Each soldier holds the honour of your entire country and the freedom of the entire universe and their hands. You cannot possibly hand over the entire world's security, and every single human being's future in the hands of the communist Chinese, so they could torture and put all Christians Jews and Muslims into concentration camps and destroy religious freedom and all kinds of civilised freedom by putting people into slave labour camps, and taking their children away for not following a rule or a regulation. You must make sure that every single soldier behaves accordingly, and in the most decent manner. Read prophetic, or saint stories every day and preach to them the gospel and tell them about God. Don't preach them hatred but preach to them the love of their country and the love of freedom. Don't let them be passionate, and most importantly, never allowed them to get sexually involved with anyone or even within themselves. Never allow a single relationship to take place under your eyes. Sexual relationships make soldiers monstrously passionate, and nothing in the world makes them crazier and crueller more faster than any kind of sexual activities. Take complete control and make sure that they don't get a second of their time to indulge in any sexual activities or sexual conversations, or view sexual pictures or videos or engage in relationships or anything of that sort.

During World War II, when American soldiers were stationed in England and they were given a two-day break before being deployed to Germany, several thousand Englishwomen died in their hands after being sexually being assaulted by Allied soldiers. It made the American commanding officers so crazy that for the next one to two years, they did not allow a single soldier to get out of the barracks, even when they had their days off. The US commanders then stipulated a rule to make sure soldiers in WW2 remained chaste during service. Even marriage was strictly controlled.

Follow this rule, and do not allow a single soldier to get out of the barracks during their breaks. Make up an excuse and take time out through punishment from one to two weeks beforehand, and only give the dumbest kids and soldiers permission to go out, knowing that they will not be able to do any crimes or hook up with girls or do anything to dishonour the uniform.

Point 4:

Do not punish your soldiers for any crime, but punish the most severely for anything related to sexual activities, or misbehaving with civilians. Teach them to be nice with civilians by training them. You must train each soldier as if there are monsters just out of a Zombieland. The media made generation Z into absolute self-entitled monsters, who know nothing but selfishness. You must teach them humanity, and get them out of the sexual sickness that has been imprinted in their brains and made them into a sexual monster who knows nothing but sex. Train them, by making them give parts of the ration away to the civilians who are in need. And reward them and praise them for their efforts to help civilians. Make them help young girls and send the soldiers to go and ask her if she's safe and if she needs an escort to go home. This way, they will be trained to not attack young girls, but rather help them, and save them.

Do not let them say any passionate word, or utter a single, passionate sentence. Even when their friends die, do not let them act out. Even if they are emotionally broken down, tell them to take some time off, but don't let them scream, shout or make their fellow soldiers angry at the enemy. Do not let them find a single excuse to become angry, hateful or teach their fellow soldiers how to be cruel and justify it through anger and pain.

Soldiers suffer from a severe form of herd mentality in that whenever a fellow soldier dies, and his buddies react out of pain or anger with violence, all the other soldiers learn from him, and justify their cruelty and violence, because of revenge and thinks themselves great for taking that revenge. When one soldier is cruel, and starts torturing someone of the enemy-by justifying it, every single soldier follows him. This mentality is that the most evil because the most sick and cruel soldier amongst the group takes control of everyone and holds them in sort of hostage situation, and forces them to join in with him in that revenge. That revenge makes them do every kind of crime and cruelty in the world. Don't let them use that excuse and control them and don't let them be angry or display a single outburst.

Point 5:

Whatever the case is with the soldiers under your command, do not get involved with them, and do not scream or mistreat them, no matter how much crime they do, or how much they misbehave with you or how much they disobey your order, and how much they instigate others against you. Keep your calm and tell yourself that very soon, this will all be over. Never lose your cool. Never lose your calm and civility. Don't let them test you and make you lose it by failing to keep control of yourself.

If things get out of control, and your subordinates start taking advantage of your decency, and they start a violent confrontation in front of you, demeaning your position in front of your other men, then you will have to have an alternative plan, such as taking someone you trust the most amongst your men, someone who is very wise and sensible, and you will make a deal with that soldier, and his job will be to physically come and severely punish and curse, and even hit the soldier who is misbehaving with you. However, you will remain impartial. You will remain calm, and you will remain impassive and you will order both of the men to stand down, and you will make a strong statement that you will speak to them personally, separately, and every time this happens, your trusted soldier will always interfere and intervene, but you will never react violently or attack your own man. By doing this, you will ensure that your platoon is safe for mutiny, and you will be respected and loved by your men, and they will trust you even more.

So, the above five points fall under the first rule of being nice to subordinates.

Now, we will study the second rule of being a successful officer.

Rule number 2:

Build a strong relationship with the guardians and family remembers (not children or wife, just siblings, uncle, cousin, friends and parents) of your men. Talk with them and write to them daily with updates and let them know that their child is in good hands. You will gain their utmost love and prayers and support.

Rule number 3:

Never allow sexuality in your platoon. Ban all sexual videos and seize every cell phone and give random raids to look for pornographic images and sex-tings and punish them severely for it and give them a speech about how it will kill them and distract them from their mission.

Ban all communications and do not allow them to talk about anything sexual. Keep your spy and tell them you are a mind reader and you will punish them if they even think of sex.

This will strengthen them and make them of highest moral value and will make your enemy's country want your soldiers to rule and this abstinence will train your soldiers severe self-control and they will never rape or torture anyone and they will win hearts.

If they have too much energy, then make them wrestle and run races before sleeping and never allow them to have a single moment empty for sexual pleasure or dirty talks or anything of the sexual kind.

During the Second World War, there were two German officers who were close friends and one decided to give his men a steady supply of tickets to visit local brothels and spend time with sex workers because he thought this will make them more efficient and cause them to desist from raping foreign women, but the opposite happened and the officer's men end up committing war crimes and even were later killed upon surrendering to the Allied forces, while his friend who was also a high-ranking officer, chose to ban all sexual activities and eventually, every single of his men survived the war and managed to successfully escape American custody in the Rhine, where a million of their German comrades perished from starvation and diseases. So, the answer to success is never sex, but the abstinence of it.

Keep your soldiers chaste, and do not be like those German commanders who thought it was healthy for their men to engage in sexual acts and so, they provided brothels for their soldiers, causing unspeakable harm.

Don't worry about their sexual needs, they won't be having enough sex in Chinese labour camps anyway, with one plate of rice and 18 hours slave labour.

Rule number 4:

Ban all sexual differences. Make all women shave their head and make them paint beard in their faces. Tell them it is for their own security and that if they stay under your command, they will win or else they can go somewhere else.

It's best to not allow women and men to mix, but if they do, then they all will speak in 'he' gender and will dress up like men and they will sleep side by side and half of them will guard the other at all times, so no form of sexual crimes can ever take place.

This way, the girls will feel protected from their own soldiers and your soldiers will be trained to be more in self-control and they will be trained to protect them.

Rule number 5:

Ban all homosexuality or bisexuality or even a single sex sexuality or any relationship between soldiers, whether men and men or men and women.

Have a talk with their parents and tell them about your war policy. Don't be afraid of woke propaganda and policies. Don't be afraid of your soldiers threatening you with cases, or having you court martialled.

Tell them 'I am going to win this war and I am going to make sure none of my soldiers 'f' each other. I don't care about how much you love each other. Go to a brothel if you want to make love. This army is not for lust and sex and 'f-ing'

Don't get intimidated or threatened by their threats.

Whenever you catch a soldier torturing an enemy, or a prisoner of war, punish them most severely with as much force as humanly and legally possible. and if you catch any soldiers, sexually assaulting, any boy or girl, put that soldier through as much as physical torment as is legal, and as possible by you.

For every other crime, do not punish them with any physical pain, and rather punish them with creative punishments, such as reading a book of C.W. Lewis and writing a book review.

The soldiers that will be conscripted under you will come from all kinds of backgrounds. The world has a way and the American and the Western media has a way of whitewashing everything. You will only see in the media, the crimes of the Muslims who are not even Muslim, but Muslims who are being framed for those crimes. You will only see the crimes of the Russians, which are actually done by the Chinese but nonetheless, you will only see these two people being tortured by the media and insulted and constantly blamed and defamed by the media.

But the real and true horror and crimes that take place in every single community goes unnoticed and uncovered by the media. The rate of rape and sexual abuse and murder and aggravated assault is astounding and beyond comprehension, but the media will act as if everything is perfect except for some Middle Eastern terrorists on the other side of the planet. The situation is extremely deadly and the amount and types of violent crimes that comes to a police station on a daily basis is very alarming and very different than what the media portrays.

Because of the violent pornography and sexual movies, the sexual abuse and sexual torture has skyrocketed into unprecedented levels in America, Canada, and western Europe, and all over the world.

The amount of child abuse and sexual abuse each boy and young girl goes through is unfathomable. The media will only report false cases that are given against Catholic priests. But they will never ever report the thousands and millions of cases of men, torturing and sexually assaulting, their girlfriend sons. These boys all grow up to be unimaginably, cruel, insane, and extremely heartless, torturers and murderous rapists. Without any exception, every single of those inmates, who were tortured when they were young and abused by the boyfriends of their mother or father, grew up to be absolute monsters who went on to torture in unspeakable ways any decent men or women they found around them or under their control.

In this war, you will have one completely insane retarded psychopath in each team and that boy will single-handedly give encouragement to all the other boys and put them in a precarious situation of joining in with him in the torture ritual or get reported and get bullied and even get accidentally killed in one of their missions. Place multiple spies amongst the soldiers whose job is to support all kinds of evil things that anyone says, and then to come and report to you which soldier is the most sickest amongst your group, punish that soldier without any remorse and without any end. Do not let the crime and the sickness and the torture, and the evilness of one soldier, destroy your entire country and your entire platoon, and the name of your nation and the honour of your entire country. Countries like Russia and China are extremely strict in their media and their population is not used to the kind of sickness and madness that these boys grow up to learn from violent sexual videos and movies. The enemies will be beyond horrified, and will be so hurt, and so angry, and will react with such maddening violence if they should ever become the victim of one of these soldiers tortures. They will not understand that - that man does not represent your entire country or the entire NATO Forces. Do not let your decency and your civilisation and your rules and regulations stop you from getting rid of that one soldier who will destroy your entire platoon and will destroy your entire country and will defame and dishonour your nation for the next hundred years and make an entire country go against you. Do whatever you have to do to stop that torture from happening. Punish them most severely and keep them away from the rest of the soldiers under the guise of punishment.

America and England out of their merciful heart, destroyed the death penalty, calling the Germans brutal for their death sentences and executions after world war II, from that day onwards, America and Europe has become over full with sick minded, retarded individuals who go onto abuse their children, and in turn make, and create more sick and psychopathic individuals, who when get conscripted into the army , go on to do unimaginable crimes and such severe torture and suffering that are beyond the human imagination of any human being in the world.

All these boys were sexually assaulted by men from a young age, and many of them were forced into sexual relationships from a young age for food and lodging and fearing homelessness. But they in return go around and sexually assault every young man and boy. And torture anyone they find helpless. Although death sentences and capital punishment are extremely horrible when it is done to an innocent person, but the cancellation of capital punishment allows thousands and millions of sick minded retarded, individuals to torture and abuse any helpless child they find turning them into monsters of the next generation without the fear of death. Capital punishment does kill some innocent people unfortunately, but with the cancellation of capital punishment, millions of individuals are born into civilised nations, who create millions of more animals and monsters through their abuse and torture who go onto torture and abuse any civilian they find when they get conscripted into the army and get a chance to torture people and get a gun in their hands. Destroying the entire nation and the entire civilization of the western world because the action of one sick retarded insane animalistic individual. An American Army lieutenant based in Vietnam used to forgive his subordinates for any crime they did, unless it was a sexual crime, or any torturing of prisoners of wars. When he used to find someone sexually assaulting someone or torturing a prisoner of war, once he forced one of those soldiers to sit at gunpoint in a swamp all night, and not get up telling him that he will get shot if he leaves the swamp and the leeches got on his body and drank away his blood making his whole-body swell. Safe to say that soldier, never again tortured any prisoners of war and never sexually assaulted anyone else in Vietnam. You can come up with different kind of punishments, but do not ever allow a single sick minded soldier to ever exist under your command no matter how much they obey you and how sweet they behave with you and how nice they act.

The Germans constantly threatened each other with desertion and defeatism and almost 250,000 German soldiers and officers were imprisoned, executed or hanged by their own government for not obeying orders, only for them to hate their country and for the rest 7 million men to die as prisoners in gulags and American and British custody.

Talk with their parents and let them know that their child is safe with you.

These parents, no matter how much they outwardly support LGBTIQ, inside, they want their sons to go to a family who will love him like a little brother and not seduce and sexually assault him in group orgies or rape each other in revenge for sleeping with one guy and not the other.

I met a Ukrainian old lady who wanted her son to join the Russian forces because the Ukrainians legalised homosexuality and pornography the day they started the war with Russia.

She said she heard officers sending the soldier who didn't agreed to sleep with them to the front lines to die and she wanted her enemies to win so her son doesn't have to sleep with every officer to save himself.

When I asked what would she do if her daughter was treated the same way and she was beaming with pride because she wants her daughter to get an officer and seduce and marry him and thought it was even better if she gets pregnant.

These women's mentality is that their sons are innocent little kids and mama's boy who will eventually marry a silly nice girl and have some nice kids.

They don't want big, strong men seducing or threatening their baby boys into having sex or group sex or get raped by one soldier or be jealous of another soldier or sent to die by their officer who is also in love with him.

If loving mothers wanted their sons to have sex with their brothers in arms, then they'd send their sons to male prison to get seduced or raped or get into a relationship with a gangster to save himself from other men.

The parent's curse will end the civilised society of Western Europe and North America and they will want and pray that Russia and China take over this entire nation and its freedom.

So, talk to the parents and tell them their sons are safe and there will be no sex and no relationship and you can personally guarantee that and you will see that the parents will want their country to win.

Let them know that you-their commanding officer- is not a molester, a seducer, a groomer or a pimp.

Let the parents know that you are a brother and a father to their son.

Sexual immorality destroyed the Nazis and it will destroy the allied coalition NATO forces this time as well.

While Chinese soldiers are practicing taekwondo and Jui jitsu and perfecting hacking and walking over fire and driving through nuclear inferno, how can NATO forces win while doing orgies with each other and men fighting to marry other men and maybe even their enemy soldiers?

Every brotherhood and friendship get destroyed the moment this gay subject comes up.

It's not discrimination, it's just like incest in that it destroys the bond of family and true brotherhood and brotherly relationship between soldiers and their commanders and that single handed destroys a nation and makes an army fail.

Rule number 6:

Read saint stories and be consistent, like a therapy and counselling session such as Alcohol Anonymous, and pray. Do group therapy and pray every day. If you find that you need ideas to tell these saint's stories, then you may find a book called Saints and Lovers, written by Jaabir Awal to be very entertaining and also spiritual for young people. For spiritually uplifting ideas, several books that have been written by a Franciscan Friar can also be helpful in understanding God. What Happens After Saying Yes to God by Casey Cole OFM is a book that can give hope to a hopeless world. In addition to Jaabir Awal's book, a brief booklet written by Ubada Mir is highly recommended for those who are interested in learning about Jesus and his life story. Titled, The Most Loved Man, by Ubada Mir, this book offers a colourful narration about the life of Jesus and his mother Mary, so it could be read to soldiers in their recreation time.

If there's a Muslim among you, make him pray and say a prayer in his language. It's extremely important for them to believe in life after death. It gives them strength and a cause to fight happily. If there's a Jewish soldier, make him say a Hebrew prayer and he will find happiness and strength and you can read the Lord's Prayer and other saint's prayer and carry a prayer book.

Rule number 7:

Have tea time every day and it is going to make the soldiers look forward for a camp fire time. Make coffee and gather whatever snacks you have. Eat and listen to songs, especially patriotic songs every day without fail.

Rule number 8:

Say funeral prayers after every soldier that dies and perform the ritual in their religion. Pray to God for eternal Salvation.

unacknowledged. Leave no one lying without a spiritual support.

A sample Funeral prayer is given below, but you can use your discretion and say words of hope and compassion:

I am the resurrection and life, said the lord. He who believeth in me though he were dead, yet shall he live, and whosoever shall live and believeth in me shall never die.

We brought nothing into this world and it is certain we can carry nothing out. The lord gave and the lord hath taken away.
Blessed be the name of the Lord.

These are men that we knew and liked.
Guys like us, guys we ate with, and slept with and fought with.

We were just a little luckier than they were.

We will miss them.

Perhaps I knew (the deceased name) a little better than the others, as he came this town. (Here, add personal details like his family home, hobbies etc, to make it

We are sorry they had to die, sorry they didn't have the chance to live out their lives and finish the things they dreamt of doing. That's the reality. Any one of us could be lying here tomorrow and somebody may be reading a prayer over us and we get tossed in the sea but that is not what's important; a lot more are going to die before this war is over and it is up to the ones that come through to make sure that they didn't die for nothing.

We therefore commit his body to God, for the general resurrection of the last day. The life of the world that come through our lord whose majesty will judge the world and the earth shall give up her dead.

This prayer is a mere template, but please personalise these and make sure each soldier and their surviving comrades feel loved and remembered.

You may also find Father Casey Cole's books to be useful in finding prayers for these sombre occasions.

Believing in God has become a blasphemy in this modern age, and after a 4.8-magnitude earthquake hit New Jersey on April 5, 2025, and shook New York City violently just days before a solar eclipse was to bring darkness across the land, and experts confirmed that this rare earthquake was the largest in 140 years, one Republican Representative posted on social media: "God is sending America strong signs to tell us to repent. Earthquakes and eclipses and many more things to come. I pray that our country listens.” However, this message was met with violent hate and anger because she had put praying hands emoji at the end, signalling her sombreness, and reported publicly mocked her and criticised her for using the G-word. This is what has become of our nation, where the name of God is banned and the only god is love and lust, sex and hate. American society have become so communist that it may not be able to combat communist ideologies. As officers, you have to try and hold on to God’s goodness and impart that benediction to your soldiers. Our countries have become communists; how will they fight communists like China? Man is god here and god is no longer god, and this mentality causes humans to lose their humanity, and become soulless and emotionless.

For a better idea about who God is, you may also explore and read the book, Enemy of Man, by Ubada Mir, which gives a refreshing outlook about the existence of God and mankind.

Saints and Lovers*, by Jaabir Awal, on the other hand, is a great book to teach soldiers self-control and discipline, and can be appreciated by people of all race, religion and faith.

Rule number 9:

Make your soldiers write poetry. Hold contests and read from English old poems and verses and even discuss some emotions and ideas with one another. This will be therapeutic for both you and your men.

Rule number 10:

Pay attention and take care of the quiet and useless soldier who is extremely cowardly and spineless. Cherish and respect him. Never scream at him. Sometime these coward soldiers have the luck to make the entire group win. During World War 2, the German officers often made the mistake of mistreating and punishing soldiers who were not performing to stellar standards, and this caused their inevitable failure. Try not to make their mistake of focusing on the aesthetics and outward skill all the time.

Rule number 11:

Give them a speech every day before they go to sleep and tell them about the reason why they need to win this war as it is for the good and freedom of the world. Make sure they never lose incentive. Give them a cause. Make them give a speech or write a speech and train them into becoming future leaders.

Rule number 12:

Constantly give charity. Do it personally and make your soldiers give out items and food to others. Help locals rebuild homes and do other charitable acts. Make sure your men are loved by locals, and not hated or mistrusted.

Rule number 13:

Take care of enemy soldiers. They are your future assets.

Try to turn them on your side even if they killed your entire platoon.

You may need them in the future; they may be your only inside man should you get captured or surrender.

However, try to keep in mind that surrendering is not wise for NATO soldiers. It is vital that all officers and soldiers remember this rule.

Never surrender or at least, do everything in your power to hide, go to another country and regroup and keep fighting for this freedom.

The reason why in their naïveté, NATO forces shouldn't believe in the civilisation of the enemies is because this war will be nothing like war with Germany where American POWs were treated like saints and angels, and German captors often buried deceased prisoners with full military honours including gun salutes. In the fight with the Allies of Japan, once a regiment of American soldiers got surrounded by Burmese soldiers who were acting under Japanese leadership. Since the American didn't want to surrender, they started hunting them down and the Americans retaliated with firepower. The Burmese soldiers took revenge on the Americans for not surrendering by peeling alive each American soldier they captured as a warning to the rest of the soldiers that this will be their fate if they didn't stop resisting or willingly surrender. The horror which American men at the Pacific front faced was horrifying and unspeakable.

Before you plan to surrender, think about all these aspects before giving up. Don't listen to woke screaming soldiers who will insist you surrender immediately. Never bow down to pressure. Never ever compromise yourself and your team's safety because some stupid soldiers believe in the goodness of your enemy. No matter how many proof the enemy gives you by flaunting other captured soldiers to say they are all safe and sound, be critical and alert. The other prisoners may be under threat or duress or simply brain washed with drugs to say what the captors wants them to say.

While it is imperative that you do not surrender, your enemy who may easily be China, will often want to surrender. If you have Chinese army trying to surrender to you, then capture them, and treat them well, and see if you can turn them by promising them passage to America and become a legal resident. There may be some enemy soldier who will be very happy with your goodness and agree to volunteer information about their bases, and you will need that information in the future and find out answers to questions when entering the Chinese base to steal antidote, even when you send a Chinese American soldier and of course their ID card is electronically checked. Be always proactive and follow your instinct. Never stop fighting for your freedom and never give up, no matter how much the media reports that the Chinese forces are treating NATO prisoners and civilians with kindness.

As officers, you have to be intelligent and know that no matter how much propaganda and goodness you hear from the captured NATO forces, you will never know what kind of suffering and torment and starvation and torture they are really going through. Undoubtably, NATO forces will be facing what the German Nazi soldiers were facing in Allied hands, where they perished in Siberian prisons, and were being tortured by their neighbouring countries, which were under the Allied rule, but Allied commanders somehow decided to look away and let the Europeans take the revenge on the Germans, and every German women and children were facing the most severe starvation, getting assaulted by every single enemy soldiers for one piece of bread, or one cup of milk for their children, and not a single media in the world reported the suffering of Germany, because they were so hated by the world that no one wanted to give them coverage.

Everyone was enjoying their suffering and cursing and enjoying the pain of the master race. Surrender will rarely bring any goodness to you or your soldiers to try to steer clear from it.

Rule number 14:

Carry vitamins and immune strengthening gummy and offer them as treats to your subordinates.

Rule number 15:

Keep medical supplies handy. I am not talking about the medic or corpsman and his supplies. I am talking about several basic items, which you must buy with your own money and keep it with you at all times. At war, don't think about saving money or spending it on useless things, or anything other than spending the money on your survival.

Make sure to keep meal replacement tablets for at least 10 to 15 persons and a minimal of two-month supply, on your own person.

Keep antibiotics, so that if any anyone around catches a high temperature or the injured ones get infected, you don't have to worry about anything because you will have antibiotics with you. The capsules easily melt and get soaked, so make sure that they are in a waterproof container or waterproof Ziploc bag, and tape it (with duct tape) inside your trousers preferably with your body (around your thigh or legs).

Keep vitamin C supply and the most expensive probiotic tablets, which will stop any kind of upset stomach and prevent diarrhoea and dysentery from happening and spreading. The best cure for diarrhoea is to not eat anything for at least two days.

Keep essential oils, for example, tea tree oil or clove oil as disinfectant or oregano essential oil for teeth and gum disease. Tea tree oil is really important to disinfect a wound, and during the World War I and II, this was more effective than any antiseptics.

Carry oregano oil, should someone start having a severe toothache. Essential oils fix up the toothache real fast. Almost everyone in the Western world, because of yearly virus and flu, have auto immune diseases, and now have severe gingivitis and gum disease, and it gets infected and soldiers quickly die because of their gum infection. The best way to handle it is to rinse your mouth with salt water or use essential oil on your teeth and gums to prevent an infection from reaching the brain through the gum and the tooth.

Even when the medic is not around, take the temperature of every single soldier every morning. If anyone's gland is swollen, or they have a high temperature, give them antibiotic immediately. You cannot afford sick soldiers in this war.

Rule number 16:

Although you should never be punishing soldiers for petty reasons or just because they made you angry or question your command, do not be soft or let them start disobeying you. However, it is important not to overdo one's disciplinary measures, like many German officers of WW2 who had their men shot for petty offenses such as stealing eggs and chickens from local farmers. This form of punishment is counterproductive.

Rule number 17:
Advice for Naval and Air Force

POINT ONE: If you are an Air Force pilot, and you get hit by an enemy missile, and you have no choice but to eject and save yourself, then it is best that you try to tell your captors that you were coming to them to defect and that's why you were flying off course.

If your aircraft gets shot or you see that you're surrounded, it is better that if you land with the plane intact, if you cannot leave the location because you are surrounded by their anti-aircraft system, then land calmly, and tell them that you bought the plane to defect, it is best to save yourself by saying that, and then to look for a chance to come back and gather much information as you can from them. Think of something quickly.

In this war, if you land in a place like China or Russia, and expect to get saved, and to be exchanged as a prisoner, then it is nothing but a dream. War in this century will be the most vicious, bloody, insane hate-filled war. No one will have mercy on anyone, and least of all, on prisoners of war.

Carry the flag of China with the permission of your officer and some positive things about them when you go on a mission over their territory, so in case you get captured, you can convince them that you are pro Chinese, and pro-communist.

Rule number 18:

If any soldier under your command ever tortures anyone or assaults anyone or insults anyone, even if they are an enemy combatant, punish them as severely as possible. But only with physical pain. do not verbally abuse anyone. Verbal abuse breaks down someone's mental strength and makes a bad person even worse. Usually, soldiers who go around assaulting civilians, or enemy combatants or prisoners of war, usually are all originally from extremely broken families, and grew up with severe abuse and sexual abuse. They do not have any human heart or feelings in them. They are mentally deranged and extremely hateful and violent and angry. So, do not verbally abuse anyone, but to stop them from torturing people and defaming your entire platoon, and your entire country and losing the entire war, in order to stop that from happening, you must punish them most severely, but only with physical pain. And physical exertion.

Rule number 19:

Do not let the soldiers eat to their fill if you have power over it. If they get captured, which is highly probable in this war, they will be given starvation rations by their captors. Often times, it is the amount of food that completely breaks down a soldier, mentally and physically, and makes them unable to even have the strength to live on day-to-day.

In order to get them used to that starvation ration, which they must face should they get captured and arrested, keep them on minimal food, but with high nutritious value and high protein content but very minimal food in lesser amounts. Let them eat a full meal and a normal meal only once a week, if you have control over it, and you are not living in the barracks. Because over there, you don't have control over their meal plans.

Keep your army healthy, but do not let them over indulge in food. If they eat a lot while they are free, then the first day of their capture, they will completely break down mentally, because if the Chinese capture Americans, they will probably give them one small fist of rice on water after making them do hard labour the entire day.

Rule number 20:

If you or your men are ever under drone attacks, or fall under a sniper's sight, then the best way to survive is by staying stationary for eight to ten hours in the same location, because no one can escape a powerful drone or a skilled sniper by running. I know evasion from drone attacks are taught to all officers and soldiers in the army, but it is also important to be proactive in these situations.

Rule number 21:

Have a beard policy.

I know the military do not allow beard but they should change the law. Try to have it petitioned and challenged and changed.

Full beard really saves soldiers' lives.

It's just plain facts from all the soldiers of the past and men in the Special forces often have a higher survival rate, due to both their superior training and also their beard. It can be a morale booster

Special Forces or any regiment which allows beard are far more successful than those sections in the army which are enforcing clean shaven profiles.

And to be successful, you will need to sport a full beard and not just a little; a full-length beard in the Dan Bilzerian style.

Rule number 22:

Focus on mental health. Don't let soldiers get depressed.

Come up with fun activities, like camping and fishing, when you are not actively fighting. There are a million activities that could be done to keep their minds off from depression.

Cooking in camp fire, horse riding if you find a horse, fruit picking, baking or any sports like football, soccer and volleyball.

Hold live concerts amongst yourselves if there are any musicians etc.

Just genuinely care for the soldiers. Too many people are obsessed over their own life and own selfishness.

Do whatever you have to do to make sure your soldiers don't fall into depression. This depression destroys every single soldier's spirit.

Get back some soul into the soldiers. The men and the woman of the century in this generation is extremely lethargic, depressed and passionate. This makes their souls dead. They can talk a lot and make a lot of jokes and impress people and are obsessed in impressing people and are constantly being impressed by people, but they lack love, stability and passion for their country or nation.

Patriotism has become completely gone from everyone's heart. People have become dead shells walking with an empty heart, with no soul in themselves anymore.

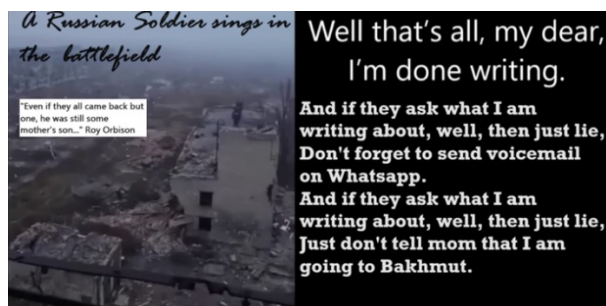

Perhaps it is the fact that they don't have any wives or children to go back to. Perhaps it is the over influx of immigrants, whom they feel alienated to. Perhaps it's the multiple religions that each country now claims to be a part of, and everyone despises everyone inside, while they are forced to support each other on the outside. Perhaps there's no love left because everyone has become economical and selfish without any faith in God. Perhaps when religion gets destroyed from a country and people become faithless and godless, they see no purpose to love each other, and be selfless towards each other.

Perhaps the family bonds of youngsters of this generation have been completely broken and cut off from each other. Perhaps the relationships of this century have all been broken up; perhaps no one can trust their spouses and no one can love their spouse when there is no trust, and they have no reason to go on fighting for a country which they do not love and a family that they do not have.

Perhaps they have no one to come back to because everyone has become loveless and selfish.

Perhaps, when religion is gone from a nation, all love and family bond is gone, and without family and relationships, a soldier finds no reason to survive a war because he has no one to go back to, and he does not know who is fighting for and who he is dying for and what values is he fighting to uphold, and for whom is he laying his life, which he believes is dying for no reason and with no cause because he does not even believe in God and heaven or afterlife.

The truth is, that the Russian soldiers, because of orthodox Christianity, have a lot more bond and love between themselves and their families and their spouses whom they can love and trust and expect loyalty from them.

That's why these soldiers have so much soul and so much feelings for their country and their family and they believe in a cause, and they believe in their country and in their religion, and they want to fight for that value and that moral values which does not change every day with laws made by humans and changed by humans, making what is right, wrong, and what's wrong, right.

Young men like these don't mind dying for their country and their families. They don't mind giving their life away because they believe in an afterlife. Their whole nation is one race and one religion. There is no discord or hatred or inner anger or bottled-up insecurity between each other.

In Russian armed forces, male and female soldiers belong to different platoons and remain separate. They have a lot more chance of winning and sticking together, and they have a lot more happiness within themselves, and carry a soul, and a reason to fight for and a reason to live for, and a reason to die for.

The problem with every single NATO country, is that they have on one side, brought in unlimited number of immigrants from countries who hate them. On the other hand, they themselves distrust their government, and hate their own laws for destroying the moral values of their children, who have become extremely hateful and disobedient, and angry and loveless and selfish and addicted to sexual videos from a young age. Because of the faithlessness and the absence of religion, every single NATO country has high number of depressed people, people who have no families and no friends and no loyal partners. Everyone is being disloyal to everyone, and everyone is forced to act civilised because of the pressure of the media, and the fear of the insult from outside people. But their hearts are all dead. They have no more strength and no more endurance to fight for something they don't believe in. They have no more reason to live on or find a reason to live for. They don't love their governments; they don't understand why they should fight for a government whose laws they despise. They don't have children who like them, because all their children are taken away by their spouses, which never happened in the previous century. Almost no one is married, and none of their parents are married either.

The situation is so economical and so selfish that youngsters from the age of 18 are expected to pay their parents rent. There is not even any love between parents and children anymore. In previous centuries, the soldiers used to love their mother, selflessly, and their mothers used to love them, and their wives used to love them, and their children would never leave them, and their wives would never leave them. The situation is completely different now. They feel like a foreigner in their own country. Their government makes the most immoral laws and changes it every day, scaring them beyond imagination. They don't trust their government because their government has no religion. NATO forces are looking for a complete assured defeat should this mindset prevail.

How can a nation win when there are 100 different nations in that single nation?

How can a man win when he has no family to go back to no family to live for and die for?

It is very important to give the soldiers a purpose. Once they get enlisted, try to constantly bring back religion or bring back faith or bring back freedom.

Is very important to talk with them every day and give them strength and give them a purpose for fighting, to show them constantly what might happen if they lose and to give them hope that once they win this war, perhaps they can bring back religion into their new world and instil moral values and religious values and family values into the new generation of children.

If officers do not instil this mentality into them, every single soldier will secretly want to lose. They won't think that their enemies are any worse than their own government and so, they will want their enemies to win.

During the Revolution, why did the United States win against England?

Because the revolutionaries who created America were extremely religious, and many were actually kind of like religious bigots and many were puritans, who are extremely strict and religious and almost fanatic in their observance of religious law and piety.

Why did the Americans win against Germany in World War II?

Because the American soldiers and the Allied forces were extremely religious, and Germany, upon the election of Hitler, gave up religious observance, and their dictator destroyed all semblance of Christianity from Germany, bringing back military laws and patriotism and a race-based ideology. Adolf Hitler shut down many churches and arrested many holy fathers and religious figures and pastors, who did not align with his party and support him or back his views.

Religious values were destroyed for the first time in Germany after Hitler came to power in 1933. Before that, Germany was an extremely religious nation. But within a few years, Hitler was becoming focused on making the nation successful, and he destroyed every single religious based value and ideology.

That is the only reason why the Allied forces won against Germany, because the Germans had left religion, while the Allied forces were extremely religious and very strict in their prayers, and their observance of faith.

It happened as per the famous quote that Europe shall perish, if it does not return to faith.

There is no way that the NATO forces and their soldiers will find any incentive and any worth in giving their life away when they don't even believe in God, or acknowledge an afterlife, and they don't love their government, and they feel like an alien in their own country, and they hate the laws that their government created, and they hate the people that live in their country, and they hate their families who are extremely professional and selfish and their spouses who are extremely disloyal, thanks to the Internet and social media.

For the NATO forces to win in this World War III is like a far-fetched dream. The only way it will win is if it takes Russia on its side. Perhaps the faith of the Russians and their traditional value, and their love for their family, and their country will make up for the lack of faith and love and incentive in the NATO forces.

Rule number 23:

Stop your subordinates from everything related with sex and sexuality; young men tend to get extremely violent whenever they are sexually active. It is proven by multiple researches that men who are extremely sexually active tend to be extremely violent, as sexual activity and the part of the brain that controls the action and reaction of emotional responses stems and originates from the same place in the human brain that breeds aggression.

Do everything in your power to curb down their sexual activity. Do not let any of your subordinate soldiers indulge in any kind of sexual activity, or watch sexual videos, and never ever allow them to talk about their sexual escapades. Never ever allow them to talk sex between themselves.

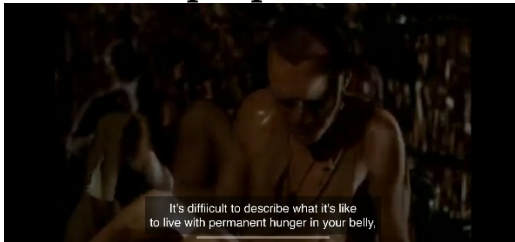

This one thing destroys a patriot's patriotism for his country and makes a person's heart and mind completely dead, and rotten, and weak and cowardly and selfish and hateful, so, make sure that they are constantly talking about the love for their country and make them write patriotic song lyrics all day and make them sing it and record it. Keep them busy with many different records and other actions, and tell them that you will try to make it professional.

Make them write poetry for their country and tell them you will have it published. But do not let them talk about their sexual activities. It destroys the heart and the soul of a soldier, and that soldier no longer finds the strength to save his country. They get obsessed over sexual activities, and they do not look forward to fighting a war or winning a war. They constantly look for sexual partners everywhere they go, and eventually they start doing unimaginable sexual crimes.

Even if they are LGBTIQ, do not let them ever talk about their sex, or their sexual orientation or their sexual identity. Ban it and severely scold them for any mention of sexual activities. Tell them that nothing sexual is allowed in your regiment. And that you will not tolerate anything remotely related to the sexual subject. Scold them severely and insult them in front of everyone, telling them that they're not a patriot, but if they are sex addicts, then to go and live in a brothel and serve people in that brothel.

The young men that will be conscripted in England and America, and other NATO countries are going to be of the most violent kind. This generation is filled with men who are selfish, who hates their country, who are sex addicted, porn-addict, cruel, obsessed over food, and their own survival and selfish beyond human imagination. You must work hard on them or else these monsters will not only destroy their country, but will eventually destroy you too. They will torture every civilian whenever they go someone alone, turning countries and nations against you and your whole country, and your entire army. You must discipline them with unimaginable strength and strictness, and yet without breaking them down mentally and emotionally.

In World War I and II, the United States Army commanders used sexually transmitted diseases and syphilis as an excuse to completely forbid and stop every single soldier from having sexual relationship with anyone. They kept them locked in the barracks for six months to one year at a time (even when they were stationed in friendly territory), and if anyone of them left, they would have them thoroughly checked and their whole body, checked and humiliated in front of all other soldiers, so that they do not go the next time.

But during this time, the Germans of World War I and 2 allowed sex workers who are clean and medically tested, stay in their barracks to serve all the young men, and every single of those soldiers ended up becoming violent, doing violent crimes and dying, and the ones that survived suffered most horribly, with most gruesome torture in the hands of their enemies. And the Americans- they won in flying colours in both the wars with least casualty, and least injuries, and with lots of honour and respect.

Because of this one celibacy action, the entire Allied forces won. Their strictness with religion, their prayers before every single mission, and the purity of their soldiers, and the chastity that was forced upon them kept them humble, and filled them with mercy towards people, and did not give them a chance to seduce groom, or abuse any woman or young boys in that war.

Germans on the other hand lost and died in millions.

Don't be afraid of the woke soldiers who will shout at you and scream at you and tell you it is their sexual rights to do whatever they want to do and have sex with whomever they want to have sex with. Shut them down; don't ever listen to them and don't ever be afraid of their threats and don't let your country and your freedom lose because of the screaming of one sexually addicted, mentally imbalanced woke soldier.

The men and the soldiers of the Allied forces who got captured in World War II, were made to work under hard Burmese and Japanese soldiers, and were tortured so severely and beaten into such slavery, and whipped and abused and starved, and made to work hard labour all day, and all night for years and years.

Those soldiers were strong. Those men of the previous centuries loved their countries more than they loved themselves. They had no girlfriends; they never committed any sin; they did not commit adultery. Their parents were married. In fact, there wasn't a single adult in the whole country who fornicated, and they grew up in perfect households. They were strong beyond imagination, eating pure, non-GMO food, and organic food, and they had training of working in farms all day, and all night, and was capable of extreme physical exertion even before the war. Yet, those men suffered so violently, and so severely that every one of them mentally, and physically broke down. Thousands of them died in disease and starvation, and the ones that came back suffered such severe PTSD that they would almost kill themselves if they saw anyone of Asian origin even later in their lives when they were old.

The men of this century will not last one minute in that camp, and that imprisonment under that torture, and that starvation. The least they could do is let go off all sexual indulgence and practice some kind of discipline and self-defence

Tell every single soldier who will act as if they will die if they don't have sex, that when they get captured by the Chinese, and are tortured relentlessly, and beaten, and mentally enslaved and slave trained and kept in starvation without any food and water or medical supply or medicine- and are forced to clean nuclear waste without any protective gear, and to build bridges and weapons for their enemy, which will be used against their country and their families and when they lose 100 pounds or 100kgs and become walking skeletons and all their friends end up dying in front of them in starvation, dysentery and malaria and cholera, tell those soldiers that they won't feel like having sex at that time.

So, before they all end up in that situation, tell them to become celibate and chaste and focus on saving their country and loving their people. We cannot tolerate the pain of the people of our past, such as POWs in Japanese labour camps in WW2.

I had seen some videos of Russian soldiers fighting in Ukraine, and I saw how each soldier were crying and singing, patriotic love songs for their country, with such passion, and such a zeal that I could say by looking at their tear-stained face, that these simple hearted men, filled with passion and love for their country, and facing such pain and insult from the world, I could see by looking at their face that these men will be the winners.

How can our soldiers win against people who are so pain stricken and suffering and can survive every hardship including starvation and coldest winters, all the while eating rations that expired in 2015

How can our godless soldiers who believe in one life only, be as fearless as those Orthodox Christian men who bring their holy fathers to bless every fighter jet and are happy to become Christian martyrs?

There are several countries in the world against whom no one wins, and those are the Russian nation and the Arab nations: these people's passion and pain never allows them to lose. To fight against them is very much akin to destroying oneself with one's own hand.

If NATO forces ever go into war against Russia, then there will be no NATO countries left in the world.

For the success of our collective civilisation, we must never engage in battle with the Russians, or any nation which is emotional and passionate, and rather, try to diffuse violent situations.

Rules of War:

I know I listed a lot of rules, both for ordinary enlisted men and also for officers, but I have no doubt that if these rules were to be followed to the letter, then you will most assuredly win, not only the battles, but the eventual war. Provided you follow every single rule, you can survive this war and if you can make every single one of your soldiers follow these rules, then you will for sure win this war, even if it is against the whole world.

Every single rule in this book has been deeply studied and thoroughly investigated and then added after reading the journals and interviews and diaries of over 7000 soldiers of World War 1 and 2.

My sister, Kristin Coman, and her friends at the military school, had visited numerous army bases and went to veteran's hospitals to speak and interview men who had served in the battle field and were injured, or suffered from health complications, and in all her interviews, Kristin and her peers discovered that every soldier who were injured or was forced to kill civilians or had to execute a prisoner, were all sexually very active, and as soon as they experienced some sexual acts or thought, they soon fell into a situation where they were wither wounded or had to kill the enemy.

In her book, Kristin Arya Coman, makes it clear that out of the thousands of servicemen and women she interviewed, no one who suffered from an injury was ever celibate, and this made her conclude that sexual promiscuity was directly related to the tragedy of war. My sister Kristin also reported that all her interviewees filled out anonymous survey forms where they gave a precise count of how many times they got injured and also their corresponding sexual habits, and the survey results were obvious: the more a soldier was active sexually, the more he or she fell into tragic dilemmas.

The report also found in their research that a soldier's sexual activity was directly related to their mental health, depression and injury.

However, those who were completely chaste somehow reported that they never had to kill or hurt anyone. The research discusses a young soldier who was studying theology and had hoped to be a priest one day, and so, he abstained from all sorts of sexual activities, and the man claimed he often walked straight into enemy lines in full sight of the foes, but he never was shot or wounded. The celibate soldier also said he accidentally walked over anti-personnel mines many times but it never exploded and he even had IED explode nearby but not one shrapnel hit his body. Those chaste soldiers admitted that in addition to being physically celibate, they never masturbated, nor watched any explicit pictures, and never saw porn in their entire lives, as they chose to become celibate priests since the age of 12 or thirteen. In the current American and Canadian army, among the men Kristin Coman interviewed for her research, those who were absolutely celibate and chaste reported that they were completely healthy and mentally fine.

These researches finally convinced me that there was substance to this theory of celibacy and so, I urge all officers to adhere to these rules of war if you wish to win a war, with zero or minimal casualty.
